A Desperate Situation

BY EUNICE BLAKE

At an Episcopal mission on the Chinese coast situated far from any white settlement the Rev. Mr. Waterman, a lean and hungry looking bachelor of forty-five, went to the superintendent, Mr. Blanchard, and said: "I have been laboring in this field now for twenty years and have never been associated with any but Chinese during that time save only my co-workers. I must resign and go to another field."

Mr. Blanchard, unwilling to lose so valuable an assistant, said: "Supposing, brother, a companion could be given you—a wife to labor with you and cheer you."

Mr. Waterman thought in that case that he could stand it awhile longer, but he didn't know where the wife was to come from. There were only married white women at the station, and he would not marry a heathen Chinese woman. Mr. Blanchard told him that there were women without husbands in civilized lands who might be induced to come out and marry a clergyman.

A few months after this conversation the Rev. Mr. Southgate, twenty-five years old and a bachelor, was standing on the dock belonging to the station awaiting the coming of a ship that appeared to the eastward. He was so homesick that anything coming from a Christian land interested him, and his object in being on the dock was to see a ship that had come from the land he loved.

When the ship was docked and the gangplank in position the only woman who came down it was not only white, but comely. She seemed much cast down. Mr. Southgate approached her, raised his hat and asked if he could do anything for her.

"I have some business with the Rev. Mr. Waterman," she said, "but I don't wish to go directly to his house. Can you direct me to a place where I can lodge temporarily?"

"Let me take that bag," was the reply, "and the other things. I will think of some place for you while we are walking to the station. There is not much in the way of accommodation here. How long will you need a lodging place?"

"That I can't say. Do you know Mr. Waterman?"

"Oh, yes, very well."

"What kind of a person is he?"

"A very excellent man indeed."

"Is he good looking?"

"Oh, no. Mr. Waterman is not good looking."

"How old is he?"

"Between forty-five and fifty."

"Light or dark?"

"Neither. He has red hair and many freckles."

The young woman stopped. Mr. Southgate looked at her inquiringly.

"I'm going back on the ship," she said.

"Going back on the ship?"

"Yes"—sobbing—"I came out here to marry Mr. Waterman, not knowing anything about him. From what you say he must be frightful."

There was a long silence, during which the young woman wept.

"You are sure you wouldn't marry Mr. Waterman?"

"Yes, I am. I'll jump in the sea first. I have nothing to go back to and am desperate. Perhaps the best thing I can do is to drown myself."

"Oh, dear, no! You needn't do that. Would you be contented to remain here as the wife of a man about my age?"

"Perhaps," was the indefinite reply.

"I wouldn't mind helping you out; that is, if you would permit me."

There was no reply to this, but the sobs were less frequent.

"If you're going to take me," continued Mr. Southgate, "it might be less embarrassing for you to marry me before you see Mr. Waterman."

"Perhaps it would."

"But there must be some reason given. It must be reported as a mistake."

"You might tell me you are Mr. Waterman."

"That would be untrue."

"I have never told a lie, but I have never been placed in such a position before. I will say that I forgot the name; that I thought it was Southgate."

TO RENOVATE WILLOW VERANDAH CHAIRS.

To renovate willow furniture, scrub with a brush, using salt instead of soap, and rinse thoroughly. Do the work out of doors if possible, where plenty of water can be used, because all the salt water must be rinsed off. When dry do each part with pure linseed oil. This will soften the willow, making it more pliable, consequently less liable to break when tightened by the water treatment. The oil adds considerably to the life of the furniture, as well as improving it in appearance. In fact, any kind of basket work will last longer for a coat of oil. Old rattan chairs can be made new again by turning them upside down and scrubbing the sagged seat with hot water until it is smooth and stiff again, and when dry coating with the oil.

RAN AMUCK AT OWEN SOUND.

There was considerable excitement on Saturday at Owen Sound by the escape of a three-year-old steer from a bunch that was being shipped at the C.P.R. stockyards. The animal raced south through the town and every attempt to stop it failed. It became so dangerous that a member of the police force took a rifle and following it to the sound end of the town got in a safe place and fired. The bullet struck the animal, but only stunned it for an instant. Before it could be approached it charged the crowd again and started down Fourth avenue, east. At Seventh street it went to the ravine on the east side of the town and stood at bay. Here a well directed shot from a prominent member of the local rifle corps pierced its heart.—Tara Leader.
