PLANTING AND PRUNING

The Two Great Essentials in Handling Fruit Trees.

Distances Recommended for Planting—Do Not Prune Young Trees too Heavily—It Delays Growth and Fruiting—Practical Suggestions.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

In conjunction with our recommendations on pruning given below we wish also to make certain recommendations as to distances of planting to those growers who contemplate setting out new orchards.

Distances Recommended for Planting.—We would recommend the following general distances:

Apples, 36 to 40 feet for standards, with fillers at 10 to 20 feet; Cherries, Sweet, 25 to 30 feet; Sour, 18 to 20 feet.

Consideration must of course be given to the variety being planted. Smaller growing varieties can be given the absolute minimum distances.

Do Not Prune Young Tree Heavily.—The practice usually advocated in Ontario for young trees, (whether apple, pear, peach or other fruit) until they come into bearing, has been to give regular, fairly heavy annual dormant pruning.

Experimental work in England, in the United States and at this Station has shown conclusively, however, that the less pruning the young bearing tree is given, the larger, stronger tree it makes and the sooner it comes into bearing.

Pruning Delays Growth and Fruiting.—The reason for the unpruned or lightly pruned tree being larger than the tree receiving more severe treatment is in reality very simple and logical.

With reference to pruning delaying fruiting, it has lately been shown that before there can be fruitfulness there must be a partial storing up of manufactured food in the branches, twigs and fruit spurs.

Head back the young tree at planting time as is the present practice to counterbalance the root pruning incident to transplanting.

Horticultural Hints.—Banding the trunks and larger limbs of apple trees with strips of cloth has been practiced extensively for the control of the codling moth.
