BARTHELMESS HAS EXCELLENT CAST IN "SCARLET SEAS"

An exceptional cast supports Richard Barthelmess in "Scarlet Seas" his newest First National starring vehicle which comes to the Star Theatre on Friday and Saturday of this week.

For the first time Betty Compton is seen playing opposite the star, with Loretta Young in the featured ingenue role. Miss Compton has been a star in her own right and has built up an enormous following since her sensational work several years ago in "The Miracle Man". Loretta Young is a young miss discovered by First National and seen recently in the feminine lead with Lon Chaney in "Laugh, Clown, Laugh".

The villainy of "Scarlet Seas" is perpetrated by Jack Curtis, whose evil eye has made him one of the deepest dyed bad men of the screen. The "pious old hypocrite" role of Johnson in "Scarlet Seas" is enacted by James Bradbury, Sr., a character man of popularity both on stage and screen. John Francis Dillon, whose direction of "The Noose" won him plaudits, was responsible for the direction of "Scarlet Seas". The story is an original screen narrative from the pen of Scott Darling, especially written for Barthelmess and adapted to the screen by Bradley King.

A battery of twelve cameras was used in filming the highly spectacular sequences taken at sea and on the Island of Catalina in the Pacific.

few days visiting at Mr. John McMeekin's.

Mrs. Fred Pinkerton and little daughter sailed last Wednesday on the SS. Duchess of Bedford from Montreal, to visit her father in Liverpool, Eng. Mrs. Pinkerton came out as a war bride 12 years ago and this is her first return to her home. Her father has been in poor health and is anxious to see her.

Mr. Arthur McKay is having an auction sale on July 10th. He and family are moving to Toronto and some people from Toronto have purchased his farm and will move up shortly.

Mr. William McLeod, Earl and Donald, motored to Toronto on Sunday. Mr. Findlay Macphail of Toronto visited recently at Mr. John McMeekin's. Miss Jelly of Shelburne visited her sister, Mrs. Ray McLean last week.

Corner Concerns (Our Own Correspondent)

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Poole and son Lorne and daughter Margaret of Buffalo, came over here on Saturday afternoon, visited Owen Sound in the evening and the former would on Monday take a four-hundred mile trip in an airship inspecting the Pennsylvania R. R. air service.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith of Proton visited over the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mead.

Mrs. Arthur Lawrence had a visit last week from her sister, Mrs. George Smallman of Normanby, also her cousin, Mr. Frank Grasby of Neepawa, Man.

Mr. Joe Stephenson took a trip to Toronto last week and brought home a handsome Jersey cow. He is an admirer of that breed of cattle and has now got five pure bred ones.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil McMeekin of Toronto visited friends here last week and fished while in the stream by the old home.

The union picnic with Varney No. 12 and our own school promised to be an even greater success than last year, but the rain spoiled both attendance and plans.

Mr. George Leopard of Artemesia, formerly of this neighborhood passed away at the home of his sister, Mrs. McMillan, near Dundalk last week. It has been his custom for some years to visit the place of his birth and old school mates in this section but the last of his playmates passed to the great beyond last winter, at least all those living in this section, and he has gone to be with them. Mrs. Abigail McLean and William and John Vollett all The Varney Ladies' Aid will meet this Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Earl Mead.

The heavy rains of last week softened the ground and leaves ploughing for fall wheat a comfortable job. The lightning did no damage to buildings but it sure gave one of E. Mighton's cows a wallop and, according to the pronouncement of the attending veterinary surgeon, broke some bones in the shoulder.

There will no doubt be a large turnout from this part to the celebration in Mount Forest, July 12th.

Miss Reta Barbour has been re-engaged to teach for the coming year in our school at a slightly advanced salary and Miss C. K. Morrison will teach at Carhill, having secured a school there.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stephenson on Thursday, July 4, 1929, a son. Road work is now general. The patrol men will this week spend the big part of their allotment.

We were very sorry to hear of Mr. Walter Ferguson having the unpleasant experience one night last week of having his buggy smashed by a car on Varney hill. He has always tried his best to avoid any such occurrence.

Farmers are very anxious to start haying but the weatherman keeps saying best wait a while.

Mulock (Our Own Correspondent)

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Ledingham, Mr. James Ledingham, the former's mother, from Souris, Man., were well come guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. McDonald last week.

Mr. George Brown and Mr. Dougald Hastie took part in the stock judging contest for Grey County held in Markdale Wednesday of last week. We wish the boys success. Mrs. Erwin Brown, Miss Mildred Mighton and Miss Lolitta Mighton were also at Markdale.

Congratulations to Miss Mary McIntyre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Collin McIntyre of Dornoch, on having completed her full course at a Toronto business college and also the winner of the gold medal given for typing.

Mrs. Thomas Torry had a slight operation performed upon her eye in Durham Red Cross hospital on Wednesday of last week. Dr. Bennetto of Guelph was the surgeon. We understand another operation will be performed later. Mrs. Torry's many friends sincerely hope that these operations prove successful.

Misses Service Whitmore and Olive Allan were guests of their aunt, Mrs. Joseph Porter last week.

The B. Y. P. U. members, Sunday school, staff, children and parents enjoyed themselves on Monday afternoon at a picnic held in Mr. Brigham's grove, Allan Park. This was the final gathering of the B.Y.P.U. until the fall.

Mr. John Adlam arrived home on Sunday from Durham Red Cross Hospital where he has been receiving treatment for the past few weeks for an infected hand.

Mr. Dan MacDonald, Guelph, visited over the holiday with his aunt, Miss Hobkirk.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook, Manitoulin Island, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McCaslin, Durham, were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hopkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Henry, Miss Joyce and Master Calvin of Detroit visited with the former's sister, Mrs. Neil McCallum.

Miss Inez Twamley, Durham, is the guest of her friend, Miss Ulva McDonald this week.

The Allan Park U. F. W. O. met this month in the home of Mrs. Joseph Porter. Mrs. George Turnbull, president of the club presided. The roll call was answered by a current event. Questions on citizenship were asked by Miss Gladys Mighton and answered by Mrs. Joseph Porter and Miss Mary Hopkins. A paper "Co-Operative Marketing" was given by Mrs. Fred Torry. The club was pleased to have with them Miss Macphail, who gave an address. Mrs. Turnbull expressed appreciation of Miss Macphail's address and a vote of this effect was moved and seconded by Mrs. Fulton and Mrs. Torry. Little Miss Edna Porter at the close presented Miss Macphail with a bouquet of roses and fern.

The members of the local B. Y. P. U. entertained those from Walkerton on Wednesday evening of last week, when a very pleasant evening was spent. The Walkertonians supplied the programme, while those from Mulock gave the contests and served lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. John McKechnie and Mr. and Mrs. H. Atkinson and son Clarence spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Donald McKechnie.

Miss Gertrude Smith of Detroit spent several days last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Adlam. We were pleased to have Mr. and Mrs. Cameron of Paisley as our guests last week.

Just For a Night Little Lucy had been shown her mother's new evening gown which had only arrived from her dressmaker's that afternoon.

Her eyes gleamed with real feminine approval as her mother slipped the dainty thing over her shoulder for a brief second or two.

"I think it's lovely, mummie," she said soberly. "Are you going to wear it this evening?"

"Oh, no, dear," replied mother. "This is for me to wear when ladies and gentlemen come to dinner."

"Well," returned Lucy wistfully, "can't you pretend that daddie is a gentleman just for tonight?"

50-50 "Half the City Council Are Crooks," was the glaring headline.

A retraction in full was demanded of the editor under penalty of arrest.

Next afternoon the headlines read: "Half the City Council Aren't Crooks."

DEMPSEY WILL FIGHT FOR A MILLION

Jack Dempsey has announced that if any promoter comes along and offers him a million dollars to return to the ring he will take it. He does not say that he expects to win the fight but he observes that if anyone thinks he is worth a million dollars as a drawing card he will be pleased to hear from him. Dempsey is always more or less fit. He works out at the gymnasium every day, but this, he says, is to keep himself from getting fat; rather than to fit himself for a prize fight. He observed to his friend C. William Luncheon not long ago that he probably would have won his fight with Tunney in Chicago if he had trained more lightly and longer. In his desperation to get fit he overdid it and left in the gymnasium that vitality and energy that he should have had when he went in the ring. Proper training, he believes, would have enabled him to go after Tunney and lay him low after the champion arose from that famous long count.

Rates Willard Highly Mr. Duncan asked Dempsey to name the best heavyweight he had ever fought and Jack said promptly, "Jess Willard". It is to be expected, of course, that a prize fighter would say the man he defeated was a better man than the man who defeated him. That is human nature. The implication is, of course, that the Dempsey who defeated Willard was not the Dempsey whom Tunney defeated in Philadelphia, and that is pretty well agreed upon by ring experts. "Willard in his prime," said Dempsey, "would have licked Tunney in his prime without any trouble. He was by far the better puncher and was so much bigger and stronger that Tunney could never have hurt him. And Tunney could never have kept that big fellow with his size and reach away from him because he didn't have the punch to do it." Asked who was the best boxer he had ever met, he said, "Tommy Gibbons," a reply that also agrees with the critical consensus, for Gibbons met Dempsey when he was not far from his prime and though defeated, was not knocked out or even seriously punished.

Dempsey's Favorites The toughest fight he ever had was with Luis Firpo who knocked him out of the ring with a swinging blow that landed Dempsey in the lap of a newspaper reporter sitting beside and below the ring. Mr. Dempsey did not mention the fact, but if Firpo had had a smart manager he would have claimed the fight and probably been awarded it since the rules do not permit a boxer knocked out of the ring to be assisted back by spectators. Firpo was the hardest puncher that Dempsey ever faced. Asked to name the best he had ever seen at other weights, he compiled the following list: Tommy Loughran, light heavy-weight; Jack Dillon, middleweight; Jack Britton, welterweight; Benny Leonard, lightweight; Johnny Kilbane, featherweight; Kid Williams, bantamweight. It is notable that he does not mention Mickey Walker in any of the classes, though he has fought in several of them. One reason may be that Walker is the favorite of Jack Kearns, the former Dempsey manager, who hopes some day to see the snubbed Irishman seated on the heavyweight throne.

Another secret to which Jack made Mr. Duncan privy and which Mr. Duncan in turn reveals to readers of the Philadelphia Public Ledger is that his famous scowl which he used to turn on his opponents as he sat waiting for the bell was mere showmanship. The public liked to see Jack look tough and he obliged to the extent of not shaving for several days before a fight, and glaring ferociously upon the man sitting in the opposite corner.

Aggressiveness Needed But once the fight started there was nothing factitious about the scowl. It was authentic. So was the growl that accompanied it. In all his fights Dempsey was in there to put away his opponent in the shortest possible time. He did not permit his mind to dwell upon moving picture rights which would be much impaired if the fight ended abruptly. He did not make a short fight with Gibbons because Gibbons was too clever, and he did not make a short fight with Tunney because Tunney baffled him. But he was trying all the time. He points out that the weakness of fighters today is that few of them will take a chance. That is what made the Sharkey-Stripling bout so unsatisfactory to the spectators. Both men were cautious. In the mind of each was the thought that a moment's recklessness might lead to his being knocked out. Instead, each should have been determined to knock out the other fellow. Had this aggressive psychology ruled the affair, one or the other would probably have been put away, but the winner would certainly be in better odor with the public than either is now.

He Likes Promoting Speaking of aggressive fighters, Dempsey mentioned Kid Chocolate, who recently fought in Toronto a young fellow whose name does not come readily to mind. In any event, it was Chocolate that he is likely to see. They know that he is like Dempsey in that he does not carry along a weaker man for a certain number of rounds just to give the spectators a treat. He is there to win in a hurry, and in consequence is making money so fast that he doesn't know what to do with it. Dempsey says that he is intensely interested in the business of promoting prize fights. He believes that some of the qualities that made him a successful fighter will make him a successful promoter, although he can scarcely expect to make money so fast. His first essay in promoting was auspicious, for when he took over the Rickard plans for the look over the Sharkey-Stripling bout the Madison Square corporation expected to take a loss of $250,000. Instead, it made $100,000.

Brute Medium: "The spirit of your wife is here now. Do you wish to speak to her through me?" Inquirer: "Yes, ask her where she put my summer underwear?"
