DERBY MILLS.

Situated in the township of Derby, 2 m. south of Owen Sound. The motive power is supplied by a beautiful spring creek that gushes out of the limestone rock within a few yards of the mill, and falls into the Sydenham River half a mile below.

The mills consist of grist mill and oatmeal mill, with one run of stones for each department, and were built a few years ago by the late proprietor, John McInnes. A few months ago they were purchased by the present proprietors, Messrs. J. & D. Johnson.

Dickson, Robt., lessee Derby Mills. Galbraith, Adam, miller. Johnson, J. & D., proprietors Derby Mills.

DICKSON'S MILLS.

Situated in the township of Normandy, 5 m. N. W. of Mount Forest, on a small stream that empties into the S. Br. of the Saugen, and at the mouth of the stream. The grist mill has two run of stones. A sawmill is also attached to the property, driven by the same stream.

Dickson, John, proprietor grist and saw-mills. Dickson, Joseph, miller.

DROMORE.

A post office in the township of Egremont, 9 m. east of Orchardville, from whence it is supplied with mails. Alexander Taylor, postmaster and general merchant. Dromore is 45 miles from Owen Sound; and 15 m. from Mount Forest, and from Durham.

DURHAM TO COLLINGWOOD.

In 1848, what is called the "Durham Road" was laid out. It stretched across the southern part of the township of Osprey, Artemesia, Glenelg and Bentinck, from Nottawasaga westward. Nor did it stop at the limits of this County; for the same survey was continued through the township of Brant; and after meeting the diagonal survey of the "Elora Road" at the S. W. corner of the latter township, continued its way, at first west, then N. W. to Kincardine on Lake Huron. The lots on this road were "free grants," and from 1849 it may be said to have been fully settled. The portion of it from Durham eastward, was surveyed by the late David Gibson, Esq., P. L. S. In common with other roads laid out by Government for colonization purposes it follows to some degree the inequalities of the country, while preserving its general course. From Durham to Collingwood is about 50 miles. Durham lies principally on very high ground, on the right bank of the Saugen, and the road eastward follows the ridge for 11 miles, then takes an elbow southward, crosses the Saugen, and continues eastward on lower ground. At 3 1/2 m. from Durham is McArthur's tavern, and a blacksmith's shop. The place is sometimes called "Pringleville." The Gravel Road is now found a quarter mile or more south of the original "Durham Road," avoiding thereby a range of hills over which the line runs. When it comes out on the straight line again, the traveller finds himself 5 m. from Durham. We have just passed a small wayside Inn (Mrs. Black's), and see on our left a small church belonging to the Canada Presbyterians. As we enter Pricerville, (10 m. from Durham), we find the Gravel Road has again made a detour to the south, and passes through the village not only off the line, but with a zigzag to humour the ground, and save cutting. There is good hotel accommodation at Pricerville, though there is none on the way thither. Here the road, instead of going eastward on its old course, turns off N. E. toward Flesherston and Maxwell, crossing the Toronto and Sydenham Road at the former place. There are no hotels till we get to Flesherston, and the 4 miles between the places is found to be pretty hilly. A Gravel Road in these regions does not necessarily involve deep cuttings and easy grades. Contrast the road with what it was, and be thankful for what you have got, especially as it costs you nothing in tolls! From the village of Flesherston it is three or four miles to the next tavern (T. Manshaw's), then another mile and a half to Miller's tavern; and about 3 m. farther to the village of Maxwell, in Osprey. We are now going east through the centre of Osprey, in a beautiful and level country, 3 or 4 m. north of the real "Durham Road." There is one hotel at Maxwell, new and commodious. From thence we go about 7 m. east on a straight and beautiful road, to the County line of Simcoe. We are now in sight of Singhampton, and only 1/2 m. S. of it. We turn north on the County line, put up comfortably at Singhampton, and when we go on again toward Bowmore and Collingwood Harbor, (the latter 13 m. from Singhampton), we find we are out of the County of Grey, and have lost our Gravel Road.

Proceeding westward from Durham toward Walkerton and Kincardine, on the "Durham Road," now gravelled as far as the County line at Hanover, we descend from the high upland on which Durham is situated, and when about three-fourths of a mile distant, cross the Saugen, which here takes a considerable bend to the north. After receiving the "Rocky Saugen," it bends more southward, and we shall see it again. Another three-fourths of a mile brings us to a high ridge and a deep cut on the road, immediately after passing which a beautiful piece of woods, about a mile long, opens up, with the road through it as straight as an arrow, cut out fifty yards or more wide. We observe an unusual amount of pine in this tract—for this County—and prophesy good rates for it when it comes to be sold. It belongs to the Edge estate. After passing the Edge woods, we come to an Inn on the left; and now find the country rolling, with long slopes on the road, though no heavy "hills." About 5 m. from Durham we come to Chittick's tavern and a blacksmith's shop. Half a mile further the road bears away to the left, to avoid the Saugen River. We see Fensom's Mills at our right, where the bend of the road occurs. "Allan Park" post office and store occurs next, 6 1/2 m. from Durham. About a mile further on the road comes out to the straight line again, and we soon gain sight of Hanover, in a pretty level and well-cleared-up neighborhood. At McGaw's "Hanover Hotel" we strike the County line, and find we are now 11 m. from Durham and 6 m. from Walkerton.

[The description of the road given here seems a little mixed, especially as regards the relative positions of "Allan Park" and "the bend in the road."—Ed.] (Continued Next Week.)

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.

The following is the address made last Friday evening to Mr. Ferguson J. Grant on his retirement, after three years' service in the school at Latona. October 25th, 1901.

TO FERGUSON J. GRANT.

Dear Teacher.—We, your pupils of S. S. No. 3, Bentinck and Glenelg, on the eve of your departure from among us, take the opportunity of showing our appreciation of your worth, both as a citizen and a teacher. During the three years that you have been our teacher, you have ever governed us firmly and kindly, and have used your utmost endeavors to advance us both intellectually and morally. Everyone can see the result of your work in the marked improvement in the school room and its surroundings, but to us alone, is known the full amount of your earnest labor, therefore we wish you to accept this "watch chain" as a slight testimonial of our regard, knowing that while we have not the sorrow of losing a true friend and faithful teacher, we will have the joy in future of learning of you, as an honored and esteemed member of the profession to which you are now turning your efforts.

Corn Temper.

Just as trying to the nerves as temper excited by other causes. Haven't you heard of Putnam's Painless Corn and Wart Extractor? Cures quickly and painless; others pain—make men swear—the ladies complain—not so with Putnam's. All druggists sell Putnam's or it can be sent by N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., to any address in Canada or United States, on receipt of 25 cents.

CORNER CONCERNS.

Mr. Jas. Baird has commenced work on his farm in Normandy, as he is going to move on in the spring.

An interesting event, of which we were all pleased to hear, took place in Wainipeg, on Oct. 19th, the marriage of Mr. Jas. Allan, second son of the Commissioner of Agriculture, to the lady of his choice, Miss Emma McCleach. Mr. John Allan, brother of the groom, and the minister of the Presbyterian church, officiated at the ceremony that was performed by a Presbyterian minister dressed in white, while the bride's dress was of pink lace. Congratulations were freely exchanged, and dancing took up the night. The happy couple are now snugly settled. The groom has a good position with the Arctic Ice Co. Many valuable presents were made to the bride on the occasion. We are all pleased to hear of our countryman's good fortune, and all join in extending the best of good wishes.

Since the value of the lake has become known, it is like a girl with a fortune, a thing of great beauty, judged by the number of visitors who come to view it almost every day, and in fact some will even look at it on Sundays.

Mr. John Sharp was surprised on returning from his honeymoon trip to see our notice of his son diving into a deep well. It was his son that took the reckless leap.

Mr. Wm. Yant's lease of Jim Eden's place expires next year, and the lease of the Black Rock farm south of Holstein, now occupied by Mr. E. Garton, who is well known in this part, and is going to start farming in Manitoba as a result of his harvest trip.

Mr. Jas. Allan, Jr., received a painful bite on the face last Wednesday by one of his horses, and required considerable medical attention and will likely leave a bad scar, but as he has been paying great attention of late to procuring for himself a nice pair of boots, it will fix the matter all right.

Mrs. Wm. Marshall has been on the sick list, and unable to attend to her household duties for two weeks. Her infant daughter has also been in poor health, but that is always the way, trouble never coming singly.

Mr. Wm. Allan resumed his old trade of lamb buying last week, intending to ship to Buffalo.

Mr. and Mrs. J. McNally, of Traverston, spent Sunday with the latter's brother, Mr. Joe Lennox.

Mr. Joe Lennox is putting in some substantial cross fences on his farm with his stonish machine, while Mr. James Queen is improving the front of his farm with an anchor wire fence, which is said to be the next best thing for strength and durability.

There may be some precious news items missed this week, as last week was a busy one. Why the people around here scarcely stepped across the way to note the progress of the cement road, although we are all beginning to feel about as interested in the progress of the works as if the whole affair was our own.

Baby's cold may be cured in a night by using Vapo-Cresolene, which has been extensively in use for twenty-four years. All druggists.
