Old-Time Yuletide Glories Return

One hundred years ago the Lord of the old Papi-neu Seignory, at Montebello celebrated Christmas in the good old-fashioned way, surrounded by his family and dependents through a series of festivities lasting several days. The Yule-log crackled in the great fireplace; the merry voices of men and maidens rang through the great halls of the manor house; carols, so old that the origin of some of them was even then untraceable, were sung; bright garlands of evergreen decorated the apartments and corridors and — in a word — Christmas was King. Then, for a century, the song of the minstrels and the laughter of the guests was hushed and only the falling snow told the historic seat of the Papineaus of the advent of the Christmas season. This year, however, Lucerne-in-Quebec has stretched its magic wand over the historic site and the ancient glories are to be revived, on a scale which will outlive all their predecessors. With the Log Chateau as headquarters, 85,000 acres of beautiful countryside will be thrown open to visitors to the unique hostel. Bob-sleighing on one of the longest runs on the continent; ski-ing; ski-joring; ski-jumping; skating; snowshoeing and dog-sled drives will be offered to the devotees of winter sports, while the most complete comforts and appointments of up-to-date hotel-keeping; good food and bright entertainment will await the guests at close of day. Among the special features arranged for the Christmas festivities are the rendering of carols by the Children of His Majesty's Savoy Chapel Choir (London, Eng.); old-time songs by Charles Goulet's troupe of French-Canadian artists and the interpretation of Tudor dances by experts from the Margaret Eaton School of Dancing. Thus, once again, will the old walls of the historic mansion hear the strains which roused them to Christmas celebration a century ago, and before that, Lucerne-in-Quebec is ideally situated, on the northern bank of the Ottawa River, about half way between the Canadian Capital and Montreal, and only an overnight run from the great cities of the Eastern United States.
