Come in & Chat Awhile
—Ruth Raeburn.

- 1 pound fresh chopped beef
1/2 cup cracker crumbs
1/2 teaspoonful salt
1/2 teaspoonful pepper
1/2 to 1 egg
1 teaspoonful powdered sage.
Mix the ingredients and pack quite closely. Have oven hot to sear and partially brown the outside. Then reduce the heat to moderate. Time for cooking, about three-quarters of an hour.

- Beef and Potato Loaf
1 pound fresh chopped beef (part)
2 cupfuls mashed potatoes
1/2 teaspoonful salt
1/2 teaspoonful pepper
2 tablespoonfuls minced onion
A little sage or parsley
1 egg
The potatoes should be mashed when freshly boiled and still hot if they are to have the best texture. If cold boiled potatoes are to be used up in this way, means of avoiding lumps. Mix all ingredients thoroughly using an egg to bind when potato is moist. Mould and bake as directed in first recipe.

- Cold Meat and Rice Loaf
2 cupfuls diced cold meat
1 cupful cooked rice
1 egg
1/2 teaspoonful salt
Grated rind of two lemons
Fine cracker crumbs for coating.
Blend the ingredients well and mould with the hands. Cover the surface with fine cracker crumbs that have been seasoned with salt and pepper. Bake as directed in first recipe for about half an hour basting frequently with bacon dripping, or use sweet milk and butter for basting.

- Veal Loaf
2 pounds minced veal
4 soda crackers
1/2 pound chopped fat salt pork
1/2 teaspoonful salt
1/2 teaspoonful white pepper
4 teaspoonfuls lemon juice
Few drops onion juice
1 egg or 1/2 cup cream.
Mix all ingredients well and pack into mould. If this loaf is to be served cold, it will be very good if cooked in the steamer over boiling water. Allow it about two hours. This is a particularly good loaf in which to mould the hard-cooked eggs, as recommended in the general foreword. Pack your mould to half its depth, then press the whole, shelled, hard-cooked eggs, placing them end to end; fill around them with the meat mixture, then fill up the mould pressing tightly.

- Fresh Pork and Ham Loaf
1 pound chopped lean pork
1 pound chopped ham
1 cupful bread crumbs
1/2 teaspoonful salt
1/2 teaspoonful paprika
2 eggs
1/2 cup milk, if needed
1 cupful strained tomato juice
Mould in a loaf and cover the surface with half a cupful of fine cracker crumbs, seasoned with salt and pepper. Pour one cupful of hot, strained tomato juice into the pan and use it for frequent basting, after surface has been seared. Set this pan into another containing some hot water and bake three hours in a rather slow oven.

Delicate Chicken Loaf
Cut chicken meat from bones and dice it fairly fine. Season with salt, celery salt, white pepper and paprika. Combine with about one-half its measure of bread crumbs. Moisten with slightly beaten egg yolk diluted with milk. About three eggs should be used for a four pound chicken. Mix these ingredients well; beat the whites of the eggs stiff, fold them into the mixture, pack it rather lightly into a well-buttered mould and steam over boiling water for two and a half hours. Or set the mould in a pan containing hot water and cook in the oven for the same length of time.

MISS MACPHAIL'S LETTER

New York City, August 15, 1929.
From a comfortable room in the 17th story of the Pennsylvania Hotel, the roar of the great city comes but faintly to my ears.
What a city! There shouldn't be many automobile accidents, the traffic moves too slowly to kill the jay walkers. I took a taxi to Exchange Place. I thought we would never arrive, but all things end and so did the ride. The return trip cost $3.40 and the driver drew off with four dollars. I find to get change back one needs to use the "Toronto Police" methods. Moral: Have the exact change next time.

we believe that as the one woman representative in the House of Commons, there is a special fitness in your undertaking this duty at the present time.
I wired my appreciation of his kindness but said that I could not accept. The same day I wrote to say that unless a Conservation was also appointed I would not go. I pointed out that the splendid work done by Sir George Foster in the Cause of Peace entitled him to the appointment. I wrote the letter to justify the stand I took and in support of a speech on Parliamentary rather than Governmental representation at the League which I made last session and not with any thought that the suggestion would be acted on.

To my great surprise I received in Clarinda, Iowa, a wire from Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King dated August 7, which reads:
"Cabinet today have appointed Dandurand, Euler and Elliott delegates to this year's assembly of the League of Nations STOP Also the following as alternate delegates Honorable Philippe Roy, Honorable M.P. Saskatchewan, Honorable Sir George Foster and yourself STOP Department external affairs is communicating with you further by letter (Signed) W. L. Mackenzie King.

An alternate delegate marks on one or more Committees of the League sits in at the assembly—but does not vote in the assembly if the delegates are able to be present.
I shall do my best to represent Canadian women worthily. A letter from Mrs. J. A. Wilson, President of the National Council wishing me success in this mission and approving of my going made me very happy.
At 12:01 A.M., the Mauritania sails. She is to arrive at Cherbourg on August 21. I go direct to Frague for a week and will write from there.
Sincerely,
—AGNES MACPHAIL.

Fashion Fancies

Rich Color Needs No Ornamentation

A rich, luxurious color needs no ornamentation. Such, at least, is the idea artistically expressed in the evening ensemble sketched above, both in severity of line and absence of trimming. The pure white satin evening gown forms a priceless setting for the ruby red velvet, collarless wrap. It is cut straight and simply, draping gracefully while falling in a slight flare on one side.

Featuring Curves

Even tweed is endorsing the welcome news that curves are once again being looked upon with favor. This tailored coat dress of black and red mixed tweed makes a decided feature of curved seams. At the same time the effect is emphasized by the circular skirt with wide circular panels. If you would believe it, these smart panels develop a new trick in pockets.

MOTHERS

Most of all the other beautiful things in life come by twos and threes, by dozens and hundreds! Plenty of roses, stars, sunsets, rainbows, brothers and sisters, aunts and cousins, but only one mother in all the wide world.—Kate Douglas Wiggin.

ONTARIO MEETS YOUR HOLIDAY NEED
