Farmers of this country are advised to keep up the hog supply. The Farming World gives this advice after scanning the world's pork markets.

The chief interest in the world's output at the present time centres in Germany, where the price of live hogs has reached the very high figure of $18.21 per 50 kilograms (110.23 lbs.).

Germany like Great Britain, is becoming more and more dependent upon other countries for her food products. Formerly Italy, France and other European countries exported hogs and hog products.

To-day with the exception, perhaps of Denmark and Ireland, every country in Europe is compelled to import hogs. Southern Europe no longer determines the market price of hogs in that section of the world.

The exports of Denmark and Ireland find market in England so that other European importing countries have to look elsewhere for their supplies.

This is the European situation in a nut-shell. Considering the market situation as a whole and that pork products are steadily gaining in popularity as a food the farmer will be quite safe in keeping up his hog supply.

While there has been the usual fall slump in prices here, they are sufficiently high yet to make it quite profitable to produce the bacon hog in Canada.

Spring appears to be approaching with giant strides, as the Y-town Confed. would say, be caws the crows are numerous and noisy.

Jas. Nickle also claims to have seen a robin, but Jim is possessed of the gift of second sight and may have dreamt it.

How ever, we have had contributions from two spring poets which we refrain from printing out of consideration for the feelings of the relatives of deceased poets, whose remains now repose in our empty coal bin.

Their obituary poems will appear later in the Y-town Rep. But our advice is do not shed your winter togs or despise the woodshed just yet.

You can't always generally tell what a Canadian winter has up it's sleeve. The string is often in the tail.—Harriston Review.

Always Keeps Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in His House.

"We would not be without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is kept on hand continually in our home," says W. W. Kearney, editor of the Independent, Lowry City, Mo.

That is just what every family should do. When kept at hand ready for instant use, a cold may be checked at the outset and cured in much less time than after it has become settled in the system.

This remedy is also without a peer for croup in children, and will prevent the attack when given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, which can only be done when the remedy is kept at hand. For sale at Parker's Drug Store.
