We have good news for you to-day. In addition to the Beautiful Cabinet Grand Piano which we are giving away absolutely free, we have decided to give two other valuable prizes—A SECOND PRIZE and A THIRD PRIZE. We want to impress on you the value of these THREE PRIZES and the necessity of saving and collecting votes. Your friends are buying goods here every day; they are receiving votes with every purchase and are only waiting to be asked for their votes. Are you getting them? Every vote you have must be handed in by the 31st of this month in order to count. Blue votes will be issued in November, and the pink votes which we are giving out this month, will not be good after October 31st. Be sure to send in all the votes you can get your hands on by October 31st, so that none of them will be wasted. Even if you do not finish first, you have a mighty good chance to win second or third prize. It's worth trying. Go after all your friends and see that you get their votes. Don't be afraid to ask them. Remember, we give one vote for each cent spent in the store, and the person turning in the greatest number of votes during the contest, wins the Piano. Second and Third also win valuable prizes. Get out and hustle to-day. We'll help you.

TAKING NO CHANCES.

"Lemme get those umbrellas hidden before you let them in!" Binks hastily interposed as Mrs. Binks moved towards the door in response to the bell. "Do you think our guests will steal umbrellas?" Mrs. Binks demanded contemptuously. "Maybe not—but they might recognize 'em!" Binks replied. —Judge.

SEAWEED AS FERTILIZER.

How It Can Be Used to the Best Advantage.

In general the use of seaweed as a fertilizer is a good investment, says a contributor to the Country Gentleman. On sandy soils it may merely be plowed under, but in general it is preferable to compost it.

Seaweed varies considerably in analysis, according to species, but all kinds contain a high percentage of moisture and more potash than do soft structure land plants. The kelp species in particular carry much potash.

The disadvantage of applying large quantities of seaweed to farm lands lies in the possibility of injury to some crops through the chlorine in the salt that adheres to the weed and in the acidity that may be developed through decomposition of masses of the weed.

The weed should be spread on the land as far ahead of crop planting as possible to permit of the chlorine's being carried off by drainage. An application of lime will remedy both the acidity and the ill effects of the chlorine. Much larger applications of the seaweed can be made on sandy soils than on heavy soils or on those not well drained.

Plowing under leguminous crops if they are of the deep rooted species, like clover and alfalfa, will maintain soil fertility. The nodules on the roots will collect nitrogen from the air, and the deep roots will bring up potash and phosphoric acid from the subsoil.

But lime should be applied occasionally to prevent any acidity that may develop as the result of decomposition of masses of green growths. At intervals of seven to ten years it would also be advisable to apply phosphorus in the form of ground bones, slag or raw phosphate rock. Commercial fertilizers may be termed crop producers only. They do little for soil improvement.

Moving Four or Five Section Harrow.

This device is a great help in moving a four or five section harrow without taking the harrow apart. Take two 1 by 8 inch boards a little longer than the width of the narrow, splicing on top if necessary, and nail a 1 by 8 inch piece three feet long across each end. Fasten a hitch on one end and lay the harrow on it, teeth down. With this you can go through a gate almost too narrow for two horses. — Nebraska Farmer.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

Keep the cucumbers picked from the vines if you wish them to continue bearing. Never let one ripen on the vines, even if you do throw them away, unless you do not care for any more of them.

Cabbage and cauliflower will grow better if frequently cultivated. Tie the leaves about the cauliflower heads to keep them white.

Save all the wood ashes and use around fruit trees as a fertilizer. Wood ashes are especially good for peach trees, and they will benefit all fruit trees and vines.

Neglected fruit trees are not worth the ground they occupy; they are an eyesore, and when pest infested they are a positive menace to the neighborhood.

Keep the high wheeled wagon out of the orchard. Not only does it cut up the sod, but it is more apt to brush and peel the lower limbs of the trees, and it is a great deal more inconvenient to pour fruit into than the low down wagon, with its broad tires.

Cabbage worms are very apt to bother the plants, but for these a solution of one part kerosene, three parts buttermilk and six parts water is very effective. In making this solution briskly stir the kerosene and buttermilk together for three minutes before adding the water. Apply with a spray pump or a garden sprinkler.

HYMENEAL

PATTERSON—ATKINSON.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon at half-past four at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Atkinson of Glenelg, when their daughter, Annie, was happily married to Mr. Joseph E. Patterson of the same neighborhood.

In the parlor, under an arch of evergreens, beautifully decorated with autumn leaves, the groom took his place at the appointed time, and to Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Miss May Patterson, sister of the groom, the bride came forward on the arm of her father, who gracefully gave her away, in the presence of about one hundred invited guests. The ceremony was performed by her pastor, the Rev. John Morris, when the solemn questions that made them man and wife, were asked and answered with a full realization of their significance.

The wedding over, and congratulations—extended, all sat down to a sumptuous repast, the tables literally groaning under the choicest of the land. All went merrily as a marriage bell, and a feeling of spontaneous cheerfulness enlivened the whole company.

The bride was handsomely attired in ivory duchess satin, trimmed with pearls and lace, the regulation bridal veil decorated with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and maidenhair fern.

The presents were beautiful.

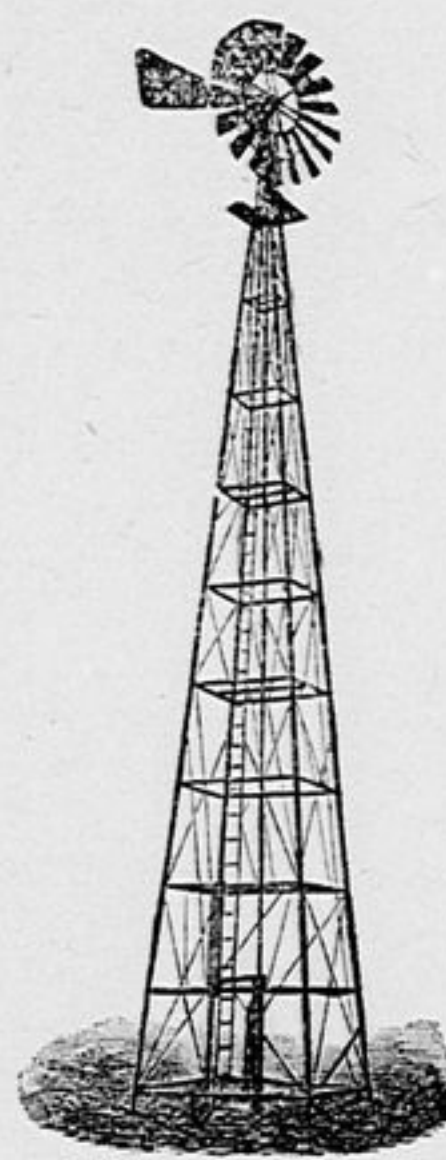

numerous and costly, showing the high esteem of the handsome young bride, who was ever popular with her associates, and to whom all extend their heartiest good wishes. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold watch, and to the organist a pearl necklace. The Chronicle extends best wishes to the happy young couple, and hopes their journey through life may be a long continued honeymoon.

APPLES FOR THE SAILORS.

Ontario would support Hon. J. S. Duff in forwarding a few thousand barrels of eating apples to the sailors of Sir John Jellicoe's fleet in the North Sea.

Ontario apples can be sent to Canada's wounded soldiers without impairing Ontario's power to let Sir John Jellicoe's sailors know that their valor is honored and their services remembered in this British-Canadian Commonwealth. —Toronto Telegram.
