FLESHERTON.

Fifteen months or so ago Mr. Wm. Petch, of this place, was vigorous and strong with prospects for long life good as any, but in the midst of health disease in the form of tumor in the head laid hold upon him which despite the best medical skill sapped his vitality and wasted his strong frame until dissolution took place on Friday afternoon last when surrounded by his brother, sister, wife and children his spirit left the tabernacle of clay for the untrammelled life of the spirit land.

The funeral, notwithstanding the rain, was very largely attended on Sunday afternoon when interment took place in the Public Cemetery here. Rev. Mr. Thom officiating and conducted a service at the house. The deceased was a member of the I. O. O. F. Lodge here under whose auspices the funeral was held. The brethren were assisted by twenty-four members of Saugeen Lodge, Markdale, Mr. R. W. Ennis, of that place, D. D. G. M., and Mr. John Whitten, of this place, ex-D. D. G. M., conducting the burial service of the Order. Messrs. T. Gilchrist, D. McPavish, R. N. Henderson, Jas. Dyce, P. Munshaw and E. White, of this Lodge here, acted as pall bearers. Deceased was born in Chinguacousy, Peel County, 41 years ago and 17 years ago came to this place where he has since lived. A wife and six children mourn his departure and have much sympathy in their bereavement.

Rev. John Stafford, M. A., of Washington, Iowa, preached in the Baptist Church on Sabbath morning last and Rev. J. L. Simpson, of Thornbury, who was the guest of Rev. Mr. Thom over Sunday conducted a short service in the Presbyterian church previous to the interment above referred to. At the morning service in the Methodist Church Rev. Wilson's discourse was specially for the Sabbath School children who were deeply interested throughout. In the evening Mr. Wilson's theme was "Hymnology" and his address was interspersed with a number of heartily sung hymns, a duet by Miss Christoe and Rev. Wilson, a trio by Misses Joy and a solo by Mr. Newton Large, soloist in the Queen Street Methodist Church, London. Mr. Large, who is a Flesherton boy, possesses a powerful and rich tenor voice and his excellently rendered solo was highly appreciated by the congregation.

The splendid rains we have had lately will help late grain and especially roots. It's rather hard on the late haymakers though.

Mr. Charlie Arnott is erecting a large two-story kitchen to his dwelling. The young folks are expecting an all-night hop when finished. Mr. McGirr, of course, is the carpenter.

At the home of Mr. John McGillivray was one of those little troubles we wished him a little more than a year ago. It's a girl. All are doing well. Congratulations John. Still hoping that your troubles may be all little ones.

Mr. M. McMillen returned from Berkeley, and is busy haying and harvesting for Duncan McNab.

Mr. Jas. McGillivray, we learn, is promising the young people of the Centre and elsewhere the privilege of a rousing picnic on the Mullen estate. What is the matter with the Bunnassan picnic? The committee says it's postponed till after harvest.

Mr. Donald McGillivray speaks in high praise of a new Massey Harris mower. He says it's a splendid machine.

Mr. Angus Morrison, of Pomona, could be heard on Saturday thrashing for Mr. Bob. Allen, of the 4th. We wish Mr. Morrison success with his new outfit. Mr. Allen's turnout of wheat was large as well as a good sample.

During the past week or so the people of the Centre were a little alarmed that Scotchtown was on fire. Upon inquiry we have learned that James White had traded pipes with the gray horse pedlar, and was putting her to the test.

Mr. Editor, we notice with pleasure the say of Norman McDonald, of Rapid River, Michigan. Although young at Mr. McDonald's time around the Centre, we well remember his visits to the old homestead. Since his first departure from the Centre there are many changes in many ways. However, such is life. Your folks at the old home, Mr. D., are all well.

Now, Mr. Editor, we will close for this time. Pat joins in kind regard; also the children.
