YOUR MERCHANT. Would you live in a town where there were no stores and you had to travel several miles every time you wished to buy some article? Certainly not.

The merchant is necessary in the community. He is your servant. He is a community leader. He supports your schools, churches and civic institutions and gives you the advantage of a market at your very door.

In supporting your merchant you are also supporting yourself. Every dollar you spend in Durham adds to the progress of your town and every dollar you spend somewhere else retards the progress of Durham.

It is a "live town" only because of the support of its residents. If everyone were to suddenly decide to buy nothing here, the town would not last a year. People would move away. As long as the residents continue to support local merchants, the town will prosper. You are a resident. Will you be found lacking?
