MISS MACPHAIL'S LETTER

and the putting of this life saving metal on the market at the lowest possible cost. Only 300 grammes of radium for medicinal purposes is available in the whole world. It is used in the treatment of cancer. 95 per cent. of all radium is found in the Belgian Congo. The wholesale price of it is $50,000 a gramme, retail $70,000. General McRae gave some very interesting statistics in regard to cancer and its treatment by radium; he quoted a Philadelphia authority for the statement that 960 grammes would be needed in United States if all the cancer cases there were to be treated with radium.

At Great Bear Lake there are three veins of radium running out 1,400 feet and a fourth vein is indicated. General McRae believes that a carload a day of the ore could be mined and should that be the case, in a year the Great Bear Lake deposits could produce 1,800 grammes. The Department of Mines of the Federal Government estimate that it would cost $10,000 a gramme but the General believes that it could be done for a little in excess of $5,000.
