Lesson VII.—Third Quarter, For Aug. 16, 1914.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. xxi, 33-46. Memory Verses, 42-44—Golden Text, Matt. xxi, 42—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

During these last days of the week preceding His crucifixion as He taught daily in the temple and went at night to the Mount of Olives He spoke many things in His farewell messages to this unbelieving nation. Most of them are recorded by Matthew, Mark and Luke, but some by Matthew only. This lesson, concerning the vineyard and the wicked husbandmen, is recorded in each of the first three gospels. It is the old story of the love of God and the base and sinful ingratitude of man. He loves the whole world, and "whoever" means any one anywhere in the wide world (John iii, 16). He chose Israel to be a peculiar treasure unto Him above all people. He separated them from all people to be His inheritance. He brought them unto Himself that they might be a people near to Him, and He never dealt so with any other nation. He did this for them that through them other nations might learn to know Him for their good. (Ex. xix, 4, 5; 11 Sam. vii, 22-24; 1 Kings viii, 53; Ps. cxviii, 20; cxviii, 14; Isa. lixii, 11-14.) Israel being set aside for an age, He is gathering from all the nations the willing whoevers to be a peculiar people unto Himself that through them the world may believe and know Him (Tit. ii, 14; John xvii, 21, 23). The church, these called out ones, is failing as Israel failed, but He shall not fail or be discouraged, and in His time and in His way there shall be seen on earth the consummation of His eternal purpose in a kingdom of righteousness and peace which shall never end.

His dealings with Israel and their treatment of Him were written for our benefit that we might avoid their failures and bear better fruit than they did (1 Cor. x, 6-12; Rom. xv, 4). We have seen recently that Israel was compared to a vine and also to a fig tree and an olive tree, but the one thing always desired was fruit. Compare Ezek. xv and John xv. The most full account of Israel as a vineyard is found in Isa. lv, 1-7, where His care of it is described somewhat as in our lesson, and He asks, "What could have been done more to my vineyard that I have not done in it?" Compare Ps. lxxx, 8, 9; Jer. ii, 21; Hos. x, 1.

The householder's going to a far country for a long time (verse 33; Luke xx, 9) reminds us of the story of the pounds and talents, but there is evidently a backward look here to the days of the prophets, as in Matt. xxiii, 34-39, as well as to this present age. A summary of their treatment of the Lord and His messengers is found in II Chron. xxxvi, 16 "They mocked the messengers of God and despised His words and misused His prophets until the wrath of the Lord arose against His people, till there was no remedy." He was only seeking that which was His own, fruit from His own vineyard for which He had done all that He could, some gratitude for all His love to them. Surely a reasonable expectation on His part, but this cruel treatment of His servants and thus of Himself was their reply to all that He had done for them.

Having sent servant after servant, only to receive the same ill treatment, last of all He sent unto them His son, saying, "They will reverence My Son" (verse 37). The record in Mark xii, 6, is "Having yet therefore one Son, His well beloved, He sent Him also last unto them." But they said when they saw Him, "This is the heir; come, let us kill Him and let us seize on His inheritance." This they did, and our Lord asks what shall be done unto such husbandmen. Their reply is in verse 41. So He condemns them out of their own mouth. Then He showed them from their own Scriptures that all their evil conduct had been foreseen by the God who so loved them. But it was as plainly foretold that the rejected one would yet be the honored one. He called their attention to Ps. cxviii, 22, no doubt having in mind also Gen. xlix, 24, for there is no more wonderful type of Christ in the whole Bible than Joseph in his sufferings and his glory, his cruel treatment and virtual death at their hands, their rejection of him and his dreams and their literal fulfilling of the same in bowing down to him for their lives after so many years. Our Lord had probably in mind also Isa. xxviii, 16; Dan. ii, 34, 35, 45. See the references of Peter and Paul to the same great truths concerning Christ as the stone rejected, but yet to be honored (Acts iv, 11, 12; I Pet. ii, 6-8; Eph. ii, 20).

When men grow angry in their rebellion against God and nations rage and kings and rulers take counsel against Him He can laugh at their impotence and say in quietness, "Yet have I set my King upon my holy hill of Zion" (Ps. ii, 1-6). The believer may well rejoice that "the counsel of the Lord standeth forever, the thoughts of His heart to all generations," that "every purpose of the Lord shall be performed" and say gladly, "I know that Thou canst do everything and that no thought of Thine can be hindered" (Ps. xxxiii, 11; Jer. ii, 29; Job xlii, 2, margin). But what about the fruit, the much fruit, which the branches should be yielding Him because of His great, unchanging, unchanging love? Is He seeing in us of the travail of His soul?

FLESHERTON.

Hutchinson-Chard. — The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Chard, 4th line, Artemesia, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday, August 5, when their daughter Mabel Evelyn was married to Mr. J. A. Hutchinson of Aberdeen, Sask., formerly six years teacher at Portlaw. The marriage ceremony, which took place at high noon, was conducted by Rev. R.C. Kerr of this place in the presence of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. Miss Della Pedlar played the wedding march. The bride, unattended, looked pretty in a dainty gown of ivory corded silk, with tunic of shadow lace. She wore an embroidered tulle veil caught with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lily of the valley. The house and table decorations were very pretty, and after the ceremony a choice wedding dinner was served. The bride received numerous valuable wedding presents, among them being $95 in gold and cheques. The groom's gift to the bride was a sunburst of pearls and to Miss Pedlar a crescent brooch. The young couple left on the afternoon train for New York, Albany and other points, the bride travelling in a neat suit of tan diagonal cloth, with panama hat. Upon their return here they will leave for their new home at Aberdeen, where Mr. Hutchinson has been teaching for six years. We join in the many good wishes for the young couple's happiness and prosperity.

Rock Mills Baptist church had a very successful garden party which was attended by a large number from here. The evening was very fine, and added much to the pleasure of the occasion. The proceeds were about $90.

A largely attended picnic of the residents of the Toronto line east and west back lines was held at Eugenia one day last week, and it proved an enjoyable outing.

The war news is daily waited for here with anxious expectation and our citizens manifest their loyalty by numerous flags and union jacks throughout the village.

The pupils of Flesherton high school who wrote on junior matriculation exams were successful as follows: Group 1—complete pass Loleta Beattie, R. W. Whitaker, Group 3—passed in part, H.W. Field, Ruth Spencer, Minerva Stafford, Dell Thurston, Elsie Wright.

Born.—At Toronto, on Friday, August 7, to Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Ottewell, a son.

Mrs. Wes. Buskin is visiting her sister at Huntsville.

Miss Lily Thistlewaite has gone to Toronto and Brighton on a visit.

Mrs. Ed. Thompson of Collingwood is visiting relatives here.

Miss Meda Mitchell has returned from a month's visit in Toronto.

Miss Carrie Sullivan was home from Montreal on a holiday with her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Day of New York are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. Mitchell. Mrs. Day is a niece of Mr. Mitchell.

Mrs. Newt Henderson of Winnipeg, formerly a resident of this place, was recently seized with a severe paralytic stroke, from which we are pleased to learn she is slowly recovering.

Coming out of the Methodist church shed on Sunday morning Mr. R. Wilcock's horse collided with the door, and dashing away upset the buggy which, together with the harness, was badly damaged before the horse was captured, a short distance away.

Mr. S. Shunk's little ten-year-old son Nelson stepped on a piece of glass on the street on Monday and severed an artery, from which he bled so freely that he was in a very weak condition before the flow was stopped by Dr. Bibby, who dressed the wound.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Teasdale, and son Stanley, of Leamington, accompanied by Mrs. Dunn, of Ingersoll, visited over the week end with Mrs. Teasdale's mother, Mrs. Corbett, and sister, Mrs. Wright.

Miss Lou Nicholson of Toronto is visiting her sister, Mrs. Joseph Duncan.

Mr. Jones, the student supplying Eugenia circuit, preached in the morning, and Rev. Jas. Coburn, the blind preacher of Toronto, preached in the evening, with all his old-time vigor and eloquence. Mr. Jones is a pleasing speaker, and promising young preacher. He possesses a musical voice, and joined in a well rendered duet with Mr. R. Wilcock.

Rev. Dr. Edgar of Guelph preached in the Presbyterian church on Sunday. The pulpit will be supplied next Sabbath by Mr. R. J. Woods of Corbetton, always appreciated here.

Mr. W. Buskin has purchased a new Ford car, which was delivered on Saturday.

Miss Lulu Mitchell has accepted the position of kindergarten instructor in one of the schools at Fort William. Mr. T. Chard is engaged at Rock Mills.

Mrs. Cox, widow of the late Senator George A. Cox of Toronto, accompanied by her father, Mr. Walter Sterling, city auditor, motored from the city and were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bellamy over the week end. Mrs. J. W. Henderson, who was on a month's visit here, returned to the city on Monday with Mrs. Cox in her very fine car.

Dr. and Mrs. Washington of Milwaukee paid Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Richardson a short visit the beginning of the week.

Mr. W. H. Bunt and daughter Florence visited over the week end with friends in Collingwood.

Miss May McClocklin of Toronto visited her aunt, Mrs. M. Wilson, a day or two last week, and was accompanied home by Miss Wilson to holiday for a couple of weeks.

Mr. R. Bentham and daughter Zilla spent the latter part of the week with Mr. J. Buskin and family at Woodhouse.

Mrs. Jas. Jamieson is visiting old friends at Eugenia.

Mr. Thos. Bentham of Chatsworth is spending a few days with his brother Richard, before leaving for the west to harvest.

Mrs. Kehler of Toronto is visiting her cousin, Mr. P. Quigg, and other relatives.

Rev. L. W. Thom of Hawkesville is holidaying for a few days among his old friends here.

The Guild of the Presbyterian church met at the home of Miss Lily Thistlewaite on Monday evening and presented her with a gold-mounted umbrella, as a token of esteem, on her departure to Toronto.

THE YORKE MURDER.

Fifty Years Ago Tamworth Was The Scene of Another Murder and Yorke Was the Name of the Girl.

All Canada and the civilized world has had its eyes turned to the disappearance of Blanche Yorke, the Tamworth dressmaker. The village lies out from the city of Kingston in a rocky kind of country. Yet it has grown some in the last half century. Its present notoriety recalls that nearly fifty years ago Tamworth had a sensational murder which no doubt escaped the memory of many. The girl murdered was named Yorke, and the deed was a foul one. Miss Yorke was the daughter of the hotel keeper there at that time. The place was noted for its hospitality and cleanliness. The young woman was admittedly pretty and was beloved by the entire community for her pleasing manners and her hospitable nature. Many a home in those days had been brightened by her cheery countenance. It was while returning from one of these errands of mercy that she was done to death. On a farm next to her home lived a family by the name of Fraeick. One of the boys, Zachariah by name, was not overly bright and he time and again expressed his admiration for Miss Yorke. He was advised to propose to the young woman. This he did and on her refusal Fraeick became exasperated and murdered her. At the time of the murder the girl was returning home and was on her father's farm. Fraeick cunningly buried the body under a heap of stones.

Search began for the missing girl, and none was more eager to lend assistance than the murderer. After several days one of the dogs of the neighborhood continued to hang around a stone pile and from time to time give tongue which attracted attention. On tearing down the stones the body of the unfortunate girl was disclosed. Suspicion was directed to Fraeick. He was arrested and later made a confession of his crime. He had started across the field with the girl and on her refusal to marry him it seems that he lost all sense of manhood and cold-bloodedly took her life. The enormity of his crime then dawned upon him and to save himself the consequences he hid the body. Fraeick was tried for murder in Kingston and condemned to be hanged. The execution took place and Fraeick's father went to town and got the body of his son, which he placed in the wagon to take home. At Odessa he drove his horses under the hotel shed and went into the bar where he proceeded to get full, and after spending a couple of hours with the boys told them he must be going as he had "Zack's" body out in the shed. Taking the body he proceeded to bury it as near the Yorke residence as he could, the two farms adjoining. The neighborhood became incensed at this act and a few nights afterward the body of the unfortunate young man was dug up, taken to the home of the parents and propped against the door in such a manner that when the family opened it in the morning the body fell into the room.

Those were rough days and the pioneer life, while it brought out the best that was in many, also brought out the worst. "Zack" Fraeick never had much of a chance. His dull brain only knew that he wanted the Yorke girl. When his desire could not be realized, his apparent love turned to hatred and revenge with the above result. After fifty years and the spread of civilization a far more heinous crime has been committed by one who has passed through college with honors and who came from an honorable home.—Kincardine Reporter.

INFLUENZA is raging in this locality among the horses, and some of the farmers do not understand what is wrong with their horses.

Some horses are affected with swelling in the jaw, others are affected by discharging from the nostrils, while some are affected with coughing spells. The great danger in working the horses is, that they get heated up and later take a chill, which, in some instances, causes death. Buy a package of our Distemper Cure, and after using it your horses will soon get free from all trouble.

TREATING A BURN.

Exclude the air. That's the first thing. And do it very quickly. Simply apply oil of some sort. Olive oil is good, or vaseline does. Lard or butter if entirely unsalted may be used.

Above all don't thrust the burn into cold water.

It relieves for an instant and may cause an ulceration.

And don't tie up a burn in dry cloth—cloth admits air.

Don't rub or cut off hanging skin—simply apply some soothing oil.
