JOHNNY RISKO REPUTED WORTH $200,000

Cleveland Fat Boy Member Not to Box Tunney Until 1929.—Is Taking Life Easy.

Johnny Risko might have been battling Gene Tunney for the world's heavyweight title next July 27, but he isn't. He's just the "third guy". He beat Jack Sharkey, Paolino Uzcudun and Phil Scott, which is as much or more than Tom Heeney, who did secure the big shot, ever accomplished, but Johnny; well Johnny doesn't really care so much.

Fact is, Johnny is that kind of a fellow. He would like a lot of money, a lot of clothes and many automobiles, but he isn't at all crazy about working. And, as things have turned out, it appears that Johnny never will have to work. At 25 years of age, when most boys are being graduated from college into $35 a week jobs, Risko is the possessor of a fortune said to total $200,000.

Johnny is no high-brow, he admits as much himself. He never heard of Freud and suspects Shaw played third for the Giants last year, but he is anxious to please. Rickard is going to keep an eye on him, nurse him through the summer and possibly use him next fall against someone who will give him quite a tussle. It is possible that Tunney will be pitched in against the Baker Boy within a year.

These two boys fought two years ago and Tunney escaped with the decision after quite a hectic battle. When time came to appoint Gene's challenger for this Summer, there were those who said that the champion would meet anyone other than Risko and the ultimate situation seems to bear out this opinion.

It might be mentioned in passing that the moniker "baker boy" is well deserved in Johnny's case. It wasn't so long ago that Risko was shoving loaves of bread into huge ovens and making tasty pies. But then he got tired of working and took up fighting and found that it paid well enough so that he never would have to go back to the dough business.

Now he finds himself able to buy two-and-a-half carat diamond rings, luxurious motor cars and other expensive trappings. But it seems that Johnny is a bit bewildered by it all, not quite sure what it's all about and, as long as it continues, not caring much.
