IS HONEY WORTH BUYING?

Is honey worth buying?—Most decidedly yes! And in these times of depression perhaps the best arguments for buying honey lies in its cheapness. Honey, from the standpoint of food value, and at present price levels, is cheaper than almost any of the everyday articles of diet...

Back Les Canadiens For N. H. L. Title

'Packster' in Chicago Referee, Gives Advance Opinion on Different Teams in Big Circuit—Toronto Maple Leafs in Second Position.

Les Canadiens resume their traditional place as the main threat in the National Hockey League race and are selected by the writer to capture the 1932-33 crown. That despite the fact Toronto is quoted as the pre-season choice of both gamblers and critics...

The hockey season, which opens on three fronts Thursday night, is not expected to prove profitable for more than two of the nine clubs. It is estimated that receipts for the '32-33 campaign will fall nearly $200,000 short of last year's mark and the total is figured at $2,700,000.

Joseph Cattarinich and Leo Dandurand of Canadiens should enjoy another Flying Frenchmen are practically sold out at home and are assured of other wave of prosperity in Montreal...

Chicago receipts will fall off considerably with the Black Hawks transferring activities to the Coliseum. It is predicted freely that Major McLaughlin will go into the red...

The following review gives a true line on the nine teams:

CANADIENS—Injuries worked havoc with Canadiens last winter but Pit Lepine, Morenz and Joliat are in fine fettle and new blood injected in the forward line promises to more than offset the departure of Wasnie...

TORONTO—Dick Irvin's high scoring machine hopes to make it two in a row. It is doubtful if Chabot can continue the stellar work in the net of last year...

BOSTON—Look for an improved Bruin machine. Nels Stewart and Joe Lamb are valuable additions to the already formidable array of stars in Boston toggerly. Here is the real dark horse...

RANGERS—Lester Patrick's squad must be adjudged as good as last year. Heller figures to become a star and Siebert adds punch to the forward line...

MAROONS—Eddie Gerard is one of the best leaders Maroons ever had. Despite the loss of Stewart and Siebert, the Montreal team will be right up there. Several newcomers have shaped up well...

DETROIT—May need a season to show true form. Youngsters obtained from Chicago have great promise and lack only experience. Much depends on John Ross Roach...

CHICAGO—McLaughlin turned his best defense man loose in Wentworth and Gardiner is not expected to do so well in the Coliseum. Too much meddling by a self-thought 'master mind'...

OTTAWA—Lacks reserves strength. Kilrea, Finnigan, Welland and Smith can play on any team but the Senators will be lucky to beat Americans...

AMERICANS—Same old story—Worters and Dutton. Americans should give Ottawa a race for the cellar and that is about all.

AN OBLIGING STUDENT

The English class was assigned the task of writing four lines of dramatic poetry. One indolent youth wrote: 'A boy was walking down the track. The train was coming fast. The boy stepped off the railroad track. To let the train go past.'

THE WOMAN HATER

—By A. M. in London French—

Mr. Testament was a woman-hater, and he had been born like that, because his mother had been frightened by a cook who had got tipsy and thrown a saucepan at her when she had given her notice...

Well Mr. Testament had to go to Borneo or Madagascar or one of those places on business, and there were several women on the ship, but he had told the purser that he was a woman-hater and should complain if any of them spoke to him...

Well the ship was wrecked in a typhoon or monsoon or one of those things they have in those parts and everybody was drowned except Mr. Testament and Miss Lull who were thrown up on a nice island where there were yams and bread-fruit and pawpaws...

Well, Miss Lull was rather offended because she knew she was quite pretty and she thought she might cure Mr. Testament of being a woman-hater, as she would have him to herself on the island for some time...

Well, it was very dull for Miss Lull on the island except when some things were thrown up from the wreck and once there was a box which she managed to open and it was full of hundreds and hundreds of silk stockings, and she tried them all on...

Well, of course he wouldn't have done that if he had been quite himself, but he didn't find it so nauseating as he had anticipated, and when he felt better he was able to thank her, without feeling too squeamish, for watering his face...

side of the island. So then Miss Lull burst into tears and said I do think you are unkind, I am so lonely on my side of the island...

And Mr. Testament said well I did talk to a woman once about two years ago when I couldn't get out of it without being impolite, I found I could support it if I kept my eyes shut the whole time, very well I will.

So he built Miss Lull a nice hut, and they had some agreeable conversations together, and they didn't always agree but Mr. Testament got quite to like Miss Lull and sometimes wondered what she looked like, because he hadn't looked at her since he had come to from being stunned and found his head in her lap...

And then one morning she said she had a fly in her eye and he simply must take it out because she couldn't do it herself. So he controlled his squeamishness and looked for the fly in her eye and he could not find it, but he went on trying to and was surprised to find he liked doing it...

Well that very afternoon a ship hove in sight, and Mr. Testament tied his shirt to a bamboo stick and waved it and presently a boat came and took him and Miss Lull off, and the passengers made a great fuss of them and lent them clothes and treated them to champagne.

And when the captain of the ship told Mr. Testament that he had better give it out that he was engaged to Miss Lull, so as to save talk, because it looked fishy their being on an island together without a chaperon, he gave it out willingly, and Miss Lull didn't contradict him.

IN MEMORIAM

Long.—In loving memory of my dear son George, who died November 14, 1931. God knew that you were suffering, And the hills were hard to climb, So He closed your weary eyelids, And whispered "Peace be thine." When days are dark and friends are few, Dear son, how we miss you; Friends are friends when they are true, But we lost our best friend when we lost you. Sadly missed by mother, brothers and sister.
