THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

Joy of the Sun I am drenched with the joy of the sun. I am drugged with its golden wine. All the beauty and bounty of Earth, All the rapture of living are mine! For I have been out on the hills Where the footprints of man are few. And I have seen sky and fields With a vision grown glad and true. There the gold of the sun shone down And it wrapped in its shimmering well. All the world with a brightness and bliss, With a promise that could not fail! Of the Infinite Fountain of life,

Of the Source of all strength is told. And the message of world beyond world Was borne down on its rays of gold. I am drugged, I am drenched with the sun. I am burned with its kiss; I desire No quendon of gladness or gold Save the sun and its life-giving fire!
