LAKELET BREEZES

The weather is ideal and everything is doing well.

Lakelet Breezes are busy tolling the wedding bells and fanning the blush on the cheek of those with warm beating hearts.

Mr. George Lawrence, of the Lake, upon going to the stable one morning found twin colts. Sorry to say both are dead, one having lived for a few days. Mr. Carl Harrison is also the possessor of twin calves. Twins are quite a common occurrence in this locality.

Mr. Ben Waters has been holding some very instructive and inspiring services in the Orange Hall.

Mr. W. Smallman and family, of Normanby township, spent Su. day at Mr. Arthur Lawrence's.

Mr. Arthur Lawrence has a son of Mr. Frank Haven's, of Durham, helping him for a few days.

Quite a large quantity of oils and seed was handled by Tartan Grange last week. Costs of same were very satisfactory.

Mr. Hays, the head telephone agent, and Mr. Tom Saunders, the manager of the Durham Central Bell Telephone office, took a trip last week through our locality as far as Harrison's mill, renewing signatures and looking over the line, which is expected to be extended as far as Harrison's mill.

We would suggest to the makers and manufacturers of the present up-to-date buggies to attach a small step ladder to the vehicle for convenience to the ladies, at least for such time as the present fashion of dress lasts. A ladder would be much safer than stepping up the spokes and then crossing over or entrusting themselves to being lifted in, as the weighty ones sometimes are very awkward to handle.

Mr. Will McFadden, of the Lake, has been buying up a few head of grazing cattle.

The Liberals of this vicinity held a meeting at Mr. Andrew Henry's a short time ago. Discussion unknown as your scribe was not invited.

Mrs. Wm. Moore, near Greenside has been very ill lately, but we report her feeling better.

Some of the young men of Dromore make quite frequent visits to our burg. They all seem to enjoy some taffy on a stick.

PROTECT THE HEART FROM RHEUMATISM.

Rheuma Purifies the Blood and Throws off Complicating Diseases.

Weakening of the blood tissues by continued attacks of Rheumatism affects the heart and produces complications which result fatally. RHEUMA puts the blood in condition to ward off other diseases and eradicates Rheumatic conditions from the whole system. Recommended for all forms of Rheumatism. 50 cents at Macfarlane & Co's. This letter will convince you of its great value.

"For nine weeks I was unable to work owing to my feet being badly swollen from Rheumatism. I also suffered severe pains in the back. After using two bottles of RHEUMA the Rheumatism has entirely left me."—F. H. Morris, Fort Erie, Ont.

DORNOCH

Mrs. R. J. Corlett and son Cameron left on Tuesday afternoon for the West, where they intend visiting friends for a couple of months.

Miss I. Dargavel spent the week end at home.

A large crowd of the natives of this burg took in Mr. Donald Campbell's barn-raising last week. The barn was raised without any accidents and is certainly a great improvement to the place.

Misses L. Mortley and L. McKnight are writing on the Lower School Entrance to Normal exams this week. We wish them every success.

While Mr. James Vasey's horse was tied in the church shed on Monday forenoon, it got loose and broke the buggy and the harness. Glad no person was hurt.

Mr. Wm. Coffee, of Glenelg, is intending to raise a barn some time in the near future.

Mr. Jack Rae took in the the sights of Williamsford on Sunday evening. Some attraction, Jack?

We believe Dr. J. E. Smith has purchased an automobile recently. Hope he remembers old friends.

Misses M. Mortley and B. Reid visited friends in Dromore over the week end.

Mr. Will Trafford and Miss Irene Trafford took in sights in Dornoch on Sunday evening.

The Dornoch boys have organized a baseball team and practice every Saturday evening south of this burg.

Mr. James Vasey is intending to add an addition to his barn in the near future.

HAMPDEN.

Miss Alice Saunderson of Toronto, spent a few days at the home of Mrs. Wm. Sharp.

Mr. Wm. McNaughton, who has been ill with pneumonia, is able to be up again.

Miss Isabella Marshall and Miss Isabella Fulton are going to Chesley to try an examination in music.

Miss Maggie Geddes and her brother Ebenezer, visited at Mr. John Sharp's one day lately.

Prayer meeting is to be held at the home of Mr. John Whiteford, and after the meeting communion will be administered.

The W.H.M. Society is preparing a good time and program for the garden party to be held around the Hampden church on the 19th of June. Admission 10c., and also lunch served. All are welcome.

The Hampden Sunday school was organized on Sunday last.

CARD OF THANKS

To the Editor of The Chronicle.

Mr. Lord George Bovingdon wishes to thank his wife for the good recommendation and compliment which she has given to the public. But, sorry to say, if Mrs. Bovingdon gets as much care in Seattle, Wash., as she had at home, she will never die of starvation or nakedness. Mr. Bovingdon is the happiest man in Canada, after four years of sorrow and hardship.

Thanking you for your space, I remain,

Yours truly,
L. George Bovingdon.

trusted me apparently as little as I trusted him, stood the wretch, Pimball. Back of him, beneath the trees, I distinguished Glibby and a number of the crew, nearly all of them. I should judge, and back of these were massed the savages. Pimball had a white neck cloth tied to the muzzle of his gun.

"Say what you have to say and be quick about it," I said, but he looked past me and took off his hat with a profound sweep.

"Good morning, Mistress Wilberforce," he cried.

I turned in a hurry and found that she had stepped out by my side. The two of us presented a fair mark for any weapon. One might have escaped, but hardly two.

"Get back," I cried harshly.

"I stay where you are," she answered firmly. "See, I too am armed." Her little hand lifted a heavy pistol.

"I can talk with the two of you just as well as with one," said Pimball.

"Talk on and be brief," I returned, seeing that there was no use arguing with my little mistress.

"You have found the treasure," he began; "there is no use denying it. We have it from our savage friends that the things are there. In years gone by they sacrificed here and on the cone yonder; but for generations the island has been taboo. The white man has broken the ban and we are here to take the treasure."

"Indeed!" said I sarcastically, whereat he turned pale with anger but still mastered himself.

"We offer you," he continued, "safety. We cannot take you with us, but we will leave you here on the island after we have taken the treasure, and," his eyes turned from me to my companion, "if you are willing to give up the woman I will enroll you with our following and we will all get away together on the Rose of Devon."

"What of the ship?" I asked.

It was a hard thing to control my temper, but I wanted the information.

"She was badly stove up but not entirely wrecked. We fought the savages, conquered them, made them our friends. We can get away in her and you can navigate her or we can do without you for that matter and make shift to get back to the South American coast at least."

"So you offer me free passage and my share of the treasure if I will give up Mistress Wilberforce, do you?"

"That is it," answered Pimball. "Eh, mates?" whereat a deep chorus of approval came from Glibby and the men.

"And this is my answer," I said furiously, leveling my pistol at him. "Get back, you villain, or you will have looked your last on life."

"But the flag of truce?" he cried, dropping his weapon.

"It is not meant to cover such propositions as yours. As for the treasure you shall have it when you can get it."

As I spoke he sprang behind the tree and motioned to his men to fire, but I was too quick for him, and we were safely within the cave when the sound of the reports came to us.

"Now what is to be done?" said my little mistress.

"The next move," I answered, "is with them."

"Shall we go further back into the cave?"

"No," I replied. "We will stay here for the present."

We were not long left in suspense, for I could hear them breaking through the woods and rushing toward the opening. Missiles in the way of weapons there were none in the cave, but I picked up a skull that lay on the floor and hurled it out of the opening into the unseen crowd below. A shriek told me that I had hit some one, but I saw at once that the game was one I could not play. The white men had some skill at warfare. They had posted covering parties to protect the workmen. I crept cautiously toward the entrance, where I could see them working hard, piling up the stones to enable them to get at us, while back of them stood others with drawn bows and presented weapons.
