CHURCHES

QUEEN STREET MISSION CIRCLE

The Young Ladies' Mission Circle of Queen Street United church held their monthly meeting at the home of Miss Norma Gagnon on the evening of February 9. Twenty-eight ladies were present, several new members being added to the roll. The president, Mrs. A. C. Kinnee, was in the chair. The meeting opened with the singing of hymn 225, "Take my life and let it be consecrated, Lord, to thee." Mrs. (Rev.) Fiddes led in prayer and all repeated the Lord's Prayer. Psalm 67 was then read by Miss Florence Bailey. All joined in singing No. 174, "The Church's one foundation is Jesus Christ our Lord." The Watch Tower, the reports from the various missions fields were given by Mrs. Charles Moore, Miss Violet Snell, Mrs. L. Giles, respectively. Misses Ellen Hay and Norma Gagnon sang a duet, very effectively, "I'm a Pilgrim and a Stranger." The second chapter of the study book, "New Paths for Old Purposes" by Miss Burton, was taken by Miss Effie Hutton. This part dealt with the Christian Missions in regard to industrial conditions in China and Japan. It was found that in the silk and cotton factories, women and even children of five and six years of age worked twelve and thirteen hours a day, standing five and six hours at a stretch, with day and night shifts, in hot, moist rooms, where hissing, unguarded steel machinery is used for as little wages as ten cents a day. These countries give a challenge to Christianity, which, if not regarded by us, may endanger the peace of the whole world. The Secretary, Miss Sadie Holmes, read the minutes of the January meeting which were adopted. The roll call was next read and responded to by those present. Mrs. Kinnee led in a discussion in regard to the annual St. Patrick's banquet. It was decided to hold this on Friday, March 16, and make arrangements were made to make this surpass all previous ones. Miss Etta Twamley kindly invited the Circle to her home for the March meeting. Hymn 12, "Blessed Assurance, Jesus is Mine" and the repeating of the Mizpah closed the meeting. Mrs. Gagnon and Miss Norma served a bountiful lunch, which, with several choice musical numbers, was much enjoyed by all.

KNOX W. M. S.

Knox W. M. S. met at the home of Mrs. Thos. McGirr on Thursday, February 9th, with the president, Mrs. Mather, in the chair. The meeting opened by singing Psalm 90, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. Committees were formed to make arrangements for the Presbyterian meeting which is to be held in Durham, also for the Day of Prayer on February 24th. Mrs. John Smith read the Scripture lesson followed by the Devotional leaflet by Mrs. Stonehouse. A number of ladies led in prayer. Mrs. Ramage then gave a fine paper from the study book. She also spoke of the racial problem confronting Canada. So many people of different nationalities enter into Canada and the duty of Canadians towards them. The annual report was then taken up by several ladies: Mrs. McHraith spoke of the Publications Department; Mrs. Thos. E. Brown, of the supply Department and Mrs. Stonehouse of the Literature Department. Refreshments and a social time together closed an interesting meeting.

OFFICIAL BOARD MET

The Official Board of the Queen Street church met in the Sunday school room of the church Monday evening of last week. The meeting, mostly of a routine nature, is of no particular interest to the public generally, but it will be good news to know that during the nine months ending December 31 the Maintenance and Extension Fund was oversubscribed and the financial affairs of the church generally found in a most satisfactory condition. A unanimous invitation was extended the pastor, Rev. H. S. Fiddes to return for another year, and the annual congregational meeting will be held on February 29. The matter of forming a Church Membership class was also discussed and was left in the hands of the pastor, who has called a meeting for Friday evening of this week at 7 p.m., the gathering to assemble in the Sunday school room.

KNOX CHURCH AUXILIARY

The Young Women's Auxiliary of Knox church met for their regular monthly meeting in the school room of the church on Monday evening, February 13th. The president, Mrs. Catton, was in the chair. The meeting opened with singing and prayer. The devotional leaflet, "Sharing the Unsearchable Riches," was read by Miss Margaret Lennox. The questionnaire on the annual report was answered by the following members: Organization, Miss Mary McKechnie; Finance and Periodicals, Miss Myrtle Koch; Home Missions, Miss Mary Mather; the Candidate, Miss Margaret Edge; Foreign Missions, Mrs. Duffield. The meeting closed in the usual way by repeating the class text and the Lord's Prayer in unison.

MEMORIAL SERVICE SUNDAY

A memorial service for the late Mrs. Alfred Sharpe will be held in the Queen Street church next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. At the time of Mrs. Sharpe's burial on December 31, the town was under quarantine from small-pox, necessitating a private funeral, and the service next Sunday will give many who would have attended the former obsequies the opportunity to join in a service to her memory.

CHURCH SKATING PARTY

The A. Y. P. A. of Trinity church held a skating party on the rink on Tuesday evening, which was enjoyed by a fairly large crowd despite the mild weather and consequent soft ice. After an evening's skating the crowd was entertained in the rooms where a light lunch was served and an hour's time spent in social intercourse.

MORNING SERVICE ONLY IN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. B. D. Armstrong, pastor of the Durham Presbyterian church, who has been ill and confined to his home for the past several weeks, will resume his duties next Sunday morning by taking charge of the services. He will also preach at Burns church, Rocky Saugeen, in the afternoon. His congregation, however, feel that it will be too much of a strain on him to conduct three services during the day, and as a result the evening service has been cancelled.

HAD GOOD SALE

The Woman's Guild of Trinity church held a most successful sale of baking in the A. Y. P. A. rooms last Saturday afternoon. There was a large collection of baking to choose from, all of which was purchased during the afternoon and evening.

WOMAN'S GUILD TEA

The Woman's Guild of Trinity church will serve pancakes and syrup, cake and sandwiches in the A. Y. P. A. rooms on Tuesday evening, February 21, from 5 o'clock, and also after the closing of the rink at 10 o'clock. A real liberal helping for 25 cents.

GOVERNOR SIMCOE AND ONTARIO PLACE-NAMES

First Executive of Upper Canada Named Counties and Other Features.

Many Ontario place names are due to His Excellency Colonel John Graves Simcoe, Lieutenant Governor of Upper Canada from 1792 to 1796 according to the Geographic Board of Canada. As the first governor of the new province, it devolved upon him to organize it politically and in 1792 he divided it into nineteen counties, which he called Glengarry, Stormont, Dundas, Grenville, Leeds, Frontenac, Ontario, Addington, Lennox, Prince Edward, Hastings, Northumberland, Durham, York, Lincoln, Norfolk, Suffolk, Essex and Kent. With the exception of Suffolk, all these names still survive. The counties Northumberland and Kent are named after the sires and counties along the east coast of England.

Before sailing from England, Simcoe had considered calling the capital of the upper province "Georgina" after the reigning sovereign, George III, but this name was never actually given. On first surveying the situation in Upper Canada Simcoe's intention was to locate the capital where London now stands but owing to obstacles, chiefly the difficulty of transportation, he later relinquished this plan. London, as is shown by the Governor's correspondence, received its present name some time previous to September, 1793. Earlier in the year, the river La Tranche, on which London stands, had become the Thames, and Gatham had been selected as the name of a projected city 18 miles from its mouth.

Simcoe was no respecter of Indian names and under date July 24, 1793, there is mention of the probable seat of government being for a time established at "York", Toronto was thus renamed in honor of Prince Frederick, Duke of York, and the Indian name was not restored until 1834.

Other place-names in the vicinity of Toronto due to Simcoe are Humber river and Don river, named after the rivers of the same name in Yorkshire, England; Yonge street, thirty-two miles long, after Sir George Yonge, Secretary of State for War, a neighbor; and Dundas, after Henry Dundas, Viscount Melville, Secretary of State. All these names date from 1793 as do the renaming of lac aux Claires as lake Simcoe, and the giving of the names Kempenfelt and Cook to bays in the lake. Lake Simcoe was named after Colonel Simcoe's father, Captain John Simcoe of the Royal Navy, who was killed in action at Quebec in 1759; the two bays were named after Rear Admiral Richard Kempenfelt and Captain James Cook, the circumnavigator, both of whom had served with Simcoe's father. At this time, too, Holland river was named after Surveyor-General Samuel Holland and Matchedash bay in Georgian bay was re-named Gloucester bay, after William Henry, son of George II, first Duke of Gloucester, but the name never came into general use. Simcoe himself is commemorated by Simcoe county, which was called after him in 1798, two years after he had returned to England.

THE WASTE-PAPER BASKETS ARE MUCH OVERTAXED

Every day in the week every newspaper in the country is besieged with the free publicity seeker. And it would seem that the bigger the concern the more insistent and larger the demands. Our waste-paper basket is bulged out at the sides caring for these carefully written articles and proof sheets. Recently 67 members of a press association mailed to their secretary the free publicity matter that would have gone into their wastepaper baskets for one week. It totalled 3,140 envelopes containing 7,014 sheets of copy that came from 346 seekers of free space, whom it must cost an immense sum for writing, reproduction and mailing what in 90 per cent of the cases is utterly wasted, for intelligent, experienced publishers are becoming awake to a condition that generally prevails in Canada and the United States. Can business stand this waste in national publicity? Business used to be conducted differently a few years ago. The baker used to use a baker's dozen. The grocer would often throw in something as a little extra on a large order, and the printer would give free advertising on a promise of more to follow. These characteristics are all gone now. The baker and grocer had to discontinue their generosity to meet the cash and carry and chain store competition. The printer can't exist on promises any more. Our local advertising patrons never ask for these concessions. They always expect to and do pay their way for advertising, the same as we buy their goods. They realize that they will willingly pay for it at reasonable rates. But each mail brings articles for "immediate release" and release on certain dates and "telegraphic" items by mail that would fill dozens of pages of the paper. As we said before, our waste-paper basket bulges. Paper, stamps and writers' work are consigned to its care. We fail to find any news interest to our readers in the bulk of it and we refuse to insult their intelligence by trying to play it up to them for news. It's an awful waste and if the money devoted to preparing this stuff were devoted to pay for legitimate advertising, the advertiser would be money in pocket.

BADGES OF SHAME

In Chicago, they are proposing that those found responsible for automobile accidents shall wear badges of shame. The motorist must turn in his license plates and receive another marked with red numerals and this plate must be used for a period of six months.

The plan is worth considering, because of its psychological influence. The careless driver would wear a label marking him as dangerous. Whenever he drove, other motorists would look upon his disgrace. At the end of six months, if he were not a careful driver, it would be because he did not care what people thought of him.

Toronto, according to the report of the City Assessor, has a population of 569,899. During 1927, in Toronto, there were 83 deaths from automobile accidents. From June 1st to the end of the year, 111 drivers were imprisoned for drunkenness. We commend the idea from Chicago to the consideration of the authorities.

First citizen: "Did you tell your wife it was business that detained you last night?"
 Second citizen: "Yes."
 First citizen: "Was she ironical?"
 Second Citizen, exhibiting a bruise: "Was she? Boy, she was flat-ironical!"

Satisfaction in Selection

There exists in all of us a certain amount of Native vanity, in that we feel that our judgment in matters affecting our own requirements is superior to that of a stranger. And this is quite in order and absolutely justified. We know the requirements of our own business as to quantity required; we have, by experience and actual practice, concluded that a certain grade, color or quality suits our purpose best.

In Printing

We have made our choice, and usually know pretty well what we want and how we want it. Co-operation in securing this can best be obtained from the home printer, for it is his desire, in fact his duty, to see to it that he secured for you just what you want, and that he carries this regularly in stock. In the printing, also your wishes can be carried out by consultation and co-operation.

The carpet-bagger, however, will always try to sell many times your ordinary requirements; he will most likely try to work off a job lot of paper. And as for style of work, since there is no chance to consult, and as no proof is submitted, the customer must take it as supplied, regardless of his own ideas.

Therefore, in order to get what you want, and when you want it, in the matter of your printing requirements, consult with

WHY YOU SHOULD NOT OVEREAT

A patient once said to his physician: "Why do you warn many of your patients about overeating? Surely the stomach, liver, intestines, and the other organs of digestion are all the better for working. Because they get so much to do, it much actually strengthen them."

The physician answered: "I advise my patients to refrain from overeating for a number of reasons. If they are young I want to prevent attacks of indigestion with the consequent pain. If they are in young manhood or womanhood, to prevent the above troubles and to prevent overweight. In middle age and older people, because there is so much waste that the blood actually carries some of it to the walls of the arteries, which, becoming slightly inflamed, lose some of their elastic tissue. This elastic tissue is replaced by fibrous tissue, and the vessel becomes hard instead of soft and yielding. This means actual age, because your arteries tell your age."

"But there is one real big reason that I don't tell them about, because they wouldn't believe it, if I did. The more a man eats, the less he wants to work or exercise. This is so true that he'll only get mad if it were pointed out to him." The very act of taking on board more food than you need means that you are going to feel a bit sluggish for a considerable time after meals. (Rest for a short time after meals is quite all right). This sluggishness in itself means that you will have no desire to do manual work or take any exercise.

As you grow heavier, every little bit of exertion means more effort on your part than a slighter person, and so you can save yourself all you can. Every move is an effort, and so you refuse to move. One of the joys of life is eating.

If your food does not look or taste good to you there is something wrong with you, that's all. It is a sign of health to have a good appetite and to be able to enjoy everything that is placed on the table.

The only way any development comes is by use. Your muscles will get no development unless they are used. And so when a healthy fellow eats a great quantity of food, and his muscular system is not worked to use up the food, then the food is deposited in the form of fat in, on, and around the tissues and organs of the body. I wouldn't mind a fellow eating big meals, if he would build them into muscle by exercising or working outdoors. I know he will not do the work, so that's why I warn him of the dangers of overeating."

CARD OF THANKS

R. J. Matthews and brothers wish to thank their friends for kindness shown in their recent trouble. They feel especially grateful to the Ladies' Aid of the Queen Street church who, during the long illness of their sister, the late Mary J. Matthews, were very kind and thoughtful in their ministrations to her comfort.
