War Commentary

Allied flier brought down in these raids were also broadcast.

The battle for the central Philippine Island of Leyte has gone into its seventh week. This campaign seems to be bearing out the forecasts of Allied leaders that the war in the Pacific will be no easy road because the Japanese are indeed fanatical fighters.

In western Europe, the Germans are up to their old propaganda tricks of fishing for information. A German military commentator took to the air with a prediction that Field Marshall Montgomery was expected to launch a new assault from the Allied bridgehead at Nijmegen. That's where the 1st Canadian Army is massed, according to the Nazis.

West Fighting Heavy

At the same time American forces literally blasted out new gains inside Germany both north and south of Luxembourg. In the north Allied patrols advanced into Linnich, on the Roer River. Between Linich and Lueloch, our troops fought their way back into the outskirts of Roerdorf and Flossdorf, two villages which they captured last week and then lost to the Nazis.

Front line reports indicated that German resistance was stiffening all along the line, but the Nazis are paying heavily in casualties. A Reuters correspondent quoted a qualified Allied spokesman to the effect that Nazi casualties are occurring at a rate higher than the Nazis can replace with trained soldiers. In many cases, German prisoners have told Allied officials that companies have been cut down to 49 men from their usual 160. This would indicate a serious situation for the Nazis that will undoubtedly get worse unless they pull in trained reserves from other fronts.

Apparently the Nazis realize their German High Command issued a threat to abandon international rules of warfare as a result of what it charged was "increasing infringement of international law by our enemies." Another indication of Nazi uneasiness was Propaganda Minister Goebbels' order that German people cease all public discussion of the war situation.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Barfoot wish to thank their many friends and neighbours for their acts of kindness during their son, Mel's, stay in the Durham Hospital; also to the hospital staff and Dr. Campbell.

He said this was necessary to "conceal from the enemy Germany's shortcomings"-which is a frank enough admission, even from Goebbels.

The Allies continue to progress in Italy. Allied 5th Army troops are now but 11 miles from Faenza and Indian units of the 8th Army have taken the village of Alberto.
