THE RED CROSS COLUMN

The Information Department at the headquarters of the Canadian Red Cross Society in London is a vital link in the line of communication between the soldier in hospital and his friends and relatives at home. Only too often when a soldier is missing, or has died on the field of battle it is the only medium whereby a soldier's relatives can learn details of his safety or of his last moments.

This Department carries on an immense correspondence with reference to the wounded in hospital. The disembarkation officers at Dover, Sandwich, and other ports, and the commandants of every military hospital in France and England are supplied with Canadian Red Cross post cards, blue in color, already stamped and addressed to the London Headquarters. As soon as a wounded Canadian soldier reaches an hospital the news of his arrival is despatched to London.

The Department has a large staff of officers, both English and Canadian, in all parts of France and England. One of these is given the name on the blue card, visits the soldier, finds out his needs and makes a weekly report to the Information Department. These reports sometimes number 500 or 600 a day. A staff of assistants make use of this information to write letters to the relatives in Canada, until the prisoner is able to conduct his correspondence himself. These letters are signed by one of the Hon. Secretaries, and stamped with the name of the Commissioner, Col. Hoggets.

The blue card is also sent at once to the parcel Department, which immediately forwards an individual parcel to the man in hospital. With it goes a stamped postcard with the words, "Is there anything more we can do for you?" Additional parcels are sent containing what the soldier has expressed a wish for.

The material for all this work comes from the Red Cross branches in Canada. Without a steady stream of supplies the system would break down in no time. It is the untiring workers in every province and town in the Dominion, who provide the sinews for the Red Cross war, and make its beneficent action possible.

Red Cross Miracles

If you are inclined to believe that the age of miracles is passed and wish visible evidence of Red Cross thaumaturgy, you have only to look at our returned soldiers who are now coming home in steadily increasing numbers. Nearly every returned soldier is a Red Cross miracle, for in the majority of cases a soldier is invalided home only when he is physically incapacitated for further service. you may think that some of them are sadly crippled and mutilated but if you could compare their condition to-day with their condition when they were first placed in the hands of surgeon and nurse, you would be able to estimate what the Red Cross has done in the way of patching up and healing shattered bodies.

In Canada, however, you cannot see the greatest miracles of the Red Cross and Army Service Corps the men who have been made sound and whole, and as good as new again, and are once more back in the trenches, making one life do double service. Indeed it is not a miracle that one man having only one life to give should be able to give that life twice and even three times over—thanks to the Red Cross.

Think what the Red Cross has saved in that most precious of all commodities—human life—and be certain when next you put your name on a Red Cross subscription list that you have made a very profitable investment—to say nothing of performing a humane and patriotic act.

In this, the 16th month of the war, it would seem an impossibility to think of any new way by which to add to the Red Cross funds. Picnics have been held, concerts given, fortunes told, tags sold, innumerable other money-making devices put into practical execution so that the ingenuity of Canadians has been put to the severest of tests. It has remained for Mr. Henry Pearce, of Victoria, to suggest an original idea. Mr. Pearce, in delivering a recent Red Cross speech, stated that many thousands of people possess many superfluous articles of convertible monetary value, such as pictures, jewelry, furniture, china, curios, books, glassware, which they would be pleased to donate to the Red Cross. His suggestion is that the Red Cross everywhere hold a series of "Superfluous Sales," which if run on proper business lines with some popular effects of auctioneering, would bring large sums of money into the Red Cross coffers.

This seems on the face of it an excellent idea. It would turn property which no one would grudge, into wealth which the Red Cross could use. The contributors would assist the Red Cross without cost to themselves, and the buyers would secure bargains. It is certain indeed that the Canadian Red Cross with its steadily increasing responsibilities can make good use of any increased revenue.

"What is a reminiscence, Paw?" "Tiresome, usually, my son!"—Judge.

Customer—I want another fire-extinguisher. Used the last one all up last night.

Clerk—Glad to sell them to you sir, but aren't you rather careless at your place? This is the third one I've sold you in a week.

Customer—Oh, I don't use them for fire. They are the greatest things on earth for chasing out our daughter's late callers.—Judge.

FLESHERTON

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Johnson, Toronto line, was the scene of a pleasant gathering on Friday evening last, when the highly respected couple were given a genuine surprise by about fifty of their neighbors and friends who gathered to spend the evening with them before their removal to this village. Mr. Alf Harrison read the following address:—

Dear Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson—Dear Friends: Learning with sincere regret of your intended removal from our midst, we, your old neighbors and friends, have taken this liberty of assembling in your home to spend an evening with you, and by our presence manifest our good will toward you both. During the many years you have lived amongst us—all of your wedded life and more—we have had reason to esteem you highly as we now do. As neighbors, we have ever found you obliging and kind, ready always to lend a hand to any project for the benefit of the community. Your friendship, warm and true, we have appreciated and trust, though you go from our midst it may remain unbroken. We are pleased that your new home will not be far distant, so that occasionally we may meet and enjoy the intercourse so pleasant in the past. As a token of our friendship and good-will we ask you, Mrs. Johnson to accept of this table, and you Mr. Johnson this easy chair which with the earnest wish that you may live many years to use them and enjoy the well earned rest due you after your years of toil. Our concluding wish is that you may be long spared for the comfort of each other, and for the unbroken happiness of your esteemed family. Mr. W. J. Caswell and Mrs. Harrison made the presentation to all of which Mr. Johnson replied, thanking the friends for their gifts and good wishes. The ladies served refreshments, and till a late hour the evening was enjoyably spent with games and music.

There was a large congregation at the Methodist church on Sunday morning at a touching farewell of the church to Mr. W. H. Bunt and family, who move to Owen Sound this week. After the sermon the pastor referred to the great loss about to be sustained by the removal of Mr. Bunt, who had for many years filled with much acceptance and faithfulness the positions of trust and labor to which he had been called. Mr. M. Richardson followed with a short address expressing the heart-felt regret of the congregation at the loss being met with. He spoke with much feeling of the years of pleasant association with Mr. Bunt, who had the esteem and confidence not only of the officials, but of the entire church, and was beloved for his many good qualities of head and heart. For many years, he had with untiring zeal filled the responsible positions of Sunday School Superintendent and Recording Steward, and had repeatedly represented the church at District and Conference meetings. It was now fitting that he and his esteemed daughter, who had served as organist in the church Sunday School and League, should before their departure, be given some tangible token of appreciation of the sacrifices made and labors so willingly bestowed. Mr. Bunt and Miss Lillian Bunt were then each presented with a gold watch, the presentation to the former being made by Mr. Thos. Clayton, Assistant Supt. of the Sunday School, and to the latter by Mrs. W. A. Armstrong, President of the Mission Band. Mr. Bunt, who was visibly affected, fittingly replied on behalf of his daughter and himself, thanking his old friends for the warm words of appreciation and the tokens of good will so kindly given. "Blest be the tie that binds," was sung, and the Benediction pronounced. The parting at the Sunday School in the afternoon was affecting.

Mr. John Stewart, west back line has added to his real estate by purchasing from his brothers the 50 acre lot near his own farm.

Mrs. VanDusen has been suffering for a couple of weeks with a fractured rib sustained by a fall, but has almost recovered.

Rev. Mr. Dudgeon's little daughter, Marjory, has been very ill for a week or more with inflammatory rheumatism.

Mr. G. B. Welton has been engaged by the Hydro Electric Commission to look after the line between Shelburn and Owen Sound.

Mrs. Bloomfield Ferris, of the east back line, who recently underwent an operation in the Owen Sound Hospital, is again at home with her family, and almost fully recovered.

Miss Josie Richardson visited the past two weeks with friends in Toronto.

Miss Ruby Watson, of Vaughan, is visiting her cousins, the Misses Hemphill, and other relatives.

Miss Stewart, of Owen Sound, visited last week with her aunt, Mrs. A. Harrison.

Charley Crossley left last week to enter in training with the Cavalry corps in Toronto, and Harold Mitchell leaves this Tuesday to apply for attachment to the same service.

Mark Wilson, jr., was called to Durham a week ago to attend the funeral of his sister.

Pte. Fred Bellamy was home from Owen Sound for the weekend.

To the class valedictorian, now connected with a major league team, we remarked: "Do you still cherish your ideals? Will you ever be a Socrates?" "No," he replied, "but I may make a Homer?"

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS

Fine Art Portrait of Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Borden

This new portrait of the Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Borden is the finest that a combined effort on the part of artist and engraver can produce. It is so good that an expert would pronounce it a hand drawing from the highest school of art. The original portrait, which is life size, but printed exactly the same and by the same process and people as that handled by this paper, is sold for $35.00.

It is an exact facsimile of the large one referred to, but reduced in size, the portrait itself measures 8 inches by 12 inches, and portrait with border 13 inches by 18 inches. The initial cost was mainly expended in producing the original big portrait, which made it possible to supply the smaller size at a nominal price.

This fine art picture of the Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Borden is the latest and most life-like likeness of the Prime Minister, and as a work of applied art is unexcelled by any other process. The effects are a combination of steel, stipple and crayon work.

We will supply our readers with these new Borden portraits at 25c. each or mailed to any address in Canada, Great Britain or United States for 30c.

We have only a limited number therefore we would enjoin all those who desire to possess the best portrait ever published of our Prime Minister to bring or send in their orders without delay to the office of this paper.

SOME SEEDS TRAVEL ON LONG JOURNEYS

Some seeds make journeys on wings, and others travel from place to place by attaching themselves to the clothes of men or the hair of animals; still others are transported by birds.

The seeds of the maple tree are particularly interesting. They are provided with wings, and when they become detached from the parent tree a gentle breeze will carry them a considerable distance from the branch to which they were attached, says a writer in St. Nicholas. There are many and modifications of the winged seed, as the pine. These are all common trees.

Some seeds are also provided with parachutes, or umbrellas, not for protection from rain and storm from place to place.
