

MOTORS AND THEIR CARE

Requisites For Good Driving.

Good judgment, cautiousness and alertness are the three important points of good driving.

A Suggestion.

Open the drain at the bottom of the carburetor occasionally before starting the engine. Water or dirt will be drawn off in this manner and possible trouble may be avoided.

Properly Installed Brake Linings.

When installing brake linings care should be taken that the lining is stretched properly to avoid buckling. The rivets should be countersunk properly to avoid scoring the drum.

When Testing the Battery.

When drawing solution out of a battery for testing, always return it to its proper cell. Until this is done the strength of the electrolyte in the various cells will naturally vary.

Efficient Steering.

When steering sharply to avoid hitting something always apply the brake at the same time. Steering can be used as a safety measure, but never depend upon it. Stopping and steering will produce best results.

Lead Washers for Fuel Line.

Lead washers should always be used in the fuel line and similar locations. Fibre washers are of no use. The action of gasoline upon these washers has a tendency to make the motor run sluggishly by forming a deposit of minute particles from the fibre.

Eliminating Body Squeaks.

A body resting uneasily on the frame of a car will cause a cracking sound. By placing strips of leather between body and frame (preferably where body bolts pass through frame) this noise is often overcome. A rubbing or rattling noise can most frequently be attributed to the edges of doors rubbing against their frames.

Watch Out for Rigid Laws.

To guard against more rigid enforcement of motor laws and various injustices on the part of petty officials, motor tourists are advised particularly concerning the following details:

To have regulation tail lights.

To use headlight lenses universally approved.

To make sure their speedometers are accurate.

Not to forget to carry their license certificates with them.

Not to fail to take out a license when oversteering the limit.

The differential gear and axle of the modern car rarely gives trouble if properly lubricated.

Proper lubrication, frequent inspection and careful adjustment will do much toward maintaining silence in the car.

Popping back at the carburetor is exceedingly dangerous if the carburetor has just been primed and if there is much of a leak.

An excessive accumulation of carbon is evident when the engine knocks on a hard pull with the spark slightly advanced.

Remove the rear wheels and wash the brake lining in kerosene once a month. This removes all oil grease, which takes the "bite" out of the brakes. Never oil the brake lining.

Cheap and unbranded tubes will ruin any casing.

Only an experienced mechanic should install brake linings.

Air pressure is the best method to use in locating leaks in the gasoline tank.

NON-GLARE HEADLIGHT LENSES WORSE THAN OLD-STYLE KIND

And what has become of the old-fashioned car driver who used to dim his glaring headlights when passing another auto? Two or three years ago, says an exchange, huge sums of money were spent in buying new lenses which were supposed to prevent glare. Every car had to be equipped with the new lenses and it certainly sounded like a sensible idea. It worked satisfactorily to a degree, but the idea seems to have been lost sight of. Headlights are more glaring than ever and the custom of dimming has become a lost art. The way it is now, when two cars pass at night, there is a certain space during which the drivers can only hope that they are on the road or that no obstacle is directly in front of them.

There seems to be no reason why the cars should not be equipped with lights which will not blind the driver of an approaching car. And the courtesy of dimming might also be revived with no harm resulting, especially when passing through a town or village.

LICENSE PLATES OF EVERY STATE SEEN TO-DAY IN ONT.

America is becoming a Nation of Tourists, and Many Take in the Delights of Ontario During the Summer Season.

With the fine, hard roads stretching throughout most sections of the country and with the development of motor cars to a point where they provide luxurious ease of travel and absolute dependability, America has become a nation of tourists. The fact is more pronounced this summer, with its vast increase of cars, than ever before.

Literally hundreds of thousands of cars whose license tags bespeak great distances from home, dot the highways throughout the country during the summer months. Along about this time of the year it is interesting to note the appearance on the streets of almost any large city or on the main travelled highways in the country license plates bearing the inscription of practically every state in the Union.

Drive for an hour over any of the great transcontinental highways and observe passing cars filled with tourists, and note from their license tags the great distances they have travelled entirely independent of former modes of transportation. An Iowa merchant has occasion to go to New York. "Let's take the children and go in the car," suggests the wife. They step into the automobile at the very front door and ride over roads of a kind that only a few years ago were undreamed of.

The tourist's time is his own and he drives at will. He may stop at a hotel for the night or he may choose an attractive camping site, thousands of which are now along the main travelled roads of the country.

PRACTISED AS SURGEON BUT NEVER TRAINED

Former Montreal Man Even Performed Operations At Atlantic City.—Watched Doctors Work and Consulted Nurses.—Was Never Asked to Show Credentials.

"Dr." Russell George, formerly of Montreal and until a few days ago a "resident physician and surgeon" in the Atlantic City Hospital, a few days ago told how he had performed operations and enjoyed the respect of other doctors in the hospitals, despite the fact that he had never been inside a school of medicine. George, who is 28 years old, is under arrest, charged with the theft of a watch from a patient. Following his arrest he was discharged from the hospital.

In explaining how he managed to practice as a doctor, though without any training, he said he possessed a smattering of medical college education, by general reading. "This, coupled with careful observation at the hospital and the unwitting assistance of nurses, enabled me to practice without detection," he said.

"I would ask the nurse assigned to the case how she would handle it. The nurse, thinking I was merely testing her knowledge, would go into details. I would then act on what she had told me, and she would be complimented, thinking her judgment had been approved by a physician. I had watched surgeons work in the emergency and operating rooms and I saw the procedure was always the same, so far as the treatment of wounds was concerned.

"I do not think any of the patients I handled suffered from my lack of knowledge, nor do I think that my performance was extraordinarily clever. Everyone, for example, knows that iodine is good for wounds and when a wound came before me I applied iodine. Then I sewed up the wound. Results were always good; it was simple. I was never asked to show credentials of any kind; I did not have any to show."

George said he had not applied for the position, but that it had been offered to him by the chief of the resident physicians at the hospital. He was stationed at the hospital from March 1 until May 21 of this year. George said he was born in Toronto and had lived all his life in Toronto and Montreal. His first step into the "medical" profession came when he accepted a position of male nurse to a wealthy Montreal man. He formerly lived at 413 Roslyn avenue, Montreal.
