DURHAM HIGH SCHOOL OFFICIALLY OPENED

cost of the building and said that the town of Durham had acquired a wonderful building at the price paid for erection.

Dr. J. F. Grant, secretary of the Board, congratulated the town on having secured so excellent a building. His address was of retrospective nature, dealing with the days when he himself had attended school here. He paid a warm tribute to Mr. T. Allan, who taught school in Durham for 31 years. He said he was "one of Mr. Allan's boys and proud of it."

Both Mr. Morrison and Dr. Grant were somewhat handicapped in their addresses, as they, with the school Board, were directly responsible for placing the necessities of the school before the public and having the new addition built. They were very modest, but the public knows and appreciates the great interest they have always taken in the educational advancement of the town and country.

Principal Robb of the High School spoke shortly on the benefit of the new addition would be to teachers and pupils. The Durham school was now up to standard and would receive the full government grant for education. He did not think we are ever likely to have a manual training school here as the town is too small, but it was quite possible that later commercial and agricultural courses might be found on the curriculum.

Ex-Principal Thomas Allan spoke of his experiences as teacher in Durham schools. Had he continued for three months longer he would have had 31 years to his credit. He congratulated the town on the building, and dealt with conditions now as compared with those of the years that have gone.

Dr. J. L. Smith considered the evening "a great event in the civic life of Durham" as with the opening of the building it is now possible for pupils of the town and surrounding country to take a full educational course. He congratulated the town and vicinity and spoke briefly of the advantages to a community of a school such as Durham now possessed.

The address of the evening was delivered by Rev. W. H. Smith, who spoke on the "Influence of Education on Democracy." Mr. Smith referred to the fact that today education is practically free. It is provided by the state for the children, and these, when they receive their education, especially those who are graduated from the universities and higher schools, should gladly give their services to the state without regard for the salary which might or might not be received. In other words, we all owe a certain duty to the state, and those of us who have been fortunate enough to receive an education paid for mostly by the state should return part of it in service for ourselves and our fellow men.

Presented With Watch

To Mr. T. M. McFadden fell the honor of presenting Mr. W. Laidlaw with a gold watch in recognition of his services as inspector of the building of the addition to the school this summer. Mr. Laidlaw did this without pay and the School Board felt that his services, which saved the Board and the ratepayers considerable money, should be recognized in some tangible manner. Mr. McFadden in a neat address made the presentation and in his reply Mr. Laidlaw, in (thanking the Board, referred to the pleasure it had been for him to perform this service. For a similar service when the addition was built to the Public school in 1890 he had received a cane for his services, and he assured his hearers that he appreciated these gifts more than he could express.

Assisting on the programme were the Queen Street church quartette and the Durham Blu-Bell orchestra. After the programme proper the remainder of the evening was spent in an inspection of the new building.

We are very pleased this week to learn that Mr. William Wallace and his mother are quite improved and in soon hope to hear of their recovery.

Mr. Kenneth Kerr returned to his duties again on Wednesday beyond North Bay, where he has a position there in the drug business.

Miss Mavis Snell, east of Holstein called on Mrs. McCabe one day last week.

This is surely a busy time of year for the women, and every woman is hurrying fast as she can to see who can have their house cleaning done first. That is what makes things lively—between that and gardening.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Keller of this place received word this week that their daughter, Mrs. Gibson of Kitchener, had undergone a serious operation for a knot in the bowels.

Miss Maggie McNiece went to visit Paisley friends some time ago. Maggie is taking quite a visit as she has not returned yet.

Last Sunday was Mother's Day and Mr. Jay, our pastor, gave a very interesting and heartfelt sermon, taking for his text I Samuel 1: 27-28 which made each one, no doubt, think of their mother.

Our Star agent here made another trip to Toronto this week for more cars. They say Alf. is a very busy man.

CHURCHES

KNOX W. M. S.

The regular monthly meeting of Knox W. M. S. was held in the lecture room of the church on Thursday, May 10th, the President, Mrs. Mather, presiding.

The meeting opened with a stewardship service of worship from the leaflet "The Earth is the Lord's" after which the Lord's prayer was repeated in unison.

Final arrangements were made for the Presbyterial and delegates chosen to attend same, viz., Mrs. Mather, Mrs. John Bell and Mrs. John Smith.

Mrs. W. H. Smith then gave an excellent report of the meeting of the Toronto Conference Board. She also read a letter re the Hambeuing Girl's school which is in danger of being closed. The Auxiliary decided to take up a collection for same the money to be given to Mrs. R. McFarlane before the end of May.

The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. McGirr.

QUEEN ST. W. M. S.

Queen St. United W. M. S. held their monthly meeting May 10th, in the Sunday school room, with a good attendance. Mrs. Wiggins conducted the devotional exercises. After the opening hymn, Mrs. Groves led in prayer. The Scripture lesson, Corinthians 1, chapter 4, was read by Mrs. M. Wilson. The topic "Stewardship for all Life" was introduced by the reading of a splendid paper by the leader. Life is a trust, not a possession. We are stewards of money, not creators. Receiving a trust and rendering an account are inseparable. Responsibility and accountability are twin brothers.

"The Earth Is The Lord's" a stewardship service of worship in which all took part was interspersed with several beautiful hymns. "We give Thee but Thine Own," "Whatever the gift may be," "All that we have is Thine alone," "A trust, O Lord, from Thee."

Several items of business were now taken up by the president. The treasurer gave a financial report to date which was very encouraging. Closing prayer was offered by Mrs. Wolfe.

B. Y. P. U.

The B. Y. P. U. of Durham Baptist church met at the home of Mr. Archie Beaton on Monday, May 14. The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Moffett and opened with a short song service followed by the Scripture lesson, Hebrews 1: 1-12, which was read by Miss A. Holmes. Miss Moffett then gave a reading entitled "The Choir Sang" and Miss Schaefer spoke on Fanny Crosby and her great hymn "Rescue the Perishing." Misses Mary Beaton and Eva Redford sang a duet, after which short addresses were given by Mr. Griff and Rev. W. Spencer on "The Value of Young People's Societies to the Church."

After the close of the meeting the young people enjoyed a social hour and refreshments were served. A vote of thanks was given Mr. and Mrs. Beaton for their hospitality.

VISITING HERE FROM PENNSYLVANIA

Sand plant, and some of the surrounding country and finally wound up at Dr. Jamieson's park in Egremont. Here Mr. Dippery had his first glimpse of an American bison, and the way these animals behaved they must have known they were on show. They were very quiet, were found in a clump of trees and allowed us to get within a few feet of them. The old bull, now a massive animal, strutted around before us, while the bull calf of two years ago also placed himself on his good behavior. The cow, however, was the best behaved of the lot, and instead of running away when we approached looked for a time as if she was about to charge. The reason was soon apparent. Behind her lay her latest calf, not more than an hour old, and evidently she had determined to protect her offspring at any cost.

We also visited the elk and the red deer and Mr. Dippery was surprised to see how tame the big elk were, and astonished when one of the deer approached us for something to eat, stopping long enough to muzzle our hand. When she found that no "eats" were forthcoming she moved away and would have nothing more to do with us though she remained in the immediate vicinity.

In the course of our ride, during which we came in by way of Darkies' Corners and the Durham Road for the beautiful view of the town a short distance east of the hospital, Mr. Dippery could scarcely find words to express his delight, and informed us that he has already made up his mind to come back next year, but will arrive a little later in the season and stay a month.

Both Mr. Dippery and ourselves were very much surprised to learn that we knew many people in common in Pennsylvania on the line between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. Both of us had worked on the Pennsylvania railroad about the same time, knew the same engineers and railroadmen, and had boarded in the same house at Derry Station, on the main line between Pittsburgh and Altoona. It was in all a most pleasant afternoon, but as Mr. Dippery is to be here for a couple of weeks we expect to have more of them before his visit comes to an end.

Impressed With Country

Mr. Dippery is very much impressed with this part of the country. The beautiful rolling, farming country, the well-tilled farms, and the apparently prosperous condition of the residents of both town and country people were a revelation to him. He imparted the information to us that he never had any idea that Canada was as pretty or as prosperous, and said that he was but one of thousands of Americans who did not know of and could not appreciate the possibilities of this country before. While he is intensely loyal to his own United States of America, and to his native State of Pennsylvania, he told us his present visit so far was one of his most pleasant outings, and that the country around Durham was without doubt the most interesting and beautiful he had ever had the pleasure to visit.

When asked about his trip from Palmerston to Durham on the noon train he smiled and said that was also fine, but it seemed to him that he spent more time sitting at the stations along the way than it took to make the run.

Mr. Dippery would like to secure snap-shots of parts of the country around here to take home with him. These he says he simply must have as evidence, for when he returns to Lewistown and tells them of his trip, if he hasn't anything to back his statements they will brand him as the biggest prevaricator in the big State of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Browne: "I understand my former maid is working for you?" Mrs. Greene: "Yes, but you need not be afraid, dear. I don't believe a word she says!"
