He complimented some path-masters on the care and skill with which they did their work in their respective beats, while others are entirely indifferent as to what work is done, or where it is done, so long as they are able to report at the end of the season that every man on their beat had done his statute labor. He urged that a regular system be manager's peculiar religious creed; they the privilege of inspecting the roads of the entire province as he had the opportunity of doing. In the construction of roads the cost of sideration in the same way as cost of implements in any extensive work vinced him that the inmates and the was considered only a small item. He showed that the first matter for consideration in roadmaking was the Mr. Arlidge says that he hopes the drainage and it did not matter how ter state of things, and that the neglected, the work done would only round him to see if she had taken the inmates will hereafter get the neces be temporary and would soon have hint; she had -she had made a buttonsaries of life, and such comforts as to be done over again. He knew the hole to fit it! cost of roads all over the province and it was amusing to hear the way be kindly and considerately treated people talk about their roads. He as their lot cannot be the happiest had been lately in the section of country where they had to drive at

He found that distribution of $600 granted to the there were several systems in vogue various agricultural societies and the here and some of them must be list of auctioneers and peddlers. A wrong. In reference to statute labor, grant of $500 was made to supplement he found that eight townships in the the pay of non-commissioned officers county still hold to the statute labor, and men of the 31st Regiment. It There were 1440 pathmasters handnon-commissioned officers and men ask them what class were the roads as to secure a better supply of Campbell then made the startling statement that in looking over his figures for the County of Grey since he had been there ten years ago, he found that there had been performed 479,580 days' work of statute labor and $359,833 in cash expended on the roads, nearly a million dollars in work and money, counting the statute labor at only $1 a day and what had been obtained for it. When he was here last it was acknowledged that $200,000 should be raised and some regular system of roadmaking adop. ted for its expenditure. But the sum seemed large and it was not done. Here you have expended nearly a million dollars, a sum large enough to macadamize one half of the road mileage of the country in a manner equal to the best roads of France and England, and what have you got for it? Is it not time to make a change? It is not a matter of increasing expenditure, but of expending it in a proper manner. He contended that the 1440 different pathmasters held about 1440 different ideas of roadmaking and showed that in many cases the work done as statute labor one year was simply undoing the work of the previous year. He had seen roads on which there was a good gravel stone loundation, a pathmaster was appointed whose idea was to get a roadgrader to work and rake the sud in from the sides of the road and cover up the good gravel or stone on the middle. He was pathmaster and he would carry out his idea, though the heavens should fail. He referred to the act passed by the Legislature by which a million dollars had been set aside for the improvement of roads on the basis of paying one third of the cost of work done of a permanent nature on country roads. He pointed out the great benefit of this scheme, in which culverts, bridges and everything of a permanent character as well as the salary of the capable superintendents, were all included and payable two thirds by the county and one third by the Government. The item of making roads and keeping them in repair was the greatest item in the economy of a country and had cost the province of Ontario $20,000,000 during the past ten years. This was a sum greater than the people could stand for the results ob tained. He suggested the appointment of a committee and hoped that in a couple of years the county would have made great advance in the mat ter of improving its roads. In concluding he referred to the great progress made by the Town of Owen Sound after his last visit ten years ago and paid a tribute to excellent roads and walks which it now posses-

HINT NOT SLIGHT.

At some stations the private soldiers' washing is usually done by the married soldiers' wives, who are expected to sew on missing buttons and do little repairs, for which a small sum is deducted from the private's pay.

Private McGinnis had a great deal of trouble with his laundress. Saturday after Saturday he had his shirt come back with the neck button off, or else hanging by a single thread. He had spoken to her on the subject, and she had promised to see after it but still the button was not on proper-

He got out of patience one Sunday, when the missing button had made him late for parade, and exclaimed. 'Bad 'cess to the woman, I'll give a hint this time, anyhow." He took the lid off his tin blacking-boxabout 3-in. in diameter-punched two holes in it with his fork, and then tied it on the neck of the shirt that was next to be washed.

Next Saturday when his washing much material was used if this was came back, the whole room gathered

Eighteen years ago Manchuria barley was a curiosity in Ontario, but to-day our barley crops cover half a million acres and is worth $2,500,000.

By picking out the plump grains from the shrunken ones in his seed wheat, said the Professor, a farmer can increase his yield by twenty per cent. The average wheat crop in Ontario for the last fifteen years has been 20.4 bushels to the acre, while that of the United States was only 12 bushels.
