OVERWORKING DIGNITY.

What Happened When the Minister | The New Name Is Simply a Return to Gave the Bridegroom a Timely Hint.

A minister was recounting some of his amusing experiences in marrying people. "There's an old custom," said bride immediately after the marriage ceremony is over. It's a good, practhan anything else that I know of to dissipate the awkward pause that almost always follows a simple, informal ceremony. For this reason I keep the custom alive.

"One day a man whom I shall call Smith came to the parsonage to be married Mr. Smith was a pompous, consequential little man The prospective Mrs. Smith was a fine, winsome girl. After the ceremony Mr. Smith, in spite of his pomposity, did not seem to know just what was the next thing to do, so, as is my practice in such emergencies, I said. 'My dear sir, it is your privilege to salute the bride. He turned around and, extending his hand formally, said, 'Mrs Smith, I congratulate you."-New York Times.

• 4444444444444444 PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Varicose Veiris. As is generally known, a varicose vein is one which is pathologically and permanently enlarged. Usually this condition occurs in the veins of the legs, though any vein may be affected in this way. Not only are varicose veins enlarged in width, but they are also enlarged in length. with the result that they assume very tortuous or sinuous courses. The symptoms of varix are usually relieved by raising the limb. The superficially enlarged veins are readily recognized. One of the worst effects is hemorrhage from the bursting of an affected vein. The treatment of this accident is most simple, yet through ignorance many lives are lost in this way. The patient should at once lie down, and the limb should be raised. A pad should be fixed over the wounded vein by a bandage or handkerchief, and the limb should then be bandaged from the toes upward. As to the treatment of varicose veins, there is no doubt that in all bad cases excision by a surgeon is the most satisfactory. Milder cases should be treated by supporting the veins by a well fitting elastic stocking or properly applied rubber bandage.

PETROGRAD.

the Original One.

The city heretofore known as St. Petersburg is in future to be called Petrograd. This apparent innovation he, "that the bridegroom shall kiss the is in reality a return to the name which Peter the Great's second capital had borne from the beginning. All the old tical custom, for it serves more handily books published in that city during the latter part of Peter's reign and those of his immediate successors bear the word Petrograd on the title pages. "Grad" and "gerod" are two forms of the same word, which means "city" or "town." Etymologically it signifies an inclosed space and belongs to the Later from "bear" he turned to "bull," a same root as the English word "garden." It occurs in hundreds of Slav geographical names as, for instance, in Novgorod, "new town;" Ivangorod, Elizabetgrad, Euxinograd Constantinople itself is often called in Russian the "emperor's city" -- Czaregrad.

During the reigns of the Empresses Catherine and Elizabeth the mania for adopting foreign names was rife in Russia, and on many places known in old Russian history German names were bestowed, most of which remain to this day

After the treaty of Berlin, when Count Ignatiev, who had been Russia's ambassador in Constantinople became at first minister of the interior and then president of the Slavonic society, he. Kamarov, and a number of other Slavophiles started a movement in favor of altering those German names to their Russian equivalents or to the original Slav appellations, wherever there were any such. In time, no doubt, Peterhof, Oranienbaum, Yekaterinburg, Orenburg and a host of other places will also be rechristened, and Count Ignatiev's proposal will be fully carried out .- Dr. E. J. Dillon in Manchester Guardian.

HOW THE SUGAR GOES.

Pathetic Wail of a New York Restaurant Proprietor.

"I love my patrons," said a well known restaurant proprietor, "but friendship and platonic affection cease when they begin to take all the sugar I have. The other day I took an inventory of the stock of this establishment, and I found that my patrons were using fifteen and eighteen lumps of sugar to every cup of coffee or tea that was consumed. I knew that could not be true, and I put a watch on my belp, thinking that some one was steal ing the sugar. I saw none of my help go near the barrel, while the sugar continued to go at the same rate.

"So I watched my customers. Many of them never used sugar in their coffee or tea before this war, and now they dig into the bowl and take out a large handful of the lumps. Do you "Where are you going?" asked the think they put any of it into their coffee or tea? No; they put the lumps into their pockets and take them home.

"Well, take me some place where I "The war and the high cost of living can look at a new building or a monu- are responsible. People taking their ment. "Couldn't you buy it by mail?" he was asked.

"I don't want to buy it," said Ashbrook. "I've got one. I just want to look at it."-New York Sun.

Pumpkin Pie.

"Should a pumpkin pie be more than an inch thick?" demands the St. Louis Globe-Democrat Well, well! And in this particularly Providence blessed corner of the earth we never speak of "thickness" in connection with the joy producing padding of a pumpkin pie. Up here it is referred to as "depth," the preference being given to the kind that is too deep to be sounded and too luscious to be fathomed.-Philadelphia Inquirer.

Radium at the Big 'Exposition. The United States bureau of mines is planning a comprehensive exhibit at the Panama exposition in San Francisco. Visitors, after exploring a mine, will regain the surface through a radium booth, in which actual radium emanations will be shown. An officer of the bureau will give his whole attention to visitors.

Slavs In Austria.

Among its peoples Austria numbers about 20,000,000 of Slavic blood, own Slavs are separated from the Servians by an alphabet. Their language is practically the same, but the Austrian Slavs use the Latin alphabet, like our the Russian characters.

A Curious Coincidence. The "oak of peace" at Jena, Prussia, which was planted in 1816 in commemeration of the downfall of Napoleon, was by a strange coincidence struck by nightning and burnt to the ground amost at the moment of the recepthen at Belgrade of the Austrian dec taration of war.

Insidious Persistence. "I understand that you have broken your engagement with Harold Jimkins," said one girl,

"We were never engaged," replied the other. "The trouble with Harold is that he is too grammatical."

"What has grammar to do with it?" "He took advantage of the fact that when I get excited I stammer. When be asked me to marry him I said 'No, no? and he immediately insisted that two negatives make an affirmative."-Washington Star.

Periods of Elation.

"Why do you have your office on the same floor with a dentist?" asked Mrs. Gabb "Don't the painful noises worry you?"

"Sometimes," replied Mr. Gabb. "But I enjoy the painful silences." "What do you mean by a painful silence?" asked Mrs. Gabb. "That's when the dentist gets a woman in the chair and puts a rubber dam in her mouth," replied Mr. Gabb. -Cincinnati Enquirer.

Little Girl's Guess.

Little Girl's mother was reading the paper and came to a personal referring to the departure of a young man for a polytechnic school.

"Wonder what polytechnic means?" she said. "Look in the dictionary, Little Girl, and see."

But Little Girl was busy with a new doll's wardrobe, so she chose to guess. "Maybe it's a school where they train parrots, mamma."-St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

No Reason For a Curfew. "I understand they have a curfew law out there now," he said.

"No," his informant answered; "they did have one, but they abandoned it." "What was the matter?"

"Well, the bell rang at 9 o'clock and almost every one complained that it woke them up."-Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Had to Say Something Mean. "Hubby, some ladies have asked me to join the movement for beautifying our town."

"Well?" "And I'd like to join." "And what's your idea of beautifying our town? Getting a new feather for your hat?"-Kansas City Journal. A Compliment.
