HIVING SWARMING BEES

A Simple Solution to One of the Most Vexed Problems of the Bee-keeper

Bee-keeping, an interesting and not by any means unprofitable pursuit, is avoided by many farmers on account of the many perplexing problems the care of the busy workers presents to the uninitiated. A few practical hints on how to properly look after the natural swarms may prove helpful.

When a swarm issues and forms into clusters—if in a warm sunny place—sprinkle the bees with water with any hair brush that is available. This will make them cluster more closely and be less inclined to fly away while you make preparations to hive them. Should the swarm be settled on the bough of a tree, hold a straw skep, or any substitute for it, with one hand, well under the bees, and around them if possible, and with the other hand give the bough a sudden, hard shake, which will cause the bees to fall in a mass into the skep; if the bough is bushy a few quick jerky shakes might be required to dislodge all the bees. A vigorous shake downwards stopped suddenly is very effective. Now quickly place over the skep a board or cloth large enough to cover it. Then turn it, mouth downwards, and place it on the ground as nearly as possible under the place the bees settled on. Raise one side of the skep an inch or more upon a stone or piece of wood and if the queen has been secured the stragglers will soon join the bees in the hive. If the sun is shining on the skep, shade it with a few boughs or an open umbrella, securing the handle to a stake. Nothing further need be done until the last bees have entered the skep in the cool of the evening, when the swarm can be transferred to a movable frame hive in a permanent position. Should the following day be warm, the hive should be shaded and the entrance opened to the full extent. Even in the height of the honey season, and in the best of bee-weather, a swarm is vastly improved by getting a pint of thin syrup daily for three or four days, but in broken weather which often confines bees in their hives for days this treatment is absolutely necessary to keep a newly hived swarm from starving in its new foodless home. A comb of honey with some brood and eggs, from an old stock, would be a great advantage to a swarm starting in life. This is a very desirable plan in the case of second swarms or casts, as they frequently leave the hive never to return in company with the young queen in her mating trip, but while they have young brood and eggs in the hive they have no desire to leave it. It will not do to delay the hiving of the bees too long after they have settled in a cluster, for if the scouts, which have been previously sent out to find a suitable new home, return in the meantime the swarm will rise and follow them to, perhaps, parts unknown.

At Riverside Park the combined Lodges and visitors made a large audience. Rev. R.M. Phalen occupied the position of chairman and delivered a few brief introductory remarks, after which a number of short addresses were made. The chief speakers were Hon. Dr. Sproule, Speaker of the House of Commons, Hon. I.B. Lucas, Provincial Treasurer, R. J. Ball M.P., of Hanover, Colin Cameron, M.P.P., of Owen Sound, and others, including the Methodist ministers of Chatsworth and Markdale.

We are not able to give the full list of prize winners, but the best dressed lodge went for the fourth time in five years to Coronation Lodge, No. 846, Owen Sound. They were dressed in Irish khaki, the material for which was made in Belfast, Ireland, and the tailoring in Canada. Mr. Oliver C. Allan is the Master of the Lodge and is proud of the success of the members in winning the distinction. Lodge No. 244, Proton, received first prize for largest number in attendance and 1102, Owen Sound, took second. A lodge from Alton won the prize for coming the longest distance. Mr. W. J. Hewitt of Durham deserves credit for the excellent showing of his little bunch of boys. They were neatly attired, and their music was highly creditable. There must have been 400 or over left Durham in five loaded coaches—a special train which left at nine o'clock and connected with the train on the main line at Saugeen Junction. Returning, the train left Markdale a little before seven o'clock, and reached here in good time. Many are the praises for Markdale for taking such good care of the large attendance. The order throughout the day was good, and personally we saw very little evidence of dissipation.

CURATE'S ADVENTURE

Taken For a Foreign Spy by a Devonshire Constable

How an innocent curate was suspected by a Devonshire constable of being a foreign spy when he had lost his bearings in the dark was related by the central figure in the incident, the Rev. I. M. Bankes-Jones of Sunningdale, on his return from a holiday in Devon.

At ten o'clock one night Mr. Bankes-Jones left his camp for a walk. He lost his way, but eventually came upon a policeman and two other men, and asked to be directed to a certain bridge. This request appeared to raise the constable's suspicions. He followed the stranger, and asked him for his name and address.

Treating the matter as a huge joke, the curate said, "My name is Tom Smith, and my address is Windsor Castle. But that is neither my correct name nor address. If I told you correctly you would be none the wiser."

"You must come to the station with me," said the policeman, "and make your explanations there," and in spite of a protest Mr. Bankes-Jones was taken three miles to the police station. There he discovered that the constable suspected he was a foreign spy inquiring for a bridge which might be in danger of being blown up.

The sergeant-in-charge was also told that the curate had been looking at telegraph poles very suspiciously. The curate was detained for some hours for inquiries and then liberated.

Race Starter Shot While dog-racing was in progress at Coatbridge, John M. C. Glone, the official starter, was accidentally shot by the pistol going off prematurely. He succumbed to his injuries. The pistol was loaded with powder and percussion cap.
