MOULDY SWEET CLOVER

May Cause Disease or Death to Live Stock.

Symptoms of the Trouble—Cattle May Bleed to Death—Preventing the Mould—Good Sweet Clover Harmless.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Reports of serious sickness occurring amongst the cattle being fed upon sweet clover have been received at the Veterinary College. The disease which is now frequently spoken of as "sweet clover disease," or "sweet clover poisoning," made its first appearance, as far as is known during the winter of 1921-22. The Symptoms of the Disease.

The presence of large and small swellings in different parts of the body is usually the first thing which attracts attention. These swellings are generally located along the back, over the shoulder joints or between the thighs. They vary much in shape and size and may form quite slowly or with marked rapidity. They are rarely painful, and when opened are found to contain either blood or a watery yellow fluid. The affected animal does not appear to be very sick and either stands or lies in the accustomed way. Food may be taken in small quantities, but the appetite is not good. The outer part of the eye is very pale, so also is the lining membrane of the nose. The swellings which are so characteristic of the disease are due to an escape of blood from the vessels. The small arteries and veins have become weakened by the disease so that rupture is made easy.

In another form of the disease the blood loses its power of clotting so that animals may bleed to death after giving birth to their calves. In one instance a farmer had branded his cattle by clipping a strip of skin from the border of each ear. All of the animals would have bled to death had not the hemorrhage been stopped by ligatures.

Damaged Sweet Clover Dangerous. In all the cases investigated the sick animals had been fed sweet clover hay or ensilage which had been damaged by excessive heating or moulding. Sometimes the change produced in the hay has been so slight that the farmer has either not seen it or has thought it to be of no consequence. It is frequently difficult to make the owner believe that such slightly damaged food is responsible for the serious disease of his animals.

The Prevention of Mould. Whether the mould which is so generally found in the damaged feed is the ultimate cause of the disease is not a matter of great importance. Its presence is a danger signal which must be heeded. It can be said with certainty that if the hay shows no mould in the mow, and the ensilage no mould in the silo, that either can be fed with safety. How then can the mould be prevented? For the most satisfactory methods of cultivating and harvesting the reader is referred to Bulletin 296 of the Ontario Agricultural College. Apart from the moulding which may occur in the field due to damp weather, or in the mow due to insufficient curing, there is another way which must be considered. It is the development of mould due to the moist air rising through the ceiling of the cattle stable below and settling out on the hay in the mow. This, I feel sure, has been the cause of mouldy hay in several cases. It must be prevented by either a tight ceiling or putting a straw bottom in the mow. Common salt seems to be of real value in checking the growth of moulds in the hay mow. From fifty to one hundred pounds is required for each ton, and this must be sprinkled uniformly through the hay while it is being spread in the mow.

Good Sweet Clover Harmless. Many experiments have been conducted in the feeding of samples of good and bad sweet clover to calves and rabbits. The animals receiving the damaged food almost always became ill and died. In no case has there been any sickness in the animals fed upon good sweet clover hay or ensilage. In one experiment two calves were fed an exclusive diet of good sweet clover ensilage over a period of six weeks and both remained well. Rabbits have been fed on samples of bad sweet clover hay which were taken from the same hay mow. Those which received the good hay lived while those which received the bad died.

In Conclusion. The use of sweet clover for hay is risky, because if moulds and other organisms grow in the hay it may become a highly poisonous food. The ten cent instrument, so frequently peddled at the country fairs, which is supposed to serve half a dozen purposes from opening tin cans to drawing a three inch screw, rarely does more than two things well, and that is all that should be expected for the money. Sweet clover has proved to be an excellent soil-builder, a good ensilage crop, and to make valuable pasture. Why endanger the reputation of a useful plant by requiring it to accomplish that for which it was apparently not intended.—Frank W. Scofield, D.V. Sc., Ont. Veterinary College, Guelph.

The Horse Remains. It is true that the horse will never again occupy the same position in the world's economies as he did in the past. Motive power has changed rapidly in the past century and it is well that it has, for transportation improvement has been the greatest known stimulant to civilization. It has annihilated distance, and brought peoples together and in doing this it is bringing about a greater human understanding.

DURHAM JUNIORS WON FROM OWEN SOUND NINE

LOCALS RAN IN FIVE RUNS THE FIRST INNING AND PUT GAME ON ICE.—PITCHERS ON BOTH TEAMS EXCELLED.

Durham Junior N.V.B.A. team played at Owen Sound last Friday afternoon and won 8 to 3. It was an altogether different bunch of players than those that let the Walkerton team win out by a 14-12 score here on Dominion Day. Looking them over from the benches they would never have been recognized as the same bunch and put up a snappy game of real class.

Though the Owen Sound Sun-Times regards the win as a mistake, local opinion is that the best team won and that the local team, once it gets its stride, will take some beating. They will have to practice, however, and get in better condition before they will be able to show their true form. In reporting the game, The Sun-Times says:

"But for a very bad beginning, Owen Sound N.V.B.A. Juniors might have won their first game of the season last evening. The husky, well-trained Durham players were here for first game, and they went home with an 8 to 4 victory tucked in their belts. Durham, being the visiting team, went first to bat, and in the first inning with only one hit they got away with no less than five of their eight runs. With this handicap on their shoulders, the Owen Sound boys recovered from their stage fright, and played good baseball.

"There was a disappointingly small crowd out to see the game which had been well advertised, and it certainly was well worth seeing. Although the game was called to start at 5:30 o'clock, the first batter was not up to the plate until a quarter after six and the delay, while it may have been unavoidable, was not the less regrettable.

"Manager McCullough chose Reggie Guttin to start the ball rolling across the plate. Although Durham got only one hit off Guttin in the first innings, he walked four men to first, and two errors and a fielder's choice were responsible for the arrival of three more at first. There are a great many entirely new men on the junior nine this year and it is not surprising that they were a little up in the air during the first inning. Instead of pulling Guttin out of the box Manager McCullough used his head and let him stay in, just to prove that he could pitch baseball. Guttin stayed in until the end of the sixth and the whole team settled down to work, so that Durham got only three more runs, one in each of the third, fourth and sixth.

"In the seventh stanza Alex. McLinden started the throwing and from his exhibition he gave it can be easily seen that he will be one of the strongest hurlers for the juniors this season. In the seventh and eighth he struck out two batters in each inning and when the Durham men did hit the ball the fielders were right behind him. During the three innings in which he occupied the mound not a Durham batter reached first base.

"While the Durham men played snappy baseball in the field, their strong point was in their pitcher, the lanky Mountain. In spite of the fact that he had speed to burn, the Owen Sound men got just as many hits off him as the Durham men got off Guttin. Mountain, himself, was largely responsible for the Durham boys' victory, for besides pitching a good game of baseball, he made a three-base hit and scored on the next batter's single.

"Owen Sound scores came in small quantities, a run an inning for four innings. The local players should not be at all overheated over the first loss of the season. After the first inning the Owen Sound players played a very good brand of baseball, and with one or two practices between now and the next game, there should be no difficulty in cleaning up on the group. Durham has won a game and Owen Sound has lost a game." The Box Score:

Acute. (Asgwan.) Two students on a train were telling about their abilities to see and hear. The one says: "Do you see that barn over there on the horizon?" "Yes." "Can you see that fly walking around on the roof of that barn?" "No, but I can hear the shingles crack when he steps on them."
