COLLEGE ST., TORONTO.

Dear Mr. Editor:-

Recent discoveries in medical science have called attention to the great service rendered by an up-todate hospital through facilities provided for research. Probably few laymen appreciate the amount of this work conducted under the auspices of the Hospital for Sick Children. Yet it is only by intensive study of the causes of children's diseases that the hospital staff has been able to establish a worldfamous record for cures. Statistics show that the rate of infant mortality in this Province has been steadily decreasing, until it is now among the lowest in the world. What that means is that hundreds of Ontario parents owe their children's lives to the research work in the laboratories of the Hospital for Sick Children.

Although the doctors give their services freely, the bills for equipment add up annually to a good many thousands of dollars. But in view of the results attained, I feel that not one of your readers will cavil at the money so spent, and I confidently venture the hope that many of them at this Christmas season will wish to enrol themselves in the Hospital's campaign on behalf of Ontario's childhood.

To carry on this research work there is not one cent except what comes in from voluntary subscriptions. For the care of the children occupying hospital cots there are certain statutory grants, but these represent scarcely more than ball what the Hospital needs. Last year, for instance, the Hospital doctors looked after an average of 253 in patients and 192 out-patients daily Quite a colony of ailing youngsters! And the expenditure - although whittled down to the minimum commensurate with efficiency - was $318,917. The income to the extent If at least $100,000 depends upon the regard which the people of Ontario have for the Hospitai's work and the generosity with which they express that regard.

May I ask you, Mr. Editor, to point out to your readers that since the establishment of the Hospital for Sick Children, at least four more Ontario youngsters in every nundred have survived the trials of childhood? For with that simple statement of fact brought to their attention I feel sure that many of them will bestow their benediction upon the work of the Hospital for Sick Children by sending some Christmas gift, according to their means, in care of the Secretary-Treasurer, at 67 College Street, Toronto.

> IRVING E. ROBERTSON. Chairman of Appeal Committee.

Since the Hospital Opened Its Doors in 1875, 65,231 In-Patients Treated - 603,055 Attendances of Out-Patients.

Faithfully yours,

Hospital for Sick Children ORCHARD POLLINATION

What to Do With "Self Fertile" and "Self Sterile" Varieties.

All Peaches May Be Planted In Blocks-Not So With Some Cherries, Plums, Apples and Pears-A New Strawberry Disease Known as Leaf Scorch or Mollisiose.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Many of our commonly grown varieties of fruits are "self-sterile," that is their blossoms will not develop into fruits when pollinated with their own pollen, but require pollen from another variety. The grower who is planning to set out new orchards should carefully study the question of self-sterility and plant accordingly. Peaches May Be Planted In Blocks.

Peaches do not need cross-pollination, and can be planted in solid blocks of one variety with assurance of full crops. They are "self-fertile." Almost all of our other tree fruits, however, are either completely "selfsterile" or partially so. Partially selfsterile varieties may give fair crops in seasons when bloom has been heavy and weather conditions favorable during blooming. A set of three or four per cent. of the blossoms in a heavy bloom will give a crop. It is in seasons of light bloom or of unfavorable "setting" weather that "cross-pollination" is so essential.

Bartlett Pears Are Partly Self-Sterile. A given variety of fruit may vary in fertility with climatic conditions or other modifying factors. In California, the Bartlett pear is partially self-sterile in the coast valleys and is greatly benefited when other varieties are interplanted. Higher up in the foothills of California the Bartlett is sufficiently self-fertile to give good crops even when planted in solid blocks. In Ontario the Bartlett is practically self-sterile, and must have other varieties planted with it to insure good crops.

Sour Cherries Self-Fertile; Sweet, Self-Sterile.

Sour cherries are self-fertile, and can be planted in solid blocks of one variety. Sweet cherries on the other hand are all self-sterile, and in some cases, as in the varieties Bing, Lambert and Napoleon, are also "intersterile"; that is the pollen of Napoleon for example will not fertilize either Bing or Lambert. Black Tartarian is one of the best varieties to plant for pollination purposes. Most varieties of plums are also selfsterile. Apples vary in fertility, but there are few varieties which do not materially benefit from interplanting agriculture. of varieties so as to secure crosspollination.

What varieties of each fruit should be planted together for cross-pollination purposes? The problem is largely one of blooming date. The Experimental Station will be pleased to advise each grower as to his own particular pollination problem.-E. F. Palmer, Hort. Exp. Station, Vineland Station.

A NEW STRAWBERRY DISEASE.

Leaf Scorch or Mollisiose Described and Treatment For It Suggested.

Until recently the leaf spot of strawberry has been considered to be the most serious leaf disease of the cultivated strawberry. During the past three or four years a leaf disease has been observed in strawberry plantations, and which seems to be generally distributed through the southern and eastern parts of the Province. This disease from its appearance can be appropriately called "leaf scorch." Considering the fungus responsible for the disease, it can be designated "mollisiose." Dr. R. E. Stone, of the Department of Botany, Ontario Agricultural College, thus describes the disease and treat-

In the spring, May and June, the strawberry leaves become covered with small, irregular, purplish spots. The spots enlarge and coalesce until the whole leaf may become involved. When the spots have become quite large they turn ashy brown or dirty grey in the center and then small fruiting specks or acervulae appear. In these acervulae hyaline, two-celled spores appear. These spores serve to spread the disease to other leaves and plants. Later, in July and August, the entire leaves dry up and the diseased plants take on a scorched appearance as though burned over with fire. It is not uncommon to see whole beds present this appearance and it becomes difficult to distinguish the plants suffering from leaf scorch from those severely injured by drouth and white grub injury.

Varieties Susceptible to the Disease. Not all varieties are equally susceptible to the disease. The most susceptible seems to be Clyde followed by Glen Mary, Haverland, Senator Dunlop, New Williams in the order given here. Control.

Control measures have not been worked out. From field observations the following procedure would seem to be desirable:

Clean cultivation. Removal and destruction of all dead leaves in spring. Spraying with Bordeaux mixture.

In setting out raspberries, blackberries, dewberries, and strawberries. young plants which grew the preceding season are generally used, except when they are planted in the autumn. In that case plants of the current season's growth are used.

A mare in foal can be used for farm or road work up to a short time before parturition, but the closer this period is at hand the greater care must be taken that she has not too heavy loads to draw, especially on uneven ground, and that she is not driven too fast
