reached Moncton, New Brunswick, about 7 o'clock on the morning of the 23rd. We were back again in New Brunswick, having retraced our way to Sackville, where we took the main line of the old Intercolonial. Arriving at Moncton there was a general expression of pleasure at the up-todate appearance of the city. Thrift distance of three or four miles. Our and prosperity were in evidence on all sides. It is a real modern city of twenty thousand inhabitants and is the headquarters of the Intercolonial Railway, the general offices and principal workshops being located there. It is unique in being the centre of the only gas and oil fields of Eastern Canada.

Moneton is situated at the bend of the Petitcodiac River and in the early years of its existence was known as "The Bend." It is the only city in Eastern Canada which uses natural gas for light and fuel, the first municipality in New Brunswick to tem and this, with other sanitary ad- Black-W. T. Pinder. It was incorporated as a city in 1890 and since then has been making rapid material progress.

Before leaving we mustn't forget to mention the "bore" of the Petitcodiac. Everybody in Moncton will tell you about the "bore," but the bore is governed by the tides and comes to suit itself and doesn't wait SOCIAL AND PERSONAL cording to its schedule. What is this "bore"? some of our readers may ask. Let us digress a little to give the information. Every school child at some time or other has heard of the tides in the Bay of Fundy rising to a great height. This, it was learned, was caused by the configuration of the Eastern coast of America and by the influence of the Gulf Stream in helping to force the waters into the Bay. The Petitcodiac River flows from Moncton and enters the Bay of Fundy at its Northeastern point, which is there comparatively narrow. The water thus wedged in rises to a great height and, following the line least resistance, forces its way up the river in a great wall, blocking the stream as the tide rises and causing the water to run up hill. The tide was out, we were told, at the time of our visit, and of course there was no "bore." It appears end. twice a day, at the time of the rising tides and its magnitude depends upon the tides, being higher when spring tides occur, and lower at the time of neap tides. Spring, or high tides occur at new moon or full moon and neap, or low tides, when the moon is at its first and third quarters. The sun and moon both exert an attractive influence on the waters | Collegiate there. and we have high tides when these bodies are acting either in conjunction or opposition. The moon has a much greater influence and two tides occur during each lunar day of 24 hours and 51 minutes.

After a drive through the city, when the many attractions were pointed out, the party left for Point du Chene, a beautiful summer resort on the Shediac Bay, an arm of Northumberland Strait. It is twenty miles from Moncton and only a short distance beyond the village of Shediac. From the bay and nearby waters lobsters are in great abundance and lobster-catching and canning are carried on extensively. Here we saw big baskets of live lobsters dumped into large cauldrons of boiling water and shortly after whole company was being regaled on these and other edibles. Our first experience in eating lobsters and clams, fresh from the water, and coked in the boiling cauldrons, was in Vancouver two years before, and as we told in a former issue, we rehearsed the exercise on the steamer as we came up the Bras d'Or Lakes a day or two previously. At the Point du Chene feed we felt old and After leaving Prince Edward Is- experienced in the business and felt land on the evening of June 22, we capable of giving instruction in the way of dissecting the ugly-looking animals.

After returning by the same road we entrained at Moncton and were soon speeding along in a northerly direction and in a couple of hours reached Newcastle and from here were taken in autos to Chatham, a time here was limited, but every moment was enjoyed:

NEW PICTURE HAS POWERFUL THEME

What harm newspaper publicity ces against them is the central theme -Donalda McEachern, Teacher. in William de Mille's latest production for Paramount, "The World's Applause," featuring Bebe Daniels and Lewis Stone, which is at the Veterans' Star Theatre to-morrow and Saturday nights.

Bebe Daniels has the role of Corinne d'Alys, a successful actress. whose high place has been largely due to her insatiable search for publicity. Lewis Stone, finished stage and screen artist, makes his debut as a contract player under the Paramount banner in the role of John Elliott, a dramatic producer, who benie, Grace Paylor, Dan Firth. Jack comes enmeshed in emotional situations of compelling force when his sister (Kathlyn Williams) allows jealousy of her artist husband (Adolphe Menjou) to drag them all into a quagmire of scandal and tragedy.

From this point on the drama proceeds to an unexpected conclusion, creating, it is said, a typically wellrounded, dramatic William de Mille entertainment.

An ultra-modern note is struck by Miss Daniels in her costumes, which are unusually elaborate. Mr. de Mille considers the cast assembled for "The World's Applause" one of the best in his career as a motion picture director.

Other supporting roles are filled by such well-known players as Brandon Hurst, Bernice Frank, Maym Kelso, George Kuwa and James Neill.
