STATIC ELECTRICITY CAUSES THRESHING FIRES

$100 fine in case of an offense, instead of a $20 maximum fine as at present in the Act. Mr. Eilber said the purpose of his bill was to use the threshermen decently, protect property and oblige the farmer to look after his own interests when employing work done.

The draft of a new bill prepared by an officer of the Attorney General's Department was then presented to the meeting. This proposed bill provides for licensing both the manufacturer and the operator of threshing machines. Moreover, it empowers the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council to make regulations regarding appliances used on the machines for fire prevention, kind of fuel used, locations of machines and engines when threshing and all the other factors involved in fire prevention.

The draft of the bill provided for a $25 license fee for each type of machine and $5 for the first license taken out by the machine operator. There was no enthusiastic support for this bill when Fire Marshal Heaton asked the audience to support the principle of it by a show of hands. It developed later in the discussion that those in attendance did not object to the principle of the bill, but they did object to using the licensing principle as a means of raising revenue. With the revenue-producing feature of the bill eliminated it was no longer objectionable. A committee was then named to confer with the Fire Marshal in the revision of the old Act and the preparation of a bill for presentation to the Legislature. On this committee the manufacturers are represented by A. M. Snider, of the Waterloo Manufacturing Company, Limited, and Hamilton Bingle, of George White & Sons, London. The Threshers' Insurance Company is represented by John Houston, Chatham, and the Thresher Operators by E. S. Downs, Shedden. The Mutual Insurance Companies are represented by Henry Eilber, Hay Township, and Foster Moffat, Teeswater, and the Line Companies by A. W. Goddard, Secretary of the Canadian Fire Underwriters Association and A. K. Woolley of the Hartford Insurance Company. Professor W. C. Blackwood is a member of the Committee as consulting engineer.

Some interesting discussion developed when the Fire Marshal asked the Insurance Company representatives how they could make new and up-to-date legislation applicable to the situation in so far as the insurance companies are concerned. "We have the law now," said L. E. Peterson, representing Ayr Farmers' Mutual, "but we haven't the backbone to enforce it. If we forced policyholders into the ditch as far as the law would permit, 25 to 30 per cent of the claims could not be collected—but we don't do it," he concluded. Howell Smith, of the Wawanesa Mutual said: "We don't stand on technicalities, but we don't pretend to take money away from careful farmers and give it to the one who has suffered loss through his own carelessness and we have never lost any business by adhering to that policy." Professor Blackwood wanted to know what provision the mutual insurance companies made in their policies for the man who will back his tractor into the barn when it is backing terribly. When a fire starts from such a cause it is 90 per cent carelessness. This summer he saw a man throw a horse shoe on to the load in order to take it to the barn. Another workman warned him, but the shoe was forgotten and it went through the machine causing sparks and mechanical damage. "Would you pay claims like that?" Professor Blackwood wanted to know. After considerable discussion the meeting gave its endorsement to the proposal that there should be a standard form of application and standard form of policy throughout Ontario in all companies insuring agricultural property.

Hold Farmers Responsible
The following suggestions were forwarded to the Fire Marshal's meeting from the Cullross Mutual and presented by Foster Moffat:

1. Hold farmers responsible for the conditions in and around the engine while operated.
2. License the thresher and inspect outfit by a government inspector.
3. Liability insurance for the thresher along lines of financial responsibility.
4. Thresher to be compelled to carry fire extinguisher, and to have the outfit properly manned.

Waterloo Mutual Blames Matches
We, the Directors of the North Waterloo Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company, here assembled at our monthly meeting, seriously view with alarm the unusual number of losses on houses and barns that have taken place in the rural sections of Ontario, and more especially since the season's threshing has been in progress.

We feel that the old steam power has served its purpose, and should be forbidden, unless the farmer carries part of his risk at the time of his threshing. Actual facts, and experience of the last few years, prove beyond any doubt that the match and the careless cigarette smoker is burning up every year more than 25 per cent of the premiums collected, and something will have to be done and done quickly, if the mutual companies of Ontario are to give its policyholders the present low rates.

Investigations made quite frequently, where fire has come from the straw blower, show that the match was the cause.

We, therefore, would place on record our strong approval that the farm mutuals at their meeting on October 10 at Toronto, find ways and means to add to the statutory conditions of the Insurance Act a clause or clauses forbidding the carrying of the old-time match, or of smoking in or around farm barns or out-buildings.
