BUGGY VERSUS CANOE.

Some people say the proper place
To win your girl and woo
Is 'neath the moon upon the lake
In your little cute canoe.

But I've a better scheme than that—
I'll tell that scheme to you—
A stylish horse and buggy; don't
That beat your cute canoe?

I'll wash my buggy up to-night,
To make it shine I'll strive;
To-morrow's Sunday—I will take
My sweetheart for a drive.

The fairest girl in Tattletown,
The dearest girl alive;
We've got so now we never miss
Our Sunday evening drive.

Along the quiet country roads
My darling doth connive
To take the reins—there's nothing like
A Sunday evening drive!

I put my arm around her waist—
I couldn't well deprive Myself of rights belonging to
Our Sunday evening drive.

You couldn't put your arm around
Her waist—you know it's true—
You've got to just behave yourself
When you're out in a canoe.

Besides, there is resemblance
'Twixt a girl and a canoe;
'They're both of them uppittin'
Sometimes—Ah, me, how true!

The God of Love would idle be,
He'd know not what to do,
If the only weapon that he had
Was a tiddly-wink canoe.

To-morrow's Sunday—day of fair—
May it my soul revive!
I'll pop the question when we take
Our Sunday evening drive.

—The Khan.

An Italian with a hand organ invaded the town last week and went from house to house dispensing the enchanting airs of Sunny Italy. He had a device with him by means of which he revealed the future to his patrons. A number of charts were placed in a box and, on receipt of the price, a guinea pig was let loose from a secluded apartment of his outfit, and rooted through the charts until he found the one on which the applicant's future was revealed. Had he been here on some worthy mission he might not have secured funds enough to take him out of town, but as it was he was patronized by everybody—men and women, old maids and little children—all clamored to the Oriental light who was to lift the curtain and give his clients a peep into the future. People do enjoy being faked.—Ayton Advance.

Flesherton

Death came with startling suddenness to the home of Mr. W. H. Bunt early on Sunday morning last when his mother, who retired the night before in good health, passed away with heart failure an hour and a half after being taken ill. Dr. Carter was called but was unable to stay the hand of death. The deceased who had made her home with her son here the past two or three years, was a very highly esteemed old lady and her sudden death was a shock to the community. After a short service at the house on Saturday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. Dr. Caldwell, the remains were conveyed to the depot and taken on the evening train to Woodbridge where interment was made in the family plot on Monday. The deceased whose maiden name was Ruth Porter, was born in Toronto 75 years ago. At 20 years of age she was married to her late husband, Mr. Francis Bunt who departed this life at their home at Woodbridge, 14 years ago. Three sons, Wm. H. of this place, John P. of Woodbridge and Charles W. of Los Angeles, and two daughters, Mrs. Howard and Miss Jennie Bunt, of Toronto, survive their mother, whose end was peace. She was a consistent member of the Methodist church for about 55 years.

A monster garden party was held under the auspices of the Baptist church at Rockvale on Friday evening last. Though the evening was uncomfortably cool there was a very large turnout and Pastor Kipp and his people are to be congratulated upon his great success of the event, the proceeds being over $103. A foot-ball match for a prize of $5.00 was played between the Rockvale and Flesherton clubs which was won by the former the score being 1-0. Flesherton Citizens Band gave a liberal supply of music and a short interesting programme was rendered by local talent. Provisions were so abundant that a social is to be held in the church on Tuesday evening of this week.

The executors of the Dr. Christoe estate have disposed of the old Medical Hall block and building adjoining, to the present occupants the Norris brothers, tinsmiths, and W. O. Phillips, harnessmaker. The latter has bought the shop occupied by him which also has residence connected. We congratulate our young business men on their enterprise.

Mr. Armstrong is so delighted with the Nipissing for a summer resort that he is purchasing an island near to that of his brother-in-law on which to erect a cottage.
