SAUCY WIDOWS.

No woman really knows herself until she is a widow. Before marriage she is controlled by her parents; after marriage, by her husband. When she is a widow she becomes HERSELF.

She has little time to indulge in the luxury of grief for business is insistent, and she must dry her eyes and face the situation with all the courage she can command. She learns to meet emergencies, and rely upon herself, and she enjoys it.

If necessity compels it, she casts about for some employment sufficiently remunerative to support her family and pay off the mortgage, for nearly every man leaves several children and a mortgage; or, if she is too poor to leave a mortgage, he leaves a If she hasn't courage enough for upon another, and in some cases. even this procedure may be the result of good business judgement. The widow has been a neverending subject for the jokemaker, and right here is a chance for some new jokes, for the helpless, tearful widow of the past, that appealed so strongly to every chivalrous man for protection and to every financial shark as legitimate prey, is not found among the educated business women of to-day, and the mining broker finds that a little hot air sympathy, and the pressure of the widow's hand, will not induce her to buy his wildcat stock, for nowadays the widow is selling stock herself and scruples not to break the broker.

She becomes shrewd and alert, or even suspicious, but withal, quite as successful as the average man, and makes a better showing with her

The business widow is a skeptic in love, and realizes that a wife is too often an unpaid housekeeper.

She is a critic in love affairs and no man comes up to her ideal of a wooer; therefore, men call her fickle when she is only critical.

Every widow fully intends to marry again-when she meets with someone who has all of the late John's virtues and none of his faults. In her widow-wisdom she considers herself superior to every man she knows. When she speaks to one, she feels that she has honored him. If he asks her to be his wife, she wonders if he means housekeeper, or if he is asking her as an incumbrance on what real estate she may possess,

A widow laughs often-a wife rarely; the widow goes everywhere, the wife remains at home; a widow always has excellent health, looks happy and grows young; the wife is sick, looks careworn, and grows

A Home Made Happy by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

About two months ago our baby girl had measles which settled on her lungs and at last resulted in a severe attack of bronchitis. We had two doctors but no relief was obtained. Everybody thought she would die. I went to eight different stores to find a certain remedy which had been recommended to me and failed to get it, when one of the storekeepers insisted that I try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. to Expire in Father's Arms.

A very startling and sudden death occurred on Tuesday last, the victim being Willie, the only son of Mr. W. Horney, engineer of the Board of Works department of the town. The lad has worked for nearly two years on the Sun staff, and on Tuesday forencon fed a cylinder press until a little after the noon hour. He then went to dinner at his home, 155 Murdock street, and about one o'clock again left for the office. having made no complaint of feeling unwell. Mr. and Mrs. Horney noticed him passing the end of the house, and in a few moments heard a ring at the front door bell. When Mrs. Horney opened the door her son was there in a state of collapse He was able to tell them that he had been taken with a weak spell after going a short distance and had sat down on a door step for a moment before coming back home. Mr Horney saw that his son's condition was serious and telephoned for medical aid at once, but the lad sank rapidly and died in about twenty minutes. Drs, Hershey and Daynard both responded to the summons for help but nothing could be done as life was extinct. Deceased was born in Seaforth on Sept 21st, 1891, and had therefore passed his 16th birthday. He was a quiet, gentle boy and preferred his father's company to any other when going out on an evening. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon from the residence on Murdock street at half past two. Fioral tributes from the Sun staff and West St. Methodist Sunday School were among those on the casket. The pailbearers were Howard Fleming, Harold Moffat. George Mc-Swan, Robt. Struthers. Wm.
