Traverston (Our Own Correspondent) Too Late for Last Week

Zionites were delighted on Sunday afternoon to have Rev. E. S. and Mrs. Moyer of Smithville. His sermon was a masterpiece—eloquent, touching in earnestness and most choicely worded. Mr. George Kress of town was a guest at the Davis home on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Peart, son Willie and Miss Esther, were over to Hanover Fair on Friday, as also was Mr. G. E. Peart and son Emerson.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bryan had a most enjoyable auto trip to Owen Sound on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy McCrae of Palm-erston spent a couple of days the first of the week with Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Edwards.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Molton of De- troit, who are on a honeymoon trip, were visitors at Mrs. Wm. Firth's one day recently.

Miss Clara Greenwood, nurse-in- training at Owen Sound G. & M. Hos- pital, spent the first of the week at the old home.

It's splendid weather for growing mushrooms but mighty poor for har- vesting buckwheat and sweet clover. To set up the corn sheaves is a deli- ciously drenching job. The heavy frost Sunday night nipped many a patch and blighted many a flower garden.

While rain, sleet and snow skiffs may keep the pastures green, it doesn't ap- pear to the ordinary school boy as a good time to pick the rotten potatoes. Mr. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick of Toronto visited recently at Mr. Will Banks' on the 4th Con. Mrs. Banks returned with them to the Queen City for a week's visit.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Cook and Mr. and Mrs. H. McArthur spent the first of the week with Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Cook, Markdale.

A sad telegraph message came to Herb. Allen on Thursday evening of last week announcing the sudden death of his brother John the previous evening, caused by the big belt flying off his threshing outfit. John was the second eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allen and was born on the 4th Con. homestead fifty-five years ago and grew up to be a splendid type of physical manhood. Some thirty years ago he went West and being both car- penter and framer worked for some years at the trade, settling on a farm at Minnedosa, Manitoba, and was most successful. Twenty years ago he wed- ded Miss Margaret Greer of Alliston, but the happy union was broken by death after being wedded eighteen months. Nine years ago he wedded Miss Mary Abel, who is left to mourn his loss, together with three brothers and two sisters—Joseph of Swift Cur- rent; Herbert on the homestead on the 4th; George near Durham; Mrs. Hir- am Dean (Nina) of town; Mrs. Haw- ley Hawes (Belle) of Meaford. The sympathy of the surrounding neighbor- hood goes out to the kindred so sud- denly bereft. The funeral took place on Friday following, a big concourse being attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Twamley and baby Murray of Welbeck were guests at the McClocklin homestead on Sun- day and attended Zion's service.

Rally Day will be observed in Zion on Sunday next at 2.30. A joint ser- vice of Sunday School and regular ser- vice is to be held.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Matthews and bright family of near Mount Forest came up on Sunday and are remaining for a few days seeing after sale of some livestock, which have been pas- turing on his farm on the 10th Con.

indicates that the incomplete esti- mates compiled by farmers who sought to figure up losses from the frost are more or less substantiated by later re- ports, which place the monetary loss around $450,000.

This Week's News

Rally Day services were held in Zion on Sunday afternoon and evening and were quite successful.

Mr. and Mrs. John McNally of town spent last Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McArthur.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Will Acheson and sons, of near Durham, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Lawrence of Egremont spent the first of the week at the Davis home.

Several from this neighborhood at- tended the Nurses' Graduation exer- cises in Knox church last Friday even- ing.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ellison and son Rob and daughter Lena were visitors early in the week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Timmins and took in the evening service at Glenelg Centre. Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McArthur and Mr. Fred Cook attended the morning ser- vice at the same church and spent part of the day with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beaton.

Glenelg & Priceville (Our Own Correspondent)

We read the Rev. Mr. Armstrong's history on his and Mrs. Armstrong's visit to the old land across the ocean and no doubt it was interesting to me to be again reminded of the old scen- ery of past gone years. If Mr. Arm- strong visited the Highlands of Scot- land and came to that old island called "Mull" he would have seen where my father and mother and many of my old relatives came from and spent their happy days. Probably now where their humble dwellings were are only relics of the past and grown up with thorns and briar bushes. On the first of June, 1830, my father and mother, father 25 years old, mother 22, were joined a few weeks and sailed for the new country, arriving at Toronto on the 1st of September. Toronto was then "Muddy York." We are pleased to hear Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong en- joyed their visit to the land of their forefathers. This brings our thoughts back to the old Township of Vaughan, where we were born and on visiting the old cemetery on the 7th con. at the old Presbyterian church, there we view the old mounds of old friends—grandfather, grandmother, uncles and aunts, cousins and others, the mounds of some of them covered with the growth of 80 and 90 years ago. Going up towards the north then our curios- ity was aroused when viewing the old school ground, but the old log house has been wiped out of existence scores of years ago. I could place the old site where, once, a small boy of 7 or 8 years old, I got my first lesson in the old-fashioned style of the teachers of that far away date. No Saturday holi- days then. Every Saturday was school day as well as the rest of the week. Although young in years I always kept at the head of my class of 8 or 10 pu- pils. A chapter in the New Testament was read. I remember reading when it read that Jesus wept, and casually this verse fell on me. The teacher did not explain to me in the class why Jesus wept, but was only read as a for- mality like any other history. In go- ing back to that far away time my thoughts go back to that time and I find that none of my school mates are to be found in the land of the living. Now none are left who played with me scores of years ago, and I may say with the Psalmist, then I was young, but now I am old, but never forsaken.

The Baptists are to be congratulated on the fine weather they had at their anniversary in Durham congregation lately. If we were able to attend the service we would be there and could give the good preacher the history of his saintly old grandfather who often tramped on foot in the early 50's to the old school house, greeted with good attendance (not all Baptists, but mostly Presbyterians). But the good old preacher was not a selfish one, al- though a good Baptist. The good ser- vant of long ago often walked to Pro- ton when all was bush to perform the marriage rites of some of the new set- tlers. On one occasion when getting footsore and hungry by walking over rough corduroy roads, he called at a new settler's home on the Glenelg side. The good mother was after tak- ing off a big pot of potatoes and trying to hide them from the keen eye of the good traveller. But noticing them he said in a calm manner, "Will you please give me some of those pota- toes." The good mother, not grudg- ingly, but on account of the simple fare for the family, thought not good enough for the weary traveler, but placing a large plateful and probably a cup of milk on the old-fashioned table, the good preacher asked the blessing, and after partaking thanked the good mother for her kindness, say- ing it was the best meal he enjoyed for a long time. This good mother of long ago often entertained many tra- vellers when on their way to Proton bush.

This Monday morning, the 24th of September, is somewhat fall looking. In general the most of farmers are busy threshing. Lots of alfalfa hay is to be cut.

aMny of the Rev. Mr. McCarten's old parishioners and others were pleased to hear him preach in St. Columba church yesterday. Mr. McCarten was a favorite with all classes of people by his gentle manner when meeting them on the street, always stopping his con- veyance to greet those he met on the way.

The School Fair at Edge Hill was quite a success. We congratulate one of Priceville's good girl teachers, Miss Donaldal Nichol, teacher at No. 9 school, in coming out second. One mark more would have made her a tie with Miss McKechnie.

Almost a fall of snow at this place, the 24th September, 1928.

The Rally Day service was held in the school on Sunday last with a large attendance of Sunday School officers and pupils. No. 9 Sunday School was present along with Edge Hill and took part in the services. Many bouquets of flowers adorned the desk and win- dows. Dr. J. F. Grant of Durham was the speaker and held the rapt atten- tion of one and all in his able address on Rallying and Peace. Mr. John Mc- Grr, superintendent of No. 9 Sunday School also spoke briefly. The collection amounted to $5.18.

LATE GEORGE L. HUGHES EULOGIZED BY SPEAKER AT PENNEY CONVENTION

Former Resident of Town Was Pop- ular Official of Well-Known United States Firm

Following is a reference made to the late George L. Hughes by H. A. Han- sen before the J. C. Penney Company convention on Saturday at St. Paul, Minnesota, on September 17 last:

It is a painful duty that falls to my lot today. Nevertheless it is a service of love to pay tribute to my friend and fellow manager in our great or- ganization, George L. Hughes of Little Falls, who died in the St. Cloud Hos- pital as the result of injuries received in an auto accident at Becker, August 27th.

Our friend was born in Canada. In the fall of 1914 he came to the States and entered the employ of the Penney Company at Great Falls, Montana, where I was then employed. After serving as my first man at Anaconda for one year he was sent to Little Falls as manager.

His going is a sad and untimely event as he was but forty-seven years of age. I am glad to pay honor where honor is due. The Penney Company mourns the loss of one of its best men, an efficient and trustworthy leader whose place will not easily be filled.

It is not often nor easily that such a man is found in whom the sterling qualities of character and ability blend with humility and gentleness. His ha- bits were simple and well regulated. He was honest in his thinking, frank and open in his dealings with his fel- lows, and generous in his interest in every good cause. His warm heart had a kindly thought and his open hand a generous gift for every case of need that came to his attention. He was worthy of a large place in public es- teem which he held in his place of residence.

He was at the time of his death act- ing as President of the Chamber of Commerce, active in many fraternal organizations and was a life long mem- ber of the Episcopal Church.

It is a tribute to his going that on the day of his funeral all places of business were closed in token of sym- pathy and respect.

The best portion of a good man's life, His little, nameless, unremembered acts of kindness and of love.

The memory of this fine and loyal brother in business will be an anchor to our souls against storms that wreck in all the days to be.

The business part of the meeting followed in which several accounts were passed and Mr. R. Pad- field was appointed program convenor for the balance of the year. The bal- ance of the program included an in- strumental duet by Messrs. R. Pad- field and M. H. Roy Wiggins and William Moore, and a violin solo by Mr. Ylirs. The main feature of the evening was a talk given by Dr. Grant. As this was the class Rally meeting, he spoke on that subject, and also gave some very interesting instances in which prayers were answered nowadays just as in Bible times. Mrs. Fiddes moved a vote of thanks to Dr. Grant for his helpful talk. After the singing of a hymn, Mr. Fiddes closed the meeting with prayer.

DURHAM ONTARIO

Life Insurance Service and the Canadian Press

Editorials in leading Canadian newspapers stimulate Life Insurance Growth.

Read these unbiased newspaper Editorials which will appear from week to week.

Saskatoon "Phoenix": "It is an interesting fact that no one has lost a cent as the result of the failure of a Canadian life insurance company. There is probably no better indication of the prosperity of the people of Canada than the amount of life insurance carried by them."

Galt "Reporter": "Insurance has become a veritable haven for the family bread-winner. As an investment it is sound as a bank. As a stimulant to thrift, it has no peer. Insurance salesmen have probably done more to create lasting benefit on their clients than any other class of salesmen."

Can you afford to disregard these statements, many times proven true, and not provide the necessary protection for your family should death overtake you?
