DURHAM CHRONICLE

W. IRWIN, Editor and Proprietor.

Durham, July 30, 1903.

THE GAMEY BANQUET.

The enthusiasm with which the banquet to R. R. Gamey has been received is beyond all conception. It must be described as nothing less than the flood-gate of enthusiasm bursting open.

The meeting on Friday last was a record breaker in more ways than one. Such united enthusiasm we have never before seen displayed.

The banquet which will be tendered to R. R. Gamey in Gore Bay on the 30th instant, is largely the outcome of the feeling that he has not had justice, that an attempt has been made to ruin him in order to save others.

WONEGENERIAN IN THE PULPIT.

Rev. Mr. Stewart Delivers a Forceful Remnescent Address.

Few of frail mortals live through the four score years, long ago marked as the limit of human strength; fewer still reach that period who do not find that their strength is "labor and sorrow."

Early in the spring, during a time of sickness, Mr. Stewart expressed the desire that he might be spared once again to address the Presbyterian congregation in testimony of the happy relations that have so long existed between him and the members of that church, some of whom remain, though many of his dearest friends have fallen asleep.

That there are good profits in the business under proper management, no one will question. This will be particularly true of the future as the Government has decided to grant a bounty on the finished article to offset the export duty on Manila from the Philippine Islands in favor of the United States.

His ministry began with earliest days of the settlement of this northern part of the province. There were difficulties many and toils unceasing, but the universal good feeling and broad Christian sympathy, and the hopefulness characteristic of the early days, lightened the burdens and filled the heart with gladness.

THE CHRONICNE joins in expressing its appreciation of the venerable minister and of his grit in holding on to the work at such an advanced age, and hopes that he may yet be spared to show to the young men what a man of the full five score can accomplish.

OBITUARY.

MRS. JOHN CLARK, SR.

At her late home in Bentinck on Monday morning, July 20th, Mrs. John Clark, Sr., passed peacefully away to her final rest. Deceased was a native of Mull, Scotland. In the late forties she, with her father's family, emigrated to this country and settled in the township of Vaughan, where she married Mr. Clark. Shortly afterwards they moved to Bentinck and settled on the farm which they occupied together till her recent decease.

On Wednesday, the 22nd inst., the remains of the late A. C. MacKenzie were brought from Montreal and laid to rest in the Durham cemetery. Deceased was born in Beckwith, Lanark Co., Ont., in Dec. 1837, and over forty years ago moved to Durham. After teaching for some time in the neighborhood he took up business, first in the premises now owned by Mr. S. Scott and afterwards where Mr. Mocker now is.

A Worthy Enterprise.

Last spring the people of Ayton began the promotion of a Binder Twine Factory to be erected in their village. The village of Ayton offers many advantages for the successful operation of such a factory. It is situated in the heart of one of the best agricultural districts in Western Ontario and will in consequence always have a liberal home market for the product.

Besides these natural advantages the Company have secured a free site, one of the finest in town, for their buildings. They have chosen for their directors five capable and progressive men—men of ability, who have made a success in their own business and who will handle the affairs of the Company in a careful and economical manner.

Farmers in every section are subscribing for the stock liberally. They know that very often when crops are abnormally good, as they are this present season, and the retailer anticipates a shortage in twine, that he rushes the price away up, knowing that his customers must have the article at any cost.

That there are good profits in the business under proper management, no one will question. This will be particularly true of the future as the Government has decided to grant a bounty on the finished article to offset the export duty on Manila from the Philippine Islands in favor of the United States.

tions whereby they can secure, at the factory, twine at wholesale cost, thus cutting out the retailer with his profits.

In the face of the foregoing advantages it is not surprising that the stock of the Ayton Cordage Company Limited, is finding ready sale among our best farmers as well as among our shrewdest business people. The enterprise appears to have sprung into existence at the proper time and place, and under its present efficient management is bound to be a paying concern.
