THE COST OF OUTSIDE BUYING

The story is told of the woman bargain hunter who spent 15c street car fare and lost two hours to buy a dress advertised at a sale for $3.98 and who returned home to find that her neighbor had bought a similar dress the day before for $4.00. Bargain hunters are like that. They do not get anything for nothing.

What does it cost you to buy outside Durham? Undoubtedly your shopping trips to other towns are prompted by the desire to save money. Did you ever stop and figure out your savings when you returned from these trips?

Figure your lost time. List your street car fare, gasoline cost, and other incidentals and then figure out how much you are ahead. Perhaps you bought an article one dollar cheaper than you would have paid for it here. However, when you were in the shop in the other city, more likely than not you were convinced to buy something else. How much did you pay for that article, and what would it have cost in Durham?

Support Durham merchants. They have their standard of prices, determined on an honest and fair basis. They do not sell one article cheap that they may overcharge for another. BUY AT HOME—and you will be the winner and your town will benefit by your loyalty.
