A MISUNDERSTANDING

Last week we published a communication sent in by one of our friends giving an account of the baptismal services recently held by Mr. H. H. Caswell in the river here. We have not got the copy handy at time of writing and cannot compare our introduction with the one in the correspondent's original, but this week we received another communication complaining of our interpretation of the matter.

Our correspondent takes exception to our reference to Mr. Caswell as an apostle of Aimee Semple McPherson and says: "As H. H. Caswell is not an apostle of Aimee Semple McPherson, but a graduate of Los Angeles Bible School as I stated."

The matter is not worth troubling about, but as our correspondent insists that we deal with the matter this week and "make it right" we are forced rather against our will to open the subject.

On receipt of the last communication we made it a point to interview Mr. Caswell, and we found out we were correct the first time. Mr. Caswell IS NOT a graduate of the Los Angeles Bible School as our correspondent seems to think: Mr. Caswell IS an exponent of the doctrine of Aimee Semple McPherson. We have no other proof than Mr. Caswell's own words, and we take it that he, better than some others, should know whose doctrine he espouses.

WORRY CAUSES MISHAPS

A workman at a cutting machine was disturbed over a quarrel with his wife. In a moment of distraction he forgot the knives and a serious accident resulted. Another man, operating a huge press was worrying over a mortgage on his home. Failing for an instant to attend to his job, nearly cost him his life. Looking out the window at a girl who was passing on the street caused a mechanic in an automobile factory to make a costly error which lost him his job.

An analysis of 75,000 industrial accidents, recently completed by H. W. Heinrich of the Travellers Insurance Company, revealed, he says, in Popular Science Monthly, that a workman who is mentally disturbed is as much of a danger to himself and fellow workmen as if he were physically disabled.

LONG-LIVED WIDOWS

The widows of two famous nineteenth century composers, Wagner and Grieg, are still living, though both have, of course, reached an advanced age. It is a singular fact that when composers have married, their wives have nearly always survived them. Many of the great musicians remained unmarried, but amongst those who wed, Mozart died 50 years before his wife, and Schumann 40 years before his widow, the famous Clara Schumann. Weber's widow lived to have his body transferred from his burial place in London in the family vault at Dresden.

CALCIUM NOW THOUGHT A CANCER PREVENTIVE

Dr. Ellice McDonald of University of Pennsylvania, Offers New Theory.

The new theory which scientists hope will eventuate in the control of cancer by increasing the calcium content of the blood was described recently by Dr. Ellice McDonald, director of cancer research at the University of Pennsylvania.

Patients suspected to be inclined to cancer have benefited markedly from an increase of the blood's calcium content through the administration of thyroid gland extraction. Dr. McDonald said:

"A person who suspects that through inheritance he may be a likely subject for the disease of cancer in later life may now be forewarned," the physician declared, "and may be treated for the deficiencies in his blood which are suspected as the cause of cancer."

Attacks Cells
He described cancer as a disease which attacks the body cells, checking every cell activity except that of reproduction.

Dr. McDonald said he had perfected a device which determines the number of hydrogen ions in the blood cells, knowledge of fundamental importance in learning a patient's susceptibility of cancer.

A greater degree of alkalinity, he explained, increases the multiplication of cells and a greater degree of acidity is also found in the blood of cancer patients. Similarly, cancer sufferers have less calcium and ionized calcium in their blood.

"Cancer is a disease associated with alkalinity of the blood and with a lessened amount of calcium in the blood. Dr. McDonald related. These conditions are necessary for the occurrence of cancer and a correction of these conditions is necessary for the benefit of cancer patients."

SOUNDS THAT CLIMB HIGHEST

Recent tests show that the crowing of a rooster, the ringing of a church bell, and, under some conditions, the shout of a man, penetrate almost a mile into the upper air.

A cricket's chirp carries up 2500 feet, and the croak of a frog can be heard at an altitude of 3000 feet. Among sounds produced by living things, a dog's yelp holds the altitude record. It has been heard by balloonists 5900 feet up. The report of a rifle will carry about the same distance.

Of all sounds recorded, a locomotive whistle reaches highest. It has been heard more than two miles above the earth.

"Dad, did you go to Sunday School when you were a boy?"

"Yes, my son, I always went to Sunday school."

"Well, Dad, I think I'll quit going; it isn't doing me any good either."

It is not in a man's creed, but his deeds, not in his knowledge, but in his wisdom, not in his power but in his sympathy, that there lies the essence of what is good and what will last in human life.

"No. Once they threw me to a drowning man as a lifebuoy!"—Meggendorfer Blaetter, Munich.

GRANT-MATHESON

In Chalmers Church, Gould, Quebec, on August 28, at three o'clock, the marriage was solemnized of Ursula Helen Margaret, only daughter of Reverend J. A. and Mrs. Matheson, Gould, to Erastus William, elder son of Mr. Sandy Grant and the late Mrs. Grant, Toronto. The ceremony was performed by the father of the bride, Reverend J. A. Matheson, before the altar which was massed with ferns and pink and white asters.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Kenneth B. Matheson, wore a period frock of ivory taffeta, the bouffant skirt being lined with shell pink georgette. Her only ornaments were a string of pearls. Her tulle veil was arranged over a real lace bandeau with sprays of pink orange blossom, and she carried a shower bouquet of pink and white sweet peas and lily-of-the-valley. The attendants were Master Neil McDonald as ring-bearer, and Master Ian McDonald as page, both dressed alike in white sailor suits. The wedding music was played by Mrs. MacAulay, Gould.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Manse. Mrs. Matheson received the guests, wearing a black floured crepe dress with corsage of mauve sweet peas and black hat. The house decorations were carried out in mauve, pink and white flowers. A buffet luncheon was served, the assistants being Misses Thyra MacAulay, Annie MacKay, Doreen Wood and Mary Buchanan, all of Gould. A toast for the bride was proposed by Mr. John L. McDonald of Ottawa, and responded to by the groom. Rev. Mr. Matheson also proposed a toast to the absent friends of the bride and groom. The house decorations were carried out in mauve, pink and white flowers. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Grant left by motor for the Adirondacks, the bride travelled in a hyacinth blue crepe frock and grey tweed coat with blue wolf collar and felt hat to match. On their return, they will live in New Toronto.

The happiest days of a man's life seem to be in the near future. Fortunately all this talk about various kinds of marriage comes from people too old to marry.

AT JASPER PARK LODGE

Jasper National Park which will be visited this year by members of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association is noted as one of the great show places of the world. With its area of 5,300 square miles, not only is it the largest game sanctuary in the world but it contains the greatest number of mountain peaks. Few of these are below 8,000 feet and Mount Edith Cavell, Canada's mountain memorial to the memory of the British Red Cross Nurse, is 11,033 feet in height.

Set almost in the shadow of the lofty Rocky Mountain peaks and facing Lac Beauvert, which reflects in its glistening water the towering peaks encircling it, is Jasper Park Lodge and adjoining rustic bungalows. Although situated amid scenery noted for its wild and rugged beauty, the Lodge, and adjoining bungalows which are operated by the Canadian National Railways, offer every convenience to the tourist. To those who love the beauties of nature and the great outdoors there is no place in the world which can surpass Jasper National Park. Trails and roads, winding amid spruce and pine through valleys, along rivers and lakes and ascending the slopes of mountains within the park have an aggregate length of several hundred miles—and they are being steadily extended. Some of them were blazed over a century ago by Indians, fur traders and explorers who traversed the Athabasca Valley on their way to and from the Pacific. These, in particular, are historical, almost sacred for many of the men who trod them in early pioneer days have left their imprint on Canadian history. But most of the trails and roads have been constructed by the Dominion Government in order to provide pathways by which tourists may have access, with the minimum of effort, to mountains, valleys, lakes, rivers and other points of interest within the Park.

Lakes—turquoise, sapphire, emerald, amethyst, according to the character of their environment, and mirroring adjacent mountain peaks on their placid surface—are scattered like jewels everywhere. Glaciers, great and small, abound while the Columbia ice field, just outside the park boundaries, out-rivals in vastness and in beauty those found in any other part of the continent, with the possible exception of the Mount Elias ice field in Alaska.
