

Fined $25.00 and Costs
In Police Magistrate Falconer's court in Orangeville on Monday of this week George Day of Drayton was assessed $25.00 and costs, amounting in all to about $40.00 for a breach of the highway traffic act. Some weeks ago Day overtook a car driven by Mrs. Thomas Sims of Grand Valley between this place and Orangeville and in passing the latter vehicle ripped off a rear bumper and otherwise damaged the car. Without stopping to ascertain the amount of damage caused, the driver proceeded on his way, but was soon overtaken by Mrs. Sims, who secured the license number of the car. The matter was placed in the hands of the provincial police and the prosecution followed. Grand Valley Star.

Roast Goose
Scrub the skin of the goose thoroughly with soda and water or soap and water, rinse, and wipe dry. Fill with stuffing, sew up the opening, and fasten legs and wings close to the body. Place the bird on its back in a roaster and lay a few thin slices of salt pork over its breast. Bake in a hot oven (500 degrees) for half an hour. Then pour off the fat and reduce the temperature to 375 degrees. Cover the roaster, or put one half cup water in the pan and baste frequently while cooking. Cook until tender, allowing twenty to twenty-five minutes to the pound for an old bird, fifteen to eighteen minutes for a very young one. A tough goose will be improved by steaming for an hour, then roasting by the method given above.

Apple Stuffing for Goose
1 quart bread crumbs
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 quart chopped apple
1 cup chopped celery
1 medium sized onion
About 1 cup boiling water
1/2 teaspoon celery salt
1 teaspoon paprika
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon clove
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1 1/2 teaspoon salt.
The bread crumbs should be dry (toast may be used) and rather coarse. Mix them with the melted butter and then add coarsely chopped apple, celery and onion chopped and the seasoning. Moisten with boiling water.

Spiced Apple Rings
(to serve with Goose)
4 large apples
1/2 cup water
Grated lemon rind
3 cloves
2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3 inch piece stick cinnamon.
Core the apples without peeling and cut in thick slices. Mix sugar, water and lemon juice, add the grated rind of half a lemon and the spices. Boil for five minutes and then add the apple rings, a few at a time. Cook them until tender and then remove carefully with a skimmer. The syrup may be colored with red food coloring if desired.

Plum Pudding
2 pounds seeded raisins
1 pound seedless raisins
1 pound figs
1/2 pound citron
1/4 pound preserved ginger
4 cups flour
1 pound suet
2 cups fine dry bread crumbs
3 eggs
1 cup sugar
1 cup molasses
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon allspice
2 cups grated raw carrots.
Cut the fruit with the exception of the seedless raisins, in small pieces and mix well with one cup of the flour. Add suet, chopped figs, and bread crumbs. Beat the eggs until light and add sugar and molasses. Sift the rest of the flour with salt, soda and spices and add. Add carrot. Combine the two mixtures and mix thoroughly. Turn into grease moulds, cover and steam.
Time in steaming 2 to 3 pound moulds, 3 hours; 1 pound moulds, 2 hours.
Recipe makes about 10 pounds.

A La Utah
Some people wonder what the Mormon wedding ceremony is like. It's something like this:
Preacher (to groom): "Do you take these women to be your lawfully wedded wives?"
Groom: "I do."
Preacher (to brides): "Do you take this man to be your sawfully wedded husband?"
Brides: "We do."
Preacher: "Some of you girls there in the back will have to speak louder if you want to be included in this."

HOUSE FLY MENACE TO FINE POULTRY

Is Described As "Intermediate Host of Poultry Tapeworm"

The scientific poultryman of today regards the common house fly as one of his greatest enemies, so much, in fact, that he carefully screens the brooder houses to keep flies away from his chickens.

The house fly, research has shown, is a so-called intermediate host of the poultry tapeworm which causes great loss to the industry. Chickens become infected with this parasite after eating flies, so the poultry man has joined the war against them.

All of which was brought out before the new Jersey Poultrymen's Association in a talk on "Confinement Brooding" by Professor T. B. Charles, of New Hampshire, who predicted that large numbers of commercial poultrymen would adopt the new chick rearing method.

This he described as confining the chicks to the brooder houses where they will have no chance to come in contact with the soil which may be the source of other serious parasitic infestations. Sometimes a wooden or concrete exercise platform of limited dimensions is attached to the brooder house, but this, too, is tightly screened to prevent invasion by flies. The old belief that chickens should be allowed to range in the fields or large yards finds no favor among proponents of confinement brooding.

THE BLONDIN SPIRIT

Daredevilry equal to that of Blondin who walked across the Niagara Falls on a tight-rope, still lives in the famous acrobat's descendants.

Not long ago one of Blondin's grandsons walked across a chain stretched between two high rocks in Cornwall, England, while one of his brothers recently stretched a rope between the tops of the masts of a ship and then walked the rope, although the sea was none too calm.

A great-grandson of the Niagara hero is revealing the family talent at his home at Vancouver. Although only seven years old, he is performing all sorts of tricks on his own account and the day may come when he also will walk across Niagara with a man on his back and make the return journey on stilts.

Automobile makers in America have been advised of the "anti-necking lamp law" in Japan, one of the most peculiar of many governing the operation of motor vehicles in the empire. The recent statute requires that all motor cars must be equipped with dome lights which must be lighted when driving after dark. While the law was designated to protect passengers, it has since been called the "anti-necking lamp law". Unless cars are so lighted at night the Japanese police confiscate them.

He saves

MILLIONS

THIS GENTLEMAN is busy "talking tele-phones to death"—which is merely a way of saying that he is testing their transmission qualities.

He is a worker in the telephone research laboratories. He has a rack of telephone transmitters and a phonograph. He "talks them to death" by means of the phonograph to see whether the transmitters give satisfactory results.

There have been 95 different types of transmitters and 64 different receivers to obtain the instrument you are using today. And men are at work now to find one still better.

IN THE NEXT ROOM another man is using an apparatus which rubs a piece of telephone cord back and forth until it frays.

He is seeking a better cord. He is the man who found that the brown cord in your telephone today wears better than the green cord you used to have. You may not have noticed the change from green to brown but it has saved hundreds of thousands of dollars for telephone users.

That is the business of these gentlemen—to make a better telephone and save money in doing it.

THERE ARE NEARLY five thousand of them at work in the Bell Telephone Laboratories — the largest telephone research laboratories in the world — and the Bell Telephone Company of Canada owns a contract giving access to all the work they do.

That is why your telephone system now has the ingenious device known as the "loading coil" which transmits messages over wires fine as human hair. It used to be necessary to have heavy wires, increasing in size with distance. The heavy wires were costly. The loading coil has saved millions in telephone costs.

The underground cables developed in recent years are another of a score of similar benefits. They have wires to carry a vastly greater number of messages than they used to, but they are so compact and so efficient that they can be pulled through the original underground ducts. If cables and ducts had to be increased in size with the vast new traffic the costs of telephoning would climb sky-high.

THE NEW CABLES, like the brown cord and the loading coil, mean millions of dollars saved. These dollars are dollars in your pocket. Your telephone is being connected with thousands of new telephones across the country every week yet this increased value does not cost you more because costs are successfully offset by the economies which research accomplishes.

The gentleman testing the transmitter and the five thousand working in the laboratories with him are saving money for you every day and keeping the telephone adequate to serve the needs of Canadian progress.

Published by The Bell Telephone Company of Canada to tell you something about the telephone business and the people in it.
