TRUCK DRIVER WINS ARGUMENT WITH COP

Cop Retaliates With Double-Barreled Summons.—Driver Gets Off With Faying Costs.
When Tom Conolly, driver for the Dirstein Transport Co., of Chesley, "double parked" the truck near the centre of the main street in Walkerton a short time ago, while he stepped into a store to enquire where he should unload the goods he was delivering to a Walkerton merchant, he was spotted by Chief Ferguson and when the cop ambled up and told the driver he was breaking the town by-law of the vintage of 1917 a heated argument ensued.
Connolly informed the zealous guardian of the law that he was within his rights as a decision of the Court of Appeal of Ontario had recently quashed a judge's conviction in a double-parking case and he refused to back up an inch. As a result of the debate the irate Chief laid a charge of obstruction and the case was heard before Magistrate Walker in Walkerton, on October 24.
However, the Chief had probably read about the Mounties always "getting" their man and he also laid a complaint of "dirty markers" if the obstruction charge didn't stand the test of a court action.
Of course the sleuth's original charge petered out but with the "dirty marker" charge ready to be pressed, Connolly agreed to pay the costs of the court $4.25 in all, without a conviction being registered.
Tom undoubtedly incurred the ire of Walkerton's big shot in refusing to back down when he knew he was in the right and the "dirty marker" charge looks like a case of "small potatoes". With the gravel roads in a muddy condition all fall due to the heavy rains muddy markers have been the rule rather than the exception in all the towns of this district without action being taken by the various police, local or otherwise. We are certain many cars had dirty markers the same day but failed to note any charge being laid. The whole affair savors of "small town" tactics. No mention is made as to what extent the Walkerton lawman benefited as a share of the $4.25 costs and we wonder if they were sufficient to salve shi ruffled feelings.

Well-Oiled Machinery Issue Government Bonds

Success of Dominion Government Loan Assured and Montreal and Toronto Offices Busy—Interim Certificates Being Issued.
Officers of the assistant receiver general of Canada in Montreal and Toronto were reported to be moderately busy in issuing interim bonds of the new Dominion Loan. The real rush, it is said would not come for several days when the thousands of individual applications from private investors begin to reach the government offices.
Last year for the National Service Loan, there were 109,000 individual applications, which involved an immense amount of detail for the branch officers of the receiver general. On that occasion, the rush came at the end of the first week and tapered off gradually as the flow of subscriptions from outside points were filled, in view of the fact that the total amount of bonds to be issued is not nearly as large as the $221,000,000 National Service Loan.
While the sales of both short and long-term bonds have been coming steadily to date, it was pointed out that these subscriptions were principally those of the largest investing institutions.
"It is the individual application which involves the detail work," said the office manager of one bond house, "both for the bond house and for the assistant receiver general. The institutional investor who buys, say, $600,000 of these bonds does it in one transaction which is handled with little more detail than is a transaction for $500 bond. Yet it takes the subscriptions of some hundreds of small investors to make up a million of bonds."
Machinery of the Department of Finance had been so well oiled that the interim bonds were being delivered according to schedule on Tuesday morning although the sales did not begin until Monday. The procedure is that bonds paid for by certified cheque on one day are delivered at 9 o'clock the next morning. It was intimated that the department of finance expects to maintain this schedule regardless of any rush of applications that may develop.
The bonds which are being issued at present are merely interim certificates printed. In due course—or in from three to six months—engraved "definite" bonds will be issued in exchange for the temporary certificates which are now being issued.
There are no figures available as to the approximate volume of business done in each office but it is understood that Montreal and Toronto handle more of these transactions than do other offices further from the financial centres.
A mother was discussing with her daughter the qualities of men. "Oh," said the daughter impatiently, "but they have no self-control!" "All the better," replied the mother. "If they had, there would be a great many more spinsters."

Jim: "I don't mind looking after your horses, but I don't want to be called the hostler."
Tom: "Oh, that's all right—I'll call you our stabilizer."

THE USE OF WATER IN CROPS
One of the most interesting studies about nature is the part water plays in the development of plant life, practically all plant life being the result of the "transpiration" of water drawn up by molecular action, induced by the sun in plant structure, from the ground, carrying in solution the nutrients which are transposed by chemical action in contact with air and its elements into the various forms of plant structure.
Studies carried out at the Dominion Experimental Station at Swift River, Sask., since 1922 show that it takes from 869 pounds to 1351 pounds of water to produce one pound of Marquis wheat; 753 pounds of water is utilized in the production of one pound of oats, while it takes 810 pounds of water to produce one pound of barley; and 1328 pounds in the production of one pound of spring rye.
In connection with the production of other crops it was found that it required the transpiration of as much as 1593 pounds of water to produce a lb. of alfalfa; 1108 pounds of water to produce a pound of white sweet clover, and from 260 to 377 pounds of water to produce one potato (tuber); 566 pounds of water were required to produce one pound of tumbling mustard; 529 pounds of water were used in the production of one pound of stinkweed; and 206 pounds of water were used in the production of one pound of Russian thistle.
The results of the studies referred to are summarized by classification into three main groups: corn potatoes and Russian thistle are produced with a minimum transpiration of water; a large group containing whole grains use a greater quantity of moisture; while grasses and clovers are relatively extravagant in the use of water.
The application of this information is pertinent to the district in which the farmer resides, particularly in areas where the moisture supply is deficient. Because of its relatively low consumption of water, corn will produce a greater amount of fodder than grain crops, and considerably more than grass or clover crops with an equal amount of available water.

OLD TRAVEL PROBLEM SOLVED

POINTS ON HOG FEEDING

The big thing for the hog feeder to keep in mind, according to the Dominion Animal Husbandman at Ottawa, is "the feeder needs the frame but the packer wants the finish"; and the ideal type which sells as the "select" bacon hog must have both. Grow the frame first. Never feed more than pigs will clean up; overfeeding, particularly of heavy or unbalanced rations, causes unthriftiness which in turn is the common cause of short, thick pigs. For the first four months the pig should clean his trough and look for more.

A very appropriate service on Sunday when our pastor spoke on "Love" and made special mention of those who fought for home and country in the Great War. Some came home sound in body but how many sleep in Flanders fields, and others disabled. May we remember their sacrifice for us. "Lest We Forget". Mr. Honeyman had a good talk for the young people, and an interesting story of a man who gave his life for his friend, and referred to our Prince of Wales, who is loved by his people, because of his love for them. But far greater than any earthly king is the Prince of Peace, who gave His life on Calvary that through Him we might have life everlasting. "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends". The choir sang "More About Jesus."
