Careful Experiments Made With Cattle and Hogs.

Communication and Destruction of Germs—Not Blown About Like Fog or Vapor—Kept Alive in Manure.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

At a conference of veterinarians engaged in the eradication of tuberculosis in live stock, held in Chicago, a valuable paper was read by Dr. Schroeder, Superintendent of the Bureau of Animal Industry at Bethesda, Md., who gave details of the results of experiments which he has conducted during many years on the subject of how tuberculosis is carried from one animal to another.

The first experiment he described was where two stables were used, designated T and H.

T. B. Germs Destroyed by Air and Sunlight.

Stable T held for six years a tuberculous herd of about 20 cattle ranging from cattle that were healthy to those that were in the last stages of generalized tuberculosis. Healthy cattle put into this stable contracted the disease very quickly, and deaths were not uncommon. In stable H a herd of 20 to 30 cattle were kept during the same time, but no case of tuberculosis developed among them. Men employed in stable T were not allowed in stable H nor were utensils used in T ever taken into H. Dr. Schroeder believes that this experiment confirms the research of various investigators to the effect "that we have no satisfactory reasons to believe that tubercle bacilli can retain their virulence long enough in tuberculous sputum or other substances to become pulverized sufficiently to be carried about by currents of air, and even if this were possible the germs would be so exposed to light in the minute particles which can float in the air that they would speedily die."

Germs Not Blown About Like Fog or Vapor.

Another experiment of a similar character was carried out on a two-acre field which had been divided into three inclosures, each containing a stable 16 feet square. The inclosures were designated A, B and C. A was separated from B by a woven wire fence. C was separated from B by two lines of woven wire fence eight feet apart. Several tuberculous cows, some healthy cattle and some healthy brood sows were placed in stable B. Healthy cattle and healthy brood sows were placed in A and C. At first each inclosure had its special attendant but later one man was given the care of all of them, with the injunction that he should attend to the stock in the order of C, A, B. If it was necessary to enter A or C after having been in B, he was required to clean his shoes of manure. This experiment continued with the one man in charge for seven years. Inclosure B proved to be a dangerous place for both hogs and cattle. A few hogs in A contracted tuberculosis, but none of the cattle, and both hogs and cattle in C remained free. As a comment on this experiment, Schroeder says, "Tuberculous infection is a concrete thing, which is not blown from place to place like a mass of vapor or fog. There are many ways in which it can be transported, but they are simple, easily comprehended ways." This he showed by a third experiment. He had two pastures separated by a small woodland and a cultivated field. A stream flowed from one field called I to the other called E. A herd of tuberculous cattle was placed in I and a healthy herd in E. Several of the cattle in E contracted tuberculosis.

Healthy Cattle Contract the Disease by Contact.

Experiments regarding the danger of allowing healthy cattle to come into contact with diseased ones are quite impressive. Calves which nursed a tuberculous udder only once or were fed just once on tuberculous milk from a pail invariably contracted the disease. Schroeder has two records of healthy bulls contracting the disease while serving tuberculous cows, but none of healthy cows contracting the disease during service by tuberculous bulls.

Schroeder's studies show that if healthy cattle are protected from direct contact with virulent tuberculous material or with diseased cattle, their chances of contracting the disease are slight, even nil. For eight years he has been alternating a healthy herd and a diseased herd from stable to stable. The stable in which the diseased cattle were kept is carefully cleaned, but not disinfected, especial care being taken to remove caked masses of manure. After a week or ten days the healthy cattle are put in, and the tuberculous cattle put in the stable formerly occupied by the healthy cattle. Both stables are frame structures with earth floors. No cases of tuberculosis have ever developed in the healthy herd.

T. B. Germs and Manure Piles.

Dr. Schroeder closed his paper with this significant statement, "Tubercle bacilli have been proved at the station to remain alive and virulent in a manure pile, some distance below its surface, for a period upwards of six months, but they will not stay alive, in stables or elsewhere, unless they are protected by opaque masses of some kind against the action of the light."

Dehorn cattle on any fine dry day when flies do not abound, but not in very hot or very cold weather. The operation should not be performed when a cow is advanced in pregnancy. It is best done after she has recovered from calving.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

From The Chronicle File of October 1, 1903.

Mr. Newton's subject Sunday in the Baptist Church will be, "A Craze to Get Something For Nothing."

We regret to learn of the sudden and serious illness of a ten-year-old son of Mr. George Moore. On Tuesday he was at school in his usual health, but took ill suddenly and had to leave on account of a pain in the region of the abdomen. Medical examination diagnosed the case as an obstruction of the bowels, probably caused by the knotting of the intestines, and recommended sending the child at once to the Toronto Hospital for an operation or treatment. Mr. Moore left with the boy this Wednesday afternoon.

The lacrosse boys got a great reception here on Friday after returning from St. Marys, where they defeated the Wallaceburg team. The Band met them at the station, and later they were served with lunch at the Middaugh House where congratulatory speeches were afterwards made by Messrs. Calder, Laidlaw, Mills, Barrister Davidson and Dr. Holt.

The Egremont Fall Fair held on Tuesday eclipsed everything in the previous history of this always excellent Fair.

Miss Maggie Derby resigned her position as teacher in Varney school and has gone on an extended visit to Ponoka, Alberta.

South Grey Teachers' Institute is being held here to-day and to-morrow.

A small meeting of farmers assembled last night to hear an address from Mr. W. L. Smith, editor of The Weekly Sun.

The blacksmiths in town and vicinity have been obliged to advance their prices owing to sharp advances in all kinds of material and skilled labor.

We regret to learn of the serious illness of Dr. Landerkin at his home at Hanover.

Mr. James R. Gun, formerly one of our popular druggists, has accepted the position of manager of Mr. Parker's business, and will shortly take charge.

The anniversary services of the Methodist Church will be preached on Sunday by Rev. A. K. Birks, B.D., L.L.B., of London, a former pastor of the church.

Mr. James McDonald of Sackett's Corners died unexpectedly on the 15th of September after a brief illness. The day previous he was in his usual health, but when loading lambs he complained of a pain around his heart. He went to the house and died a short time afterwards.

Mr. James Lawrence of Springbank is now in Toronto undergoing treatment for heart trouble.

Mr. W. J. Sharp has been re-engaged as Principal of Holstein school. After an absence of nearly two weeks from active participation in the work of the paper we resume our duties. Last week's issue, which was well and ably conducted by Inspector Campbell, explained the cause of our forced absence and it is hardly necessary for us to say anything more. Out of the fullness of full hearts we have been the recipient of much kindness on all sides, our friends here and in our old Flesher-ton home as well as in the whole country round showing real sympathy in our sad bereavement.

thy in our sad bereavement. For the past ten years we have been looking forward anxiously to the time when our household affairs would come under the management of our now departed daughter. The time had almost come, but the cold hand of death intercepted our plans and the only thing that can now be done is to fight on for a few years longer and to hope as well as we did in the past that further misfortunes may not befall us. The very kind obituary notices last week, both in this paper and in The Review, were no exaggerations of the true character of the bright young life so suddenly cut off. Our sincere thanks are tendered to all who tried to minister to us in our sorrow, yet the most intense sympathy is only fruitless in filling the aching void.

Mr. John Vessie and Miss Annie Ritchie were united in marriage last week.

Our teacher, Miss A. Lawrence, has been re-engaged, we understand, for 1904 at an increase of $5.00 in her salary.—Corner Concerns cor.

MRS. BUDGE SO WEAK COULD HARDLY STAND

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health

River Desert, Que.—"I used to have a severe pain in my side. I would be unable to walk fast and could not stand for any length of time to do my ironing or washing, but I would have to lie down to get relief from the pain. I had this for about two years, then a friend told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she had had good results. I certainly got good results from it, too, as the last time I had a sore side was last May and I have not had it since. I am also glad of having good nursing for my baby, and I think it is your medicine that helped me in this way."—Mrs. L. V. BUDGE, River Desert, Quebec.

If you are suffering from the tortures of a displacement, irregularities, back-ache, headaches, nervousness, or a pain in the side, you should lose no time in trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write for it to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ontario. This book contains valuable information that every woman should know.

O. M. L. IS AFTER THE DANGEROUS R. K. CROSSINGS

Present High Mortality Rate is Serious Problem, and Will Have to Be Improved Upon Soon.

The Ontario Motor League contends that there are thousands of level railway crossings in Ontario which, owing to obstructing trees and bushes, high board fences or protruding banks, are a source of peril to all who have to cross them, and especially so in the case of motor travel. While the League recognizes that the expense of abolishing all the dangerous level crossings in the province is too heavy to be borne at the present time, the present high mortality rate could be very considerably reduced by removing the obstructions to the view of approaching traffic.
