Brought to a Decision

By LOUISE B. CUMMINGS

The telephone is a great institution, especially in the country, where they have a wire that conveys everybody's messages and everybody can hear everybody else's message. The way they distinguish between calls for different persons is by signal. For instance, Amos Tucker's call will be two short rings, the Widow Fowler's a long and a short call, and so on, like the Morse telegraphic alphabet.

But those owning telephones are apt to listen not only to their own but to their neighbors' calls. If the Andersons are called there is a number of clicks all along the line.

Now, it happened that Enoch Dawson, living in a region supplied by the Farmers' Telephone company, took up the receiver and called one of his two best girls, Edna Perkins, whose signal was a short, a long and a short ring. It happened that all at the Perkins farm were out milking or attending to some other farm duty, but Sarah Short, the other of Enoch's best girls, heard the ring and went to the telephone.

"Is that you, Edna?" Miss Short recognized Enoch's voice. "Yes," she replied. "What is it, Enoch?"

"Oh, nothing much. I just called you up to have a little chin-chin. We lost a calf this mornin'—the brindle one."

"You don't mean it! What was the matter?" "Don't know. Tuk sick and died. Say, Ed, how would you like to go out with me Sunday afternoon in my buggy? I just had it painted."

"I dunno. But I reckon Sallie Short wouldn't like to have you take me out. If she should see me she might git mad."

"That doesn't make any difference to me. Let her git mad ef she likes. Reckon I kin stand it."

"Where would I come in? Sal Short when she gets riled is terrible. She'd go round tellin' everybody that I butted in between you and her and tuk you away from her. No, sir-ee, I don't do anything underhanded. If you want me to go ridin' with you regular it's a go, but I don't intend to keep company with a feller as can't decide between two gals. Goodby."

There was a click, and Enoch was left talking to nothing; at least nobody answered him.

It so happened that Edna Perkins came in while this dialogue was in progress and, thinking to call up Enoch, took up the receiver. Hearing his voice she said nothing, but listened, hearing the principal part of the foregoing dialogue and recognizing, which Enoch did not, her rival's voice. When the conversation ceased Edna hung up the receiver, but later called Enoch.

"Well, who is it?" he asked. "I'm Sallie. What you goin' to do Sunday afternoon, Enoch? Can't you come round about 4 o'clock and stay to supper?"

"I don't think I can. I've got an engagement."

"Oh!" "Yes, I'll be occupied all the afternoon."

"Somepin goin' on between you and Edna Perkins, I reckon."

"Well, yes. I dunno. I asked her to go out for a ride with me, but I dunno if she's goin' to accept or not."

"H'm! Well, you may as well understand now as any time that if you want to keep company with Edna and me both at the same time you can't do it. You've got to stick to one or the other of us. You can accept my invitation for Sunday or let it alone, whichever you choose, but if you take Edna Perkins to drive on that day you needn't trouble yourself to come to see me any more."

There was a click, and once more Enoch was left to talk to nobody. But he heard a succession of giggles all along the line and a succession of clicks as a number of women, both young and elderly, hung up their receivers. The ears of the eavesdroppers were much sharper than Enoch's, and they knew that each of the rivals had said that if he didn't give her up the other would have nothing more to do with him.

The next Sunday afternoon the road between the Perkinses and the Shorts was lined with persons who had learned either from eavesdropping or from one another that Enoch Dawson would be forced to decide between two girls to whom he had been paying marked attention. Enoch's farm was connected by this road with the main road. At the junction were many persons watching to see which way he would turn on reaching the main road, whether he would turn to Edna's or Sarah's home. At 3 o'clock he was seen coming in his spick and span buggy. He noticed those waiting, but it did not occur to him that they were interested in his movements. When he reached the main road he pulled up and looked first in one direction, then in the opposite.

"Get up," he said at last, turning his horse's head toward the Perkins farm. He was astonished at a shout from the loiterers: "Perkins has won!" "Bully for Edna!" "Short isn't long enough!" and other such remarks.

Something was evidently wrong, and he colored, but drove on to the Perkins farm, where he found another party in waiting. They threw up their hats and cheered when they saw him coming.

Thanks to the telephone, his choice had been made.

CORNER CONCERNS. Mr. Wm. Sirrs of Unity, Sask paid a short visit to old friends here last week. He is now a shipper of live stock and it was while he was on one of these trips to Montreal that he took a run up. Mrs. John Henry of Hepworth is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. McMeeken, the latter being in feeble health. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Johnson of Holstein, spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Joe Lennox. Mr. Harold Lee of Palmerston visited friends around the Lake the first of the week. Crop prospects are very good at present. Everything looks like being a good average crop. Three from St. Paul's church received the rights of confirmation on Sunday in Durham from Bishop Williams. Mr. John Barber had some money stolen out of his house last Friday while he was away from home. We are sorry to hear of his loss, as he was always strictly honest and upright. Varney should have a police force.

The next meeting of the Ladies' Aid will be held in the home of Mrs. Jas. Mack on Wednesday the 21st July. At present all we can say about it is that everyone will be made welcome. If we catch on to any of the workings of the society we may have more to say later on.

Our picnic last Friday, despite the nice shower of rain, was a success. Of course, it could not be held in Mr. Wilson's grove, as intended, but Mr. Donald Watson, who lives close by, threw open the doors of his barn and house, and all enjoyed themselves well. The Ladies' Aid had a booth, which proved very satisfactory to them. The proceeds are for patriotic purposes.

The patriotic concert given by the ladies of this section was a very enjoyable one, although not so well attended as it might have been. A lack of experience in organization may have been the cause. The numbers were all much appreciated, especially those of Mr. E. McClocklin and Mr. Stedman, both of whom had to respond to encores. Ye Editor of The Chronicle gave a bright, pithy speech, as also did Inspector Allan. Rev. Mr. Morris acted as chairman. Misses Lena Ritchie and Jenima Lawrence of Durham, were able accompanists. The proceeds, which amounted to about $17, were in aid of the Red Cross.

SHARP ATTACK REPULSED

Dangerous Condition Relieved Just In Time By "Fruit-a-tives"

MR. F. J. CAVEEN

632 Gerrard St. East, Toronto. For two years, I was a victim of Acute Indigestion and Gas In The Stomach. It afterwards attacked my Heart, and I had pains all over the body, so I could hardly move around. I tried all kinds of medicines but none of them did me any good. At last, acting on the advice of a friend, I decided to try 'Fruit-a-tives'. I bought the first box last June, and now I am well, after using only three boxes. I recommend 'Fruit-a-tives' to anyone suffering from Indigestion, no matter how acute." FRED J. CAVEEN.

Simple Indigestion often leads to Heart Attacks, Catarrh of the Stomach and constant distress of mind and body. If you are bothered with any Stomach Trouble, and especially if Constipation troubles you, take 'Fruit-a-tives'.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At all dealers or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

it: the one he has always been using of talking all the way around the compass between elections, but always voting right with the grand old party on voting day: the other brand he spoke of a few weeks ago that might cause him to vote against the party next election day out of spite because they held their annual meeting on his picnic day, without any thought of the nation's welfare. We doubt if either kind will exalt either the individual or nation more than the old kind.
