FLESHERTON.

After about ten days' illness with pneumonia, Mrs. Jan. Corbett, relict of the late Mr. James Corbett of Corbetton, passed away at her home here on Sunday, March 7, aged 75 years. Fourteen years ago Mrs. Corbett was bereft of her husband at Corbetton, where they were among the earliest settlers, the young couple coming from Scarborough township after their marriage. The remaining years of her widowhood were mostly spent here. She was a very highly esteemed Christian lady, and a faithful member of the Presbyterian church. On Monday evening, an impressive funeral service was held in the church, conducted by the pastor, Rev. A. McVicar. Revs. Dudgeon and Kerr took part in the service, and Rev. Mr. Jones, who assisted in the choir, sang "Jesus Saviour Pilot Me." The pulpit, and deceased's pew were draped in mourning, and beautiful floral offerings covered the casket. On Tuesday morning the remains were taken by train to Shelburne for interment beside those of her husband. Three sons and 2 daughters survive, Benjamin in Michigan, James at the Soo, who arrived too late for the funeral, and George, whereabouts not known. Mrs. H. Teasdale of Leamington and Mrs. W. L. Wright of Flesherton; also one sister, Mrs. Cook of Thornbury, who, with relatives there, attended the funeral. Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Moore moved last week to their home at Newbury. Mrs. Moore was an active worker in the Methodist Ladies' Aid and Women's Institute, in both of which she will be much missed. By the former she was presented with an address, a cut-glass sugar bowl and cream pitcher and by the latter a biscuit jar. The Masonic At Home held in the spacious assembly hall of the High school on Friday evening last was a successful and pleasant function. There were about 80 present, and all engaged in the various amusements provided, according to their individual tastes. During the evening a short program was rendered by Mr. M. K. Richardson, the first Master of the lodge presiding in a very happy manner. Mr. R. H. Goldhawk catered, and the hall was artistically decorated. Born—On Tuesday, March 9, to Mr. and Mrs. Archie Stewart, west back line, a son.

The Red Cross Column

The report of the work of the joint committee of the British Red Cross Society and the order of St. John of Jerusalem during the first six months of the war, which was issued recently, is an intensely interesting document and will be read with interest by all supporters of these societies in Canada. It points out that at present the society has on its list some 705 auxiliary home hospitals, containing 19,576 beds, the bulk of which have been organized, opened and staffed by voluntary aid detachments under the control of the military authorities. Immediately upon the outbreak of war the societies received offers of convalescent homes for soldiers and sailors. In all, these have amounted to provision of 21,333 beds.

An interesting account is given of the work of the Voluntary Aid Detachment rest station at Boulogne, which has been doing invaluable work, the extent of which may be gauged from the fact that on November 22 300 wounded were fed during the day and over 200 dressings were done in the wagons. During the three months the unit has been working food has been supplied to 38,000 wounded.

The report details foreign service undertaken by the Red Cross workers in Belgium and France. Two units have been sent to Serbia, which has suffered terribly during the war, and one to Montenegro. Both these little countries have witnessed the most appalling devastation and until Lady Paget went out to Serbia with a number of nurses and doctors, the wounded were dying in the streets of Belgrade. The Serbian Relief Fund, of which Sir Edward Boyle, Bart., is treasurer, has been able to come to the rescue of this little kingdom, but they are still in a pitiable plight and need all sorts of medical and other supplies as well as warm clothing of every description. Those who are interested in Serbia or feel for her terrible state may send subscriptions to Sir Edward Boyle at 63 Queen's Gate, London, England.

The report states that during the six months 170 hospitals have been supplied with nurses and 450 requests for nurses have been met, some of them within an hour. Up to now, about 350 convalescent officers have been sent to convalescent homes. About 25 officers some of them with their wives have been sent to Wengen, in Switzerland, their travelling expenses and hotel accommodation being provided. Hospitality has been arranged for in London and different parts of the country for a number of Belgian officers and their families and the joint committee has handed over to the Belgian Government a house with 400 beds. This house is now used as King Albert's hospital, as well as another large house containing 300 bedrooms, which will be used as a convalescent home for Belgian soldiers. In round figures the stores department has made purchases to the amount of $101,170. The Red Cross Society is continuously providing the many authorized hospitals in England in which British and Belgian wounded are being treated with the supplies they need.

These facts will give the people of Canada an idea of the stupendous amount of labor that is entailed in connection with the providing for the wounded and convalescent soldiers and the large amount of money and supplies that are required in order that the work may be satisfactorily carried on. As the war progresses, the wounded will increase in numbers and still more supplies and warm clothing, etc., will be needed. Society is sure that the appeals it is making to the Canadian public will be answered with the generous spirit that has been evidenced ever since the outbreak of war. The Society will continue to appeal to the Canadian people as long as the war lasts and as long as supplies and money are needed.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson XII.—First Quarter, For March 21, 1915.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, I Sam. xiv, 1-13. Memory Verse, 7—Golden Text, Rom. xiii, 12—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Our first introduction to Jonathan, the son of Saul, is in chapter xiii, 2, where we find him the captain of a thousand men smiting a garrison of the Philistines and thus inciting them to gather against Israel in numbers as the sand which is on the seashore (xiii, 3-7), causing many in Israel to hide wherever they could—in caves, rocks, high places and in pits and to flee over Jordan, while those with Saul followed him with trembling. It was sad indeed and a reproach to God to have His people in such distress, but the faith was wholly with them. Let us lay it to heart that when believers are cast down or overcome instead of victorious it is a reproach to our God.

Samuel had instructed Saul to wait at Gilgal seven days until he should come and offer sacrifices and show him what to do (chapter x, 8). Saul waited seven days, but not quite the full time, and, as he said, forced himself and offered the burnt offering, and just as he had finished Samuel came and reproved him and told him that his kingdom would not continue, but that the Lord had sought Him a man after His own heart (chapter xiii, 8-14). Did you ever wait all but the time that would have brought the person or thing you expected and then grow restless and just missed it? If so you can probably sympathize somewhat with Saul. But next time wait more patiently and the full time, for though He tarry, He will surely come in the fullness of time, whether it be for some deliverance in your daily life or to the air for us all.

Jonathan is one of the most beautiful of all the characters in the Bible and his love for David one of the most beautiful of love stories—a rare man indeed, seemingly raised up by God to be a true friend and comfort to David. But we shall meet him again in our studies. In our lesson verses he is a real hero and, with his armor bearer, starts a wonderful deliverance for Israel. His reliance was on the Lord and his courage most unusual, for what could two men expect to do? He must have remembered Deut. xxxii, 30, and the assurance that one should chase a thousand and two put ten thousand to flight, for hear him encourage his armor bearer with the words, "It may be that the Lord will work for us, for there is no restraint to the Lord to save by many or by few" (verse 6). It may have been that he thought of the great deliverance by Gideon's three hundred (Judg. vii, 4, 7), and possibly Asa long afterward was encouraged by the remembrance of Jonathan (II Chron. xiv, 11). I have been personally strengthened and encouraged by each of these records and expect some day in the kingdom to have good fellowship with Gideon and Jonathan and Asa and lots of others whose records have greatly helped me. Jonathan's helper must have had the same spirit as his master and greatly helped him with his good words, "Do all that is in thine heart; behold, I am with thee according to thy heart" (verse 7). They sought guidance of the Lord and received the token they asked for if He would have them go forward (verses 10, 12), so they bravely scaled the rocks, just these two, and the Lord wrought a victory and fought with them by a great earthquake (verses 13-15). When Saul and his men heard of the battle and the noise of victory they, with those who had been in hiding, took part in the defeat of the Philistines, and "so the Lord saved Israel that day" (verses 19-23). The rest of chapter xiv tells of what looks like a great mistake of Saul's, which caused much trouble and but for the interference of the people on behalf of Jonathan might have resulted in his death. Saul had evidently begun to go astray, as shown in his not waiting the full time appointed by Samuel and also in his receiving no answer from God when he asked counsel of Him.

When one has ceased to be controlled by God there is no knowing what he may do, for if God is not controlling it is the devil. Even in the record of Simon Peter when he testified of our Lord, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God," Jesus said, "My Father who is in heaven revealed that to thee." In the same chapter it is recorded that Jesus had to say to him, "Get thee behind me Satan; thou art an offense unto me, for thou savorest not the things that be of God, but those that be of men" (Matt. xvi, 16, 17, 23). The tongue is an unruly member, sometimes blessing and sometimes cursing, but this ought not so to be (Jas. iii, 8-10). There is one good thing written of Saul in chapter xiv, 35. He built an altar unto the Lord—his first one. It is also written that he delivered Israel out of the hands of them that spoiled them, but it is also written that there was sore war against the Philistines all the days of Saul (verses 48, 52). Contrast chapter vii, 13. "The hand of the Lord was against the Philistines all the days of Samuel." It was better for Israel under the rule of Samuel than under Saul, for Samuel was the Lord's representative, while Saul was given to them in answer to their cry for a king that they might be like other nations.

PASTOR RUSSELL IS A SHREWD ADVERTISING AGENT

It is a puzzle to many how the "Millennial Dawn" teaching can possibly attract any thinking individual. And it is a still greater marvel to many where the money comes from to pay for the vast advertising scheme which keeps the delusion afloat. The truth is that a great many people do very shallow thinking any any delusion, if it possesses even the remotest degree of plausibility, is sure to make some converts.

One thing at least we must credit "pastor" Russell with—he knows full well the value of printer's ink, and he'll give the public his sermons even if, as was the case in Toronto, he has to pay for them as advertising matter. The "pastor," we understand, has never been a ministerial member of any religious body; he is self-ordained; he has never attended any theological seminary nor any university of which we have knowledge; and his discourses do not leave the impression that he is a man of strong mentality; but he is a shrewd business man, so shrewd and successful that it is asserted that his "income" runs into hundreds of thousands annually, and he knows how to use his funds in advertising so as to still further increase his revenue.

He is also a consummate master of the art of "bluff." We were talking to the editor of a small village weekly some time ago who had had experience with the "pastor" or his representatives. The editor was using plate matter in the make-up of his paper, and he received a letter from a "certain organization" urging him to use a certain form of plate which contained "pastor" Russell's sermons. The editor paid no attention to this communication, and not long afterward there came a second, urging still more strongly the value of "pastor" Russell's sermons. Finally, when the editor proved still unresponsive, there came another letter, threatening, in case he did not comply with their request, to place another man in the field and issue a rival paper which would, of course, print "pastor" Russell's sermons. The editor quietly told his correspondents to go ahead, but he heard no more from them. It was pure bluff.

But along with this advertising campaign the "pastor" has proved himself one of the shrewdest of the many misleading religious lights that we have known in taking advantage of any successful religious movement amongst the churches for his own ends. For instance, the International Series of Sunday School Lessons has acquired a world-wide reputation, and so the "pastor" instituted the International Bible Students' Association, which no one but the initiated would be able to identify as an association of Millennial Dawnists. And when the Laymen's Missionary movement had proved a great success, the "pastor" promptly instituted his Laymen's Home Missionary Movement, and the name so deceived some Methodist preachers that they actually allowed its representatives into their pulpits to preach Millennial Dawnism.

But the "pastor" has had his tribulations also. He has been singularly unfortunate in his libel suits. He thought himself slandered by the Brooklyn Eagle, and sued it for libel—and lost. Then got very long ago, he sued Rev. J. J. Ross, Baptist minister, of Hamilton, Ont., for libel—and lost. And in the witness box the "pastor" made some strange confessions, which are duly recorded in a pamphlet published by Mr. Ross. The revelations are such as would drive any ordinary man out of public life, but the "pastor" bobs up again as smiling and unflashed as ever, and only a few days ago in one of his sermons, published as advertising matter in a Toronto paper, this discredited individual had the effrontery to give to a public which knows, or ought to know his reputation the following—"God is still misrepresented to the world. The creeds are still huddled to the bosom in outward pretence, while inwardly loathed. A great fraud, a great hypocrisy you say! Yes, the most astounding the world has ever known. Two hundred thousand professed ministers of God and Christ stand before the world to-day telling legends of the Dark Ages and seeking to hinder people from coming to a knowledge of the truth, meanwhile receiving the people's money and reverence. Does not such hypocrisy, such blasphemy against God, such deception of the people deserve a great punishment, and is it not high, even at the door?" Evidently the "pastor" is not accessible to any ordinary attack, and will doubtless run his course to the end, not wholly unsuccessful in deceiving men, markedly successful in making money, and wholly oblivious to the condemnation with which the thinking public must inevitably regard his chequered career.—The Christian Guardian.
