Lesson V.—Fourth Quarter, For Nov. 1, 1914.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. xxvi, 57-68. Memory Verses, 63, 64—Golden Text, Isa. liii, 7—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Not only was there power in His two words, "I am," to send them all to the ground, but more than twelve legions of angels were ready to respond to His call if He had asked for them (verse 53; John xviii, 5, 6). But He came to fulfill all Scripture, and the time had come for Him to let them take Him. It was their hour, and the power of darkness. At least twelve times in Matthew's gospel it is written "that it might be fulfilled" or "then was fulfilled" (Matt. i, 22; ii, 15, 17, 23; viii, 17; xii, 17; xiii, 35; xli, 4; xxvii, 54, 56; xxviii, 9, 35). After His resurrection He said that all things must be fulfilled, which were written in the Law of Moses and in the prophets and in the psalms concerning Him (Luke xxiv, 44). He came to fulfill all Scripture, and He will; all concerning the future as literally as He has fulfilled the past; so when we read any yet unfulfilled prophecy we should say this shall surely come to pass in His time.

They laid hold on Jesus and led Him away. They took Jesus and bound Him and led Him away to Annas first, (verse 57; John xviii, 13). It would be an inconceivable, unimaginable record, were it not so awfully true, that the Creator of all things, who giveth to all life and breath and all things, suffered His rebellious creatures to take Him and bind Him and lead Him as they pleased. According to the golden text, led as a lamb to the slaughter and as a sheep dumb before its shears. God in the hands of sinful man, and submitting to all their ill treatment, that we who by His sufferings for us are made children of God when we receive the Lord Jesus, might learn how to submit to ill treatment for His sake (1 Pet. ii, 19-25).

Peter followed Him afar off (verse 58), but his story will come in a later lesson. In verse 56 it is said that all the disciples forsook Him and fled. This also was a fulfillment of the prophecy, "I will smite the shepherd and the sheep shall be scattered."

There is an interesting statement in this connection in Mark xiv, 51, 52, concerning a young man who followed Him when He was arrested, having only a linen cloth about his naked body, and as some laid hold on him he left the linen cloth and fled from them naked. As Mark is the only one who gives this record, we shall have to ask him about it when we see him.

In the remainder of our lesson we see Jesus in the presence of the high priests and all the council. They sought false witnesses against Him to put Him to death, but though many bore witness they did not agree. At the last came two who testified that Jesus said, "I am able to destroy the temple of God and to build it in three days, but neither did they witness agree together (Mark xiv, 55, 59). Thus also was Scripture fulfilled which saith, "Falsely witnesses are risen up against me, and such as breathe but cruelty." "They laid to my charge things that I knew not" (Ps. xxvii, 12; xxxv, 11). Oh, the cruel injustice of it all, the mad hatred of those who were fully determined to kill Him! Could Turks treat Armenians worse?

Jesus held His peace. He answered nothing (verse 63; xxvii, 12). There was nothing to answer, for no two witnesses agreed. How much false accusation can you bear meekly for His sake? Have you learned to see God and not people, and to say, "I, as a dumb man, heard not, and I was as a dumb man that openeth not his mouth?" "I was dumb, I opened not my mouth because thou didst it" (Ps. xxxviii, 13; xxxix, 9). It is a wise saying that "whoso keepeth his mouth and his tongue keepeth his soul from troubles" (Prov. xxi, 23), but who can do it, for the tongue can no man tame? The people in the time of Hezekiah did wisely when they held their peace and answered not a word to the blasphemer. Hezekiah did wisely when he spread the blasphemous letter before the Lord (II Kings xviii, 36; xix, 14). When the high priest said, "I adjure Thee by the Living God that Thou tell us whether Thou be the Christ, the Son of God," then an answer was necessary, and Jesus assented, saying, "Thou hast said." But how startling to the high priest must have been the added words, unless he was too dead in sin to be startled by anything, "Nevertheless, I say unto you, hereafter shall ye see the Son of Man sitting on the right hand of power and coming in the clouds of heaven" (verses 63, 64).

That settled it in the minds of these holy (?) men. The prisoner was a blasphemer and worthy of death; so they mocked Him, and smote Him, and spit in His face, and blindfolded Him, and asked Him to tell who struck Him.

Was ever a prisoner so ill treated even if guilty? Not so with us. But this man was innocent, for even Judas Iscariot had so testified. Some day all these men will be before Him as their judge, and unless they repented before they died they will have to hear His "Depart ye cursed." Even at this day the scholarship of this world may be heard declaring as blasphemers those who truly believe that Jesus is God, and the time of His coming again draweth nigh.

FLESHERTON.

Word was received by Mr. J. Harrison on Thursday last of the death of Mr. Richard Bentham at Lewiston, N.Y., after but a brief illness with pneumonia. The deceased, who was the third son of the late Mr. John Bentham, was born near Flesherton. Some years ago, he moved with his aged mother to New York State, where he has since lived. Besides his sorrowing mother, he leaves a widow and six children, all of whom have the deep sympathy of friends here. Mr. Bentham was a nephew of Mrs. Harrison, who left on Friday taken ill at Toronto, and unable to proceed further.

Another of the few remaining heirs of the late Mr. Bentham, and perhaps the most aged in the township, has passed away in the person of Mr. John Duncan, who died at the home of his son-in-law, Mr. Francis Shier, on Saturday evening last. During the day he took his meals and moved about as usual, but soon after retiring passed peacefully away. He was a highly respected old gentleman, and a lover of his family the heritage of a good name. The deceased was born in the County Fermagh, Ireland, in 1819, and was therefore 95 years of age. Sixty-seven years ago he came to Canada, and for two years lived near Brampton, where he was married to Mrs. Eliza McKenzie, who died 27 years ago. After his marriage, he brought his bride to Artemesia, on which he had formerly located, and there they spent their married life, successful in agricultural pursuits. Since retiring, Mr. Duncan has made his home with members of his family. He is survived by two sons and five daughters, viz.: Wm. G., in Washington; Joseph H., in Flesherton; Mrs. F. GERMAN SOLDIERS ORDERED TO KILL PRISONERS.

Under date of October 26, a despatch from Washington says: The French Embassy to-day issued the following statement:—The report appeared in the press some time ago, according to which General Stenger, commanding a brigade of the German army in France, had issued an order to his troops prescribing to them to give no quarter to any prisoners, but to shoot them all and to finish the wounded.

"An official statement" from Berlin, via Sayville, was issued thereupon, declaring that this was an "impudent lie."

The atrocious order had, nevertheless, really been given and carried out, and proof of it is in the hands of the French Government. Over twenty German prisoners of the 12th and 142nd Regiments of Infantry, forming the Stenger brigade, are now held in France. They have declared, under oath, before the magistrate, that this order was actually issued on the 26th of August, and that in accordance with it, all French wounded found that day were at once dispatched. Officers, and notably Captain Curtius personally, of the 12th Regiment superintended the execution."

BLYTH'S CORNERS.

With favorable weather, the annual entertainment of Knox church Sunday school, to be held on Friday evening, October 30, promises to be an enjoyable affair. Admission 15c. and 10c. Refreshments served. Everybody welcome.

The services conducted by J. A. Patterson, K.C., in Knox and Amos churches on Sunday, were a most masterful effort, and were listened to with much interest throughout by large congregations. He is a very unpretentious, but nevertheless forceful speaker, and clinches his arguments in a most convincing and reasonable manner. As a slight way of conveying to his hearers of the hard times in the city of Toronto, he told of advertising for an office boy lately, and only 65 boys of all ranks and conditions applied for the job. For the same job last year, only three applied. The pay for the same work was only $3 per week. Fortune's misfortune. We presume he won't be in a hurry to catch same way.

Mr. Con. Becker, while moving his threshing machine to Mr. John Marshall's on Saturday night last, broke something about his engine and had to tow it to one side with his team. It was rather a dangerous looking thing for horses passing on Sunday, but he took on it at night, and no accident happened.

Mr. Heffernan of Guelph, accompanied by Mr. Ryan of Durham was on the line in search of springer cows to-day. We sold him

THE UNION JACK.

It's only a small bit of bunting
It's only an old colored rag:
Yet thousands have died for its honor,
And shed their best blood for the flag.

It's charged with the cross of St. Andrew,
Which of old Scotland's heroes has led;
For which Ireland's bravest have bled.

Joined with these on our own English ensign,
St. George's red cross on white field,
Round which from King Richard to Wolsey
Britons conquer or die—but ne'er yield.

It flutters triumphant o'er ocean,
As free as the wind and the wave,
And bondsman from shackles unloosed,
'Neath its shadows no longer a slave.

It floats over Cyprus and Malta,
O'er Canada, India, Hong Kong;
And Britons, wherever the flag's flying,
Claim the rights which to Britons belong.

We hoist it to show our devotion,
To our King, to our country and laws,
'Tis the outward and visible emblem
Of advancement and Liberty's cause.

You may say it's a small bit of bunting;
You may call it an old colored rag;
Yet Freedom hath made it majestic
And Time hath ennobled the flag.
