

Glenelg and Priceville
(Our own correspondent.)

Mr. Editor.—This week we will take you on an imaginary stroll through a portion of Glenelg and to begin we will start at The Chronicle Office and proceed up Lambton St. Some seventy years or more ago, where Lower Town is now, was mostly all bush, and Lambton Street wasn't chopped. Some of the young men who were good axemen sixty-five or seventy years ago chopped cordwood on Lambton street for twenty-five and forty cents a cord, and the highest price was when sold seventy-five cents to one dollar.

About the year 1860 Lambton street could be roughly travelled by oxen time, and earlier by a patent cart on home-made runners in the winter made from cutting two big rings off a large elm log three feet or more through, and one could hear the roars of it for want of axle grease. Some of the inhabitants along the highway would think a pack of wolves was approaching their dwelling, but by experience they found themselves mistaken, for they began to get familiar with the new invention.

Now we will take you up Edge Hill Line, and we need not tell you where Darkies Corners is, or the city of the dead a few rods to the north. Here lie the remains of some of the veterans of Glenelg and Durham, and in viewing the many tall monuments and smaller ones we find that the grim messenger was no respecter of persons, for here a few feet apart, lie the remains of those in high positions in life, and those who saw adversities more often than prosperities.

In years gone by a Liberal, or Grit, would have to keep quiet as to his politics at Edge Hill, for, with a very few exceptions, all were Conservatives, or Tories. At the last two elections the present generation deviated from the politics of their forefathers to a certain extent by becoming U. F. O. and Liberalism and Toryism were both knocked flat in that section of Glenelg.

But, Mr. Editor, we are not going to discuss politics, so we will proceed up the line and there we find two new families who arrived there last spring—the Robinson family from Normandy, on the Moffat farm, and just across the road, the McDonalds of the South Line, Glenelg, on the W. J. Ritchie farm. Both families are highly pleased with the locality and the manner of the residents in entertaining these newcomers, who, in a manner, come as strangers to the locality.

Now, Mr. Editor, we don't want to travel by using artificial conveyances, but by the one Adam used in the Garden of Eden when he was tempted by his wife Eve to walk to the apple tree and partake of the forbidden fruit. So we will take you over hills, valleys and rocks in portions of Glenelg and may be like our forefather, Adam, tempting to partake of the forbidden fruit by climbing over some prosperous farmer's fence into his orchard and take of his most palatable fruit.

Now we arrive at Glenroadin, and the name is very suitable, for in the vicinity are glens and hollows. Here we find where a prosperous business was done in years gone past by the Messrs. N. G. & J. McKechnie, by having a sawmill which is now not doing the business as in former years. It is run by a Mr. Dirstein, who has it rented. A little to the north are the Kingston heights, and when the traveller gets to the top it commands a view in all directions, and the safest way to descend is to slide feet foremost till one reaches the bottom.

But we must turn back, and in doing so we face towards the east and arrive at that beautifully-named place called Zion. Here we find a beautiful church to accommodate the many worshippers who are faithful in attending Sabbath after Sabbath to listen to good discourses by the pastor. On the opposite is erected a fine building to accommodate the dumb animals in the severe season, and the new artificial conveyance in the warm season.

Zion congregation, although Methodist by name, is composed of different religions, being chiefly Methodists, Presbyterians, Baptists and Anglicans. It would be well if all worshippers would unite and become good members of that body of worshippers, and if they prefer to call it the good old Methodist church they would not be far astray, for all intend to get the Good Church above when time is ended at Zion.

Here we find some of the faithful. By the way, we will not be showing partiality when we say that as an officer, Mr. R. T. Edwards has served as Sunday school superintendent for 30 years, and in many other responsible capacities, such as auditor of Glenelg accounts, for another 30 years.

Traverston was quite a business place, but the present owner of the mills, Mr. Ross, is a good business man.

Now, Mr. Editor, if you are not too tired we will take a walk over to Pomona. Here is another place which did good business. Over sixty years ago the late Mr. Purdy built a grist- and saw-mill there, but only the rocks which surrounded the mills are to be seen there now. Out on the east side of the main road we find a fine church to accommodate the Roman Catholic congregation. On the south side is a fine shed to accommodate the dumb animals in the severe weather.

Away back to the 6th Concession, we come to the farm of Mr. George Black. Here we are pleased to find the venerable retired Clerk of Glenelg, Mr. J. S. Black, enjoying fairly good health after serving faithfully keeping the affairs of the Council of Glenelg in good order for forty years. Mr. Black's farm was originally the late Alex. Martin's farm. In coming up Concession 2, E.G.R., we omitted saying that Mr. Henry Hoffat is another newcomer on the line.

On the south side is the well laid out cemetery with the Cross in the centre as an emblem of the sacrificed Redeemer. On the East side of the church is a fine hall for various purposes. On the top of the hill is the residence of Mr. John McVicar, known as Farmer John, who runs 300 acres of land side by side.

Now, Mr. Editor, the day is far spent and getting towards evening, and naturally we are getting foot-sore and weary and our appetite is making us feel that it is supper time, and we call at one of the obliging farmers, no matter who he is, and the obliging lady of the house supplies us with a first-class supper, and then we make for our several abodes glad of having the privilege of spending a day in such a pleasant manner.

WONDERFUL RESULTS FROM TWO WEEKS' TREATMENT

Mr. Burrell Suffered Untold Agony From Sciatica, Rheumatism and Lumbago—Dreco the Only Remedy That Helped Him.—Rapidly Regained Normal Activity.

Tortured cruelly by sciatica, rheumatism and lumbago, Mr. F. Burrell of 509 Ottawa Avenue, London, like many another workingman, was forced to hide his sufferings and carry on with his daily toil. He had a family to support. Little did anyone excepting his wife realize the effort it was costing him as he left his home each morning with only grim determination between him and a breakdown. A year and four months he carried on, without a change, though medicine after medicine was tried. Then Mrs. Burrell heard of Dreco. Let her tell you of the wonderful results it achieved in two short weeks.

"My husband suffered for the past year and four months with sciatica, lumbago and rheumatism. He had terrible pains across the back, just over the kidneys, so that at times he could hardly get around. He was constantly taking laxatives, his appetite was miserable and very seldom did he get a restful night. Nothing helped him until two weeks ago, when I heard of Dreco and persuaded him to try it. Now he is like a new man. The pains in his back and limbs are almost gone, his bowels are like clockwork, and he sleeps like a tired child. No other remedy has ever gone to the bottom of his troubles like Dreco. It has worked wonders and gladly do we praise it."

Men and women of all ages and conditions can again know the joy of a springy, pain free, healthy body by allowing Dreco, the natural herb and root remedy, to tone and regulate their whole system. Its gentle action gives immediate relief to the most obstinate cases of stomach, liver, kidneys and intestinal disorders.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Durham by McFadden's Drug Store, and is sold by a good druggist everywhere.
