HYMENEAL

BRAUN-ASHTON

Mr. George McKay of this town has just received word from King George, Va., of the marriage at that place on February 12 of his nephew, Lieut. Boynton Braun to Miss Mary Lewis Ashton. The wedding was solemnized in Old St. Paul's church, St. George, and was a military ceremony, the groom being a Lieutenant in the United States navy. While not generally known here, Lieut. Braun has at different times visited with his uncle, Mr. and Mrs. McKay in Durham. The young man is a son of the late Mrs. Braun and Mr. E. A. Braun of Lorain, Ohio, the former a sister of Mr. McKay.

DUNSMOOR-HART

A quiet wedding was solemnized in Oshawa on Friday, February 28, by the Rev. Maxwell at St. Andrew's church manse when Miss Dorothy Hart, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Webster Hart of Carrying Place, Ont., became the bride of Mr. Jack Dunsmoor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell Dunsmoor of Durham, Ontario.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Hart of Carrying Place and the groom by his brother, Mr. Roderick Dunsmoor, of Durham. The young couple will reside in Oshawa after a short honeymoon to Eastern points. On Saturday evening friends and neighbors gathered at the bride's parental home and held a reception in honor of the young couple.

A three-gun man was arrested in a United States city the other day. Probably another result of the modern merger trend.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

Tonsils Out; Now Her Temper's Gone

Says Miss A. C. Macphail, M.P., In An Address at Ottawa.—Wants Government to Provide Relief for Goitre Prevalence in Grey County.

"It's funny what a difference just a few hours make" was a popular song a couple of decades ago, but it has nothing on the difference that the removal of a couple of tonsils can make in a person's disposition if one is to believe Miss Macphail, the member for South Grey in the House of Commons. In her speech Miss Macphail is reported to have said: "Certainly I can speak with assurance in the matter of temper. My temper has improved greatly since I had my tonsils out." No doubt instead of going through the country with a flaming sword seeking whom she may destroy, Miss Macphail, sans tonsils will now more than likely travel as the dove of peace, pouring oil on the troubled waters. And all on account of a couple of tonsils!

Miss Macphail was speaking to the resolution introduced by Henry Spencer, M.P. for Battle River, who suggested that the Government should consider making grants to the Provinces equal to the cost of establishing and maintaining such full-time health units as might be organized. She referred to the prevalence of goitre in counties like Grey, bordering on the Great Lakes, where, due to the lack of iodine in the soil and constituted a "goitre zone" was taken as an example of a condition that could be eliminated by preventive measures.

CLUBS HAVE IMPROVED QUALITY LIVE STOCK

Canadian National Efforts Among Farm Boys and Girls Show Satisfactory Results.

How potent a factor the boys' and girls' livestock clubs of Canada have become in bringing about general improvement in the entire livestock industry, is revealed in a recent review of the operation of these clubs made by the agricultural department of the Canadian National Railways, which for six years has been fostering the work of the clubs by annual dominion-wide competitions. When this policy was first inaugurated six years ago, by the railway company, it involved only the boys and girls' swine clubs in the three prairie provinces. A year ago last fall, when the policy was extended to include calf and cattle clubs, there were 60 swine clubs in operation in five provinces under the joint federal-provincial policy, with more than 2,000 members. The inclusion of the calf and cattle clubs brought in 2,000 more members. Last fall, every province in Canada was represented in the livestock club contests, and more than 5,000 boys and girls of the farms had become involved in the livestock club work.

The effect of the swine club work is seen in the fact that in districts where these clubs have operated, the percentage of "select" hogs marketed, has reached in some cases as high as 70 per cent compared with a general average of only 12 per cent for the dominion. A car lot of "club" hogs from the west, for the second year in succession, won the Canadian championship at the Toronto Royal fair, last fall.

While there has been a falling off in the number of swine clubs, the past year, this is accounted for by the fact that they have been replaced by senior organizations carrying on the work on a broader basis, which is one proof of the value of the work done by the boys and girls. The development of the calf club work has been pronounced. There are now 170 of these clubs with a total membership of 3,700, the majority in Quebec province, where dairy calf clubs have had an amazing growth. In districts where clubs have operated, the whole status of the farm dairy herd has improved, with greatly increased production per cow.

The work among the calf clubs has had another significant outcome this year, in the selection from the Canadian National Railways contests of the first team for Canada to compete in the international cattle judging contest in Great Britain this coming summer. This has been done in co-operation with the federal department of agriculture. The team goes overseas in June, the competition being held in Manchester, England, early in July. Three countries are to compete; Canada, United States and Great Britain.

The operation of lecture trains through the farming communities has also been a considerable factor in bringing improvement to the agricultural industry. A review of this feature of the work shows that in 1928, in which year the Canadian National Railways co-operated in the operation of farm lecture trains in five provinces, there was a total attendance at the lectures and demonstrations of 38,000 farm people. In 1929, the railway company co-operated in the operation of three lecture trains, which had a total attendance of over 16,000. In Ontario, special attention has been given by these trains in two successive years, to a better seed campaign. As a result, the year 1929 found some 125 community seed cleaning centers in operation, some of these cleaning as much as 15,000 bushels each in a season. The resultant improvement of production through better seed has been notable. This year the Canadian National is co-operating already in the operation of three trains, one in Manitoba, featuring sheep production, one in British Columbia featuring general agricultural subjects and one in Ontario, where soils and crops are specially dealt with.

WHY GARNETT FILMED STORY OF "THE SPIELER"

Tay Garnett, Pathe director, says he wanted to film a story with a travelling carnival locale ever since a business man of his acquaintance confessed that he invariably stole away from the office for at least one afternoon, when a tent show came to his neighborhood. "It makes me a boy again," the dignified pillar of commerce confessed to the young director.

"The Spieler," a talking Pathe picture deals with the war between a young woman who has inherited a carnival from her father and the crooks who have installed themselves in some of its most important posts. The picture will be at the Star Theatre on Monday and Tuesday nights. Renee Adoree and Alan Hale have the leading roles in this charming feature with Clyde Cook, Fred Kohler, Fred Warren, Jimmy Quinn and Kewpie Morgan giving important characterizations.

Police of Canada and States Enlist Auto and Radio for Crime Detection

Upper picture shows Provincial Police of New Brunswick taking delivery of Ford sedans for service with outposts of the Moncton district. Below are six additional cars which increase the fleet of the Customs Excise Preventive Police to 78. In the circle is one of the fleet of radio-equipped Fords used by the Detroit police force.

CANADIAN police are incited among those officials who believe that the mental effect of quick capture is a powerful deterrent to crime. With the advent of the telephone, the morale of law offenders began to weaken and the arm of the authorities was strengthened. Now comes the automobile as an accessory in crime-chasing and detection. And to it, in various cities of the States, is being added the advantage of radio communication with central headquarters. The Provincial Police of New Brunswick are using a fleet of Ford sedans for service with outposts of the Moncton district with Police Sergeant Nicholson supervising their operation. The total fleet of the same type of car in use throughout the Dominion by the Customs-Excise Preventive Service has been increased recently to 78. These cars are used for border patrol work along the Canadian-United States boundary.

They are operated over all kinds of roads and in all kinds of weather and temperatures. Records of performance have caused the service to standardize on this one type of Canadian-built car. It is the experience of police officials in all parts of the North American continent that the sedan type of car proves the most dependable and adaptable for police needs.

"Shock" Service in Toronto "Shock troop" service is the use that Toronto police make of 25 Fords. A car is allocated to each district station and is in readiness at all times for cases that demand quick action.

Chief of Police C. H. Newton, of Winnipeg, is among those who find added service in the availability of police cars. "The new fast, light car is admirably adapted to police work," he writes, adding: "I believe that before long they will supersede the motorcycles which are now being used for the purpose of regulating persons who drive recklessly."

Close cost statistics were kept on two Ford sedans used by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police between June 2 and August 31, 1929. One was driven 3955 miles at a cost of $4,022 a mile and the other 3184 miles at a cost of $3,024 a mile. The first did 20.39 miles per gallon of gasoline and the second 19.23 miles. Repairs cost $14.65 for the first and $10.95 for the second. In the United States, Detroit and other cities have gone a step farther and equipped motor fleets with radio, so that information may be sent to them while they are in motion. Secrecy is maintained by the short wave lengths used by the police broadcasting stations. Since last April, more than 1000 important arrests have been accomplished in Detroit alone within three minutes from the time the warning was broadcast. New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and other cities have large motor fleets of "handicapped."

Tomorrow's Gifts

Oh, do not cling too closely To joys that pass away, Tomorrow's gifts will be as dear As those you prize today! Tomorrow's tasks will bring their fruit Of gladness and content In measure just as brimming full As any time has sent. Tomorrow's friends will be as kind, Tomorrow's hopes as high, So do not see today depart With any doubt or sigh. Bid welcome to each good that comes, Each happiness and cheer, Yet learn to hold no single hour Of all time brings, too dear. And trust tomorrow, while you glean Fresh wisdom on your way; The good it brings will be as great As that you gain today!
