Corner Concerns.

All the young men along the line attended the raising of Mr. Wm. Pender's mammoth barn at Orchard, on the foundation of the Caldwell barn.

Twenty-three cents per bus. for lime is tempting some of the old burners to go back into the old profession. Messrs. A. Baird and Alex. Allan are preparing, and Frank Grassy is giving it serious consideration.

Mr. Joe Sharp had shipped to him last week a pig of a few weeks old from the Gold Medal herd of Berkshires of Mr. Richard Snell, of Snellgrove, Ont. It makes a good addition to his stock of entire animals.

The Hillis family were so unfortunate as to lose a good mare and one which they very much needed.

Mr. James Crittenden, of Manitoba, is down visiting friends here at present. He was one of our pioneer settlers and the most widely known of them. He will be well remembered by many.

The new survey people are trying to get up a picnic at the lake on the 25th, and may have some success, although the majority will go to the sports in Durham.

Mr. Jas. Vessie was up to Priceville last week with a present of a number of bee hives for his brother-in-law, Mr. Joe Ausom, who is anxious to get started into the industry, but up to now has found it a failure.

The school north of us, known as Ritchie's section, is going to vary this summer from its usual quietness by holding other meetings. A Sunday School has been started with a good staff of teachers and about seventy pupils, and a farmer's association is soon to be inaugurated. The latter is for the purpose of keeping the country from going to the dogs and the former to keep the children from going to the devil.

When we remarked to the Spring Bank Badger that we were even balanced we did not mean that we could walk the tight wire or even a rail fence as he says. We simply meant in our report or discussion that just exactly what we say is correct. We were speaking of those pinnacles amongst which he dwells being unsafe to walk on, or seen in any other way save the one we spoke of. And is not a young man, almost his next door neighbor, suffering for the past two months from his heart lowered two inches from its place, said by Dr. Macdonald to have been caused by being swung by the plow from the side of one of those hills into the chasm beneath. We are surprised that they don't all become down-hearted from the experiences they have. It would make one sick to see the way that creature blusters up over hearing the truth. He must surely either be a very young man or else had tempered.

Mr. Joe Lennox, Jr., spent last week helping his father and brothers, of Glascoot, with their seeding.

Saugeen Valley.

Three cheers for our sister Saugeen Valley across the line. Yes, the Poet will be yours, and multiplication then will be the order of the day.

Miss Jennie Matilda Beaton visited her uncle, Mr. Henry Patterson, of Artemesia, for a few weeks.

Mr. John McGillivray's little daughter, May, has been in a very critical condition, suffering from an attack of inflammation. We hope she may soon recover.

Jack O'Neil, of the 4th con., visited at J. P. Fallaise's, Gambol, on Saturday, the 9th inst. Come again Jack.

Anyone who seeks success finds adversity in his path. If he is to win he must bring to his aid determination and unflinching courage. These will not let him fall. They will urge him to brave resistance and force him to fight like a tiger. We must strike a balance between those lost, because they are too timid and frail to fight to a finish, and those saved, who are brave, strong and unconquerable and have not won their battles with adversity, but have brought from the fight stout hearts and strong arms fit to challenge any emergency of daring advance. The timid and weak that are lost can well be spared; the brave who win the fight are saved for great and noble things, and so adversity may become our mightiest best friend at last.

Mr. Albert Davis, of the 2nd, visited friends in Saugeen Sunday, the 19th inst. He also attended at the Centre. A. is one of our brave soldiers.

Mr. Thomas Lauder, of town, paid a friendly visit to Mr. and Mrs. Fish, Saugeen River, on Saturday, 9th inst.

Mr. Donald McGillivray, Gambol, lately sold to Mr. A. C. Beaton, of Durham, formerly of Rob Roy, a handsome 6-year-old horse for the elegant sum of $100.

Miss Cassie McGillivray, who has been in Durham dressmaking during the last three months, returned home last week full of perfects.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Wilson, of Flesherton, visited the latter's brother, C. McClocklin, of the 4th con., on Sunday, 3rd inst.

Mrs. James McGillivray, Saugeen Valley, is away visiting friends in Owen Sound at present.

Miss Isabella Kennedy, of the south line, visited at Mr. George Craig's, Gambol, lately.

Miss Edith Edwards, of Owen Sound, visited her uncle, Mr. Hugh Edwards, over a couple of weeks.

Shall they who wrong-begun yet rightly end?

Shall they at all have safety from their friend? No, no, in headstrong manner they set out, And headlong will they fall at last, no doubt.

It's too bad to see grown up young men taken aside and led by the devil indulging so strongly in that which is degrading him so badly. The event which took place lately at our corner proved it to be so. It is a great blessing bestowed upon us that from Saugeen Valley to Scotchtown, a distance of four miles, that such are not living within that distance. Shame, shame, on any young man or men that would or even come in range of his or their thoughts ever to think of doing such a low degraded act. Shame, again, although you were trying to take advantage of the silent hour and thinking at the same time "Oh no human eye is watching." Yes, the human eye was watching and saw all that passed. We knew who you were and your names too, but we won't disgrace you openly altogether this time. Remember if it be repeated we'll make it known to the public. So be wise and take care. That's fair warning.

Miss Prudence Rielly, of Saugeen Valley, visited Normanby friends lately.

Fifteen young ladies, and all of good quality, ready for market, and four bachelors, the oldest lives somewhere about our corner.

Though we all have our troubles and sorrows, life must certainly have been sweet to the girl who slipped and fell into the barrel of soft soap lately. Take care again, M.

EXCHANGE ECHOES.

David Davis, United States Senator of Illinois, speaking of what a newspaper does for a community, made an address that remains ever green in the memories of newspaper men. He said: "Every year every local paper gives from 500 to 5000 free lines for the benefit of the community in which it is located. No other agency can or will do this. The editor in proportion to his means does more than any other man, and in all fairness, man with man, he ought to be supported—not because you happen to like him, or admire his writing, but because a local paper is the best investment a community can make. It may not be crowded with great thoughts but financially it is of more benefit than both preacher and teacher. Today editors do more work for less pay than any other men on earth. Patronise your home paper, not as a charity, but as an investment."

We clip the following from the Prescott Journal: Mr. A. A. Jordan, principal of the public school, has sent in his resignation to the school board, to take effect with the end of the present term. He has been appointed head of the public schools at Port Hope at a salary of $1,100 to commence—something better than he is receiving here. His duties as teacher will be limited to the model term; during the remainder of the year they will be supervisory. This is an instance in which the position seeks the man, as Mr. Jordan was asked to accept it on the recommendation of Model School Inspector Thompson. We congratulate Mr. Jordan, but hope that efforts to induce him to withdraw his resignation may not be without success as he is one of our best citizens as well as a most efficient teacher.—Meaford Mirror.

The birds at Hanover, and especially the robins, seem tamer and more familiar than in some other places, says the Post. This, we are told, is due to the fact that they are treated as friends by the boys of the town. It is pleasing to make a note of this. Every living creature is an object of beauty and interest, rightly viewed. Neither bird, nor beast, nor insect should be wantonly destroyed. Even the despised and often abused toad has his good points. He is the gardener's best assistant, making war on many destructive pests. He has a good ear for music, a fact which may easily be tested. There is far more fun studying animals, in noting their peculiarities and habits and in photographing them or drawing them than in killing them.

Sick at Heidelberg, S. A.

A letter from our soldier friend, Mr. Hugh McDonald, dated at Heidelberg, April 3rd, was this week received by his sister, Miss Jessie McDonald. The letter contains the information that he had enteric fever and was in the hospital for two months and a half, and only left it and joined his troop the day before writing. His many friends will be pleased to learn that, with the exception of tender feet, caused by the fever, Hugh is well. Hugh is a soldier in the proper sense of the term and never complains, but in reply to enquiries says that the Government only furnishes bread and meat to the soldiers, and that they have to buy any extras, such as onions, carrots and potatoes, and incidentally remarks that things are pretty dear out there, for instance eggs are 75c a dozen and potatoes $5.00 a bag. The soldiers pay six pence a day for extra grub, which must be quite a hardship, considering the service they are giving in return for the pittance they receive.—Chatsworth News.

The So-Called Horse Show.

Toronto Star.

"Have you been to the Horse Show?" Have you seen society displaying itself there in all its finery? Have you seen society exposing itself there to the envy of the masses and to the admiration of the barnyard animals which serve as a pretext for the gathering?

"If you have seen it you must have been struck with the incongruity of it all. The effect produced is that of horses in a drawing room, or of society throwing itself into prominence by using a stable for a background. All sense of fitness is violated. Of course they have a horse show in New York, but no doubt it is as ludicrous as our own. If interest in horse flesh were the reason for the Horse Show there would be common sense in it. If people were interested in horses, if they were attracted there by the animals, and if they dressed as human beings do and should do when they are in company with horses, the show would be a rational thing.

"But the horse is a mere incident in the Horse Show. The affair is really a Woman Show, a fine dress exhibition, and, worse than all, an annual competition in social ostentation, wherein those who have the largest number of dollars to waste excel all others. The boxes for the show are sold at auction, and are not necessarily bought in either by those who best deserve front seats when Toronto society gathers in a public place. These boxes are auctioned off and year after year the prices increase, until now men pay the value of a workingman's home for the use during three days of a rough board box in which their wives can sit and feel socially distinguished. The view is no better than that enjoyed by others who sit on seats equally uncomfortable and drafty at the price of a dollar each. But those who have expensive seats know they are expensive, and know the people know it.

"When society arrays itself in its best and goes to a concert or to an art exhibit one can understand it, for there is a fitness in it all; but when society arrays itself in a huge barn like the Armories, in the presence of horses that are scarcely looked at, paying absurd prices for seats, buying prominence at its competitive value, the net influence of the thing is vulgarizing. Music and art should have an attraction for the best people, and fine gowns are in harmony with music and art, but why should wealth vaunt and flourish itself when people go to inspect horses?"

Lettuce a Preventive of Smallpox.

Lettuce is an absolute preventive of smallpox. No one is in the least danger of catching smallpox who eats a little lettuce every day. Smallpox belongs to the scorbutic class of diseases. Sailors at sea, deprived of fresh vegetables, get scurvy. Scurvy is a typical scorbutic disease. Smallpox always rages during the winter season, when the poor people are deprived of fresh vegetable foods. Celery and onions are good for this purpose, but there is such a long interval between their being gathered and being eaten that they lose most of anti-scorbutic properties. Lettuce is served shortly after, and possesses valuable properties which will prevent smallpox. It is a thousand times better than vaccination. It has no liabilities, like vaccination to produce other diseases. We are willing to stake our professional reputation on the broad statement that any one who eats lettuce daily, will not catch smallpox, whether he be vaccinated or not.—Medical News.
