PASTOR AND PEOPLE PRAISE PSYCHINE
(PRONOUNCED SI-KEEN)

A Marvellous and Triumphant Record of Victory Over Disease.

No medicine has ever effected as large a number of wonderful and almost marvellous cures as Psychine. It has had one continuous record of victories over diseases of the throat, chest, lungs and stomach. Where doctors have pronounced cases incurable from consumption and other wasting diseases Psychine steps in and rescues numberless people even from the very verge of the grave. Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Chills, Night Sweats, La Grippe, Pneumonia, and other like troubles, all of which are forerunners of Consumption, yield quickly to the curative powers of Psychine.
Mrs. Campbell, one of the many cured, makes the following statement:
I cannot refrain from telling all who suffer of my remarkable recovery with Psychine. In April, 1902, I caught a heavy cold which settled on my lungs and gradually led to consumption. I could not sleep, was subject to night sweats, my lungs were so diseased, my doctor considered me incurable. Rev. Mr. Mahaffy, Past. Elgin Presbyterian Church, recommended Dr. Elocut's Psychine to me, when I was living in Ontario. After using Psychine for a short time I ate and slept well, the night sweats and cough ceased. Months ago I stopped taking Psychine, as I was perfectly restored to health and today I never feel better in my life. Psychine has been a god-send to me.
Mrs. ASHLEY, 107 CARRINGTON, COTTONWOOD, N. W. T.

PSYCHINE never disappoints. PSYCHINE has no substitute. There is no other medicine "Just as good."

CHAPTER XXIII.
THE morning paper, which the maid brought to Ann while she still drowsed in her bed, contained the news of Louis' arrival at Raymond's cabin and his collapse.
"All the early part of the night," the reporter went on to say, "bands of clamorous men marched from mine to mine, calling upon the gangs to lay down their tools. Only two firms remained unintimidated—Reese Bros. and Kelly & Raymond. In the midst of all this turmoil," said the reporter, "Raymond, one of the men most concerned, was standing guard over a sick boy and would not leave his side for a moment." Ann glowed with a sense of deep obligation to that watcher.
Mrs. Barnett knocked on her door and called, "Have you seen the papers, Ann Marie?"
"Yes."
"What are you going to do?"
"I am going up there."
Mrs. Barnett entered. "How can you go with that mob in possession? You must not go! It isn't safe for you, and I will not consent to have Don go again. Who will protect you?"
Ann flamed with wrath. "Have you no law out here that will protect a girl who goes to nurse her sick brother? I have nothing to do with your idiotic wars. I am going up there as a citizen of New York, not as a partisan of your side in this struggle. I shall not leave that boy there to suffer alone."
"I can't find Don," said Mrs. Barnett. "He must have gone downtown. Some one has just phoned a message from Rob. He says Louis has taken a chill."
"Then let us go!" she cried, rising, and that you are to come, if you can, but not to worry. He is well cared for."
"Can we reach him by telegraph?" asked Ann.
"The operator says there is no direct connection with Skytown, but that the wire from Bozle to the south is uncut. We can try."
"Tell Don to wire Mr. Raymond that I am coming at once, and that I will bring Dr. Braidie if possible," answered Ann, alert and self contained.
She rang Dr. Braidie's telephone a few moments later and called firmly, "Dr. Braidie, I want you to go with me to Skytown."
His cool, indifferent voice cut her short. "Who is it, please?"
"It is Ann Rupert."
"Ah!" His voice changed—became swift, eager. "Certainly, certainly,

"I am not afraid of Munro or his men," she answered. "In fact, they will be our safeguard. I will telegraph to Mr. Munro that we are coming, and he will see that we are protected."
"If you feel that way, then the simplest and quickest route is over the old stage road. With a good span of horses and a light cart we can drive to Bozle by 4 o'clock and reach Skytown before dark."
"Then let us go!" she cried, rising. "I will order a carriage at once and call for you in half an hour."
"I will be ready," he alertly replied.
By means of the telephone Ann ordered the liveryman to harness his best span of horses to a mountain buckboard. "No, I do not need a driver," she sharply answered to his query. "Get them here quick!"
Before she left the receiver Barnett came rushing into the room. "What's all this? Jeannette tells me you're going back to Skytown today."
"In twenty minutes I shall be on the road."
"Alone?"
"No; Dr. Braidie is going with me."
"Impossible! You mustn't do it! Our attack is to be made tonight. The whole hill will be a battleground tomorrow."
"I can't help that, Don. I must go to my brother. He needs me all the more. Think of that poor boy lying there burning with fever and a battle going on! Put off your attack. It's all foolish, wicked, anyhow. What good will it do? You will only kill men or get killed yourself."
Dr. Braidie was waiting as Ann drew up to his door. He carried a big bearskin robe over his arm and held a medicine case in his hand. "Have you plenty of wraps? It's cold up there, they say. Let me arrange this robe around your feet. Shall I drive?"
"No, thank you. I will drive."
The horses were marvels. They pushed up the steep, winding road with steady stride, their heads swinging. Not till they entered the canyon did they lag into a walk. The clouds hung low, in great gray masses, covering even the secondary peaks. Patches of snow began to appear at the roadside. It was a bleak, inhospitable and silent world.
"There is something ominous in this stillness," Ann said at last.
"Where do you suppose we will meet Munro's men?"
"Anywhere after we leave the half-way house, according to report."
"You know this man Munro?"
"I've met him."
"Is he as terrible as people think him?"
"He seemed very boyish to me and not at all terrible."
"The morning papers stated that he had assumed absolute control up there, and that his men were drilled in true military fashion."
"So much the better for us," answered Ann, "for he will see that we are protected."
At about 11 o'clock they reached the wide mountain meadow out of which the Bear creek fell. The clouds hung just above their heads, a broad, seamless gray roof.
At the half-way house they found a stage load of people and several freighters, and every man's mouth was agape. The tavern was a survival of the days when railroads were of the far-away future—a long, low log structure with a roof of dirt out of which dead weeds faunted. The front room, which swarmed with men in rough clothing, seemed to be a country store and post-office as well as an eating house. A small, active old woman met Ann with toothless grin. "Step right this way and get out of 'the smudge.'"

Constipation
Baked sweet apples, with some people, bring prompt relief for Constipation. With others, coarse all-wheat bread will have the same effect. Nature undoubtedly has a vegetable remedy to relieve every ailment known to man, if physicians can but find Nature's way to health. And this is strikingly true with regard to Constipation.
The bark of a certain tree in California—Cascara Sagrada—offers a most excellent aid to this end. But, combined with Egyptian Senna, Slippery Elm Bark, Solid Extract of Prunes, etc., this same Cascara bark is given its greatest possible power to correct constipation. A toothsome Candy Tablet, called Lax-ets, is now made at the Dr. Sloop Laboratories, from this ingenious and most effective prescription. Its effect on Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, Sluggish Complexion, etc., is indeed prompt and satisfying.
No gripping, no unpleasant after effects are experienced, and Lax-ets are put up in beautiful lithographed metal boxes at 5 cents and 25 cents per box.

A Kansas City man has just succeeded in getting a patent on an energy motor fastened on a cow's back; the electricity being generated by a dynamo attached to her tail. It strains the milk and hangs up the pail and the strainer. A small phonograph accompanies the outfit and yells "So?" when the cow moves. If she kicks a Dinged arm catches the milk stool and lams her over the back.
An application is being made for a charter to build a line of railway from Owen Sound through Sarawak, on to Shallow Lake then to Wiarton. The probability is some provincial company is after a charter which they hope to sell to the C. P. R. It will be no doubt a few months before we shall hear the toot of the whistle on this branch, but the fact that a charter is being applied for is good news in itself.—Wiarton Echo.
