OUR OTTAWA LETTER.

As silly a story as has graced the columns of the opposition press in a long, long time, is that for which the Ottawa Citizen finds space on its front page yesterday, with reference to the first experience of the working of the new Franchise Act, in the taking of the Plebiscite. After stating that the names of thousands of qualified voters were omitted from the lists, the article declares that this is the first black eye for the new Franchise Act, which is shown to be even a greater absurdity than was pointed out during the debate on the bill, and that it is thoroughly unworkable, &c. But while this much is amusing, the article drops into a screaming farce at its conclusion when it declares, "that the Government is seriously contemplating repealing the act of last Session altogether, and enacting the old Franchise Act with some amendments." It is abundantly evident that the Citizen's funny man does not confine his attentions to the editorial columns, it is so highly probable that the Government will revive an act which its own creators had long discredited and which was animadverted upon with more thorough unanimity throughout the country than probably any piece of legislation since Confederation.

An Imaginative Lady.
Considerable of a sensation was caused some days ago by the appearance of the first of Miss Shaw's letters on the Yukon in the London (Eng.) Times, and when that venerable journal, pinning its faith upon the statements of its representative, declared that there was apparently some need of investigation, the Opposition organs and anti-Canadian section of the press shouted for joy. The shouting continued in a very minor key however, when it was discovered that the Government had only been waiting until the necessary preparations could be made, and some plausible excuse found for ordering an investigation, and that same shouting is dying away altogether under a more critical reading of Miss Shaw's letters. That versatile and imaginative lady found that in the mining fields and in the streets of Dawson there is a widely prevailing conviction, not only that the laws are bad, but that the officers through which they are administered are corrupt. There is no disguising the universal dissatisfaction, it is impossible to talk for five minutes on business with anyone on the mines or in the streets without some allusion occurring to the subject &c.

The Weight of Testimony Against Her.
No one questions that Miss Shaw had opportunity for conversation on the streets of Dawson, but as to her personal experience of the mines, of the conditions and workings of which she speaks so comprehensively, the simple fact is that she only visited one, and the balance of her information is the merest hearsay. Most evidently her impressions conveyed in the above quotation have been gathered in the same way, for against them are the statements of Administrator Gillvie, Major Walsh, Ex-Gold Commissioner Fawcett, Mr. White (Reuter's correspondent) Messrs. Joseph Barrett and Philip, Col. Domville and scores of others, all of whom declare that they heard no complaints except perhaps against the royalty, and that it was impossible to find anyone prepared to make a charge against any official even when urged to do so. While it is almost sacrilegious for Britishers to question the conclusions of the Thunderer, it must be remembered that even it has been victimized and badly victimized in the past. No one doubts its good intentions, still it is at least the part of wisdom not to accept absolutely, and without qualification, the stories of a correspondent who started in upon her investigation after enjoying the hospitality and preliminary coaching of Sir Charles Tupper at Ottawa, and Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper at the coast.

Not Through Fooling Yet.
As if the Local Opposition had not had enough of fooling with alleged technicalities, some sapient member of the party signing himself 'Lex' has been trying to make it still more ridiculous by raising a quibble upon the wording of the Act governing the by-elections. While the House is in session it seems, the law forbids the trial of any election petition or the holding of a by-election. Technically the House is now in session though adjourning, for all practical purposes it has been prorogued till next year.
To remove all doubt in the keen legal minds of the opposition, the 'Constables Act' specially provided that the election trials should proceed, but the matter of by-elections was not noticed, the brilliant legal intellects of Messrs. Whitney, Carscallen, Foy, et al, failed to note the technicality, just as did the supporters of the Government.

There is no more question as to the intention of the Act than there was in the case of the Constables' vote, but as the Mail-Empire gleefully declares there was one more chance, slight though it be, 'to get Hardy into a hole' and public convenience or the dictates of common sense carry no weight.
Alas the reviving spirits soon dropped again for without wasting time to discuss the matter, the Government advised the Lieutenant Governor to pro-rogate the House, and the House is prorogued accordingly, the net effect being that the South Ontario election will be delayed a few days. Truly Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition in the Ontario Local Legislation is to be congratulated on its broad and comprehensive appreciation of public policy.

All Well On The Crow's Nest.

The general satisfaction which is felt throughout the country at the rapidly approaching completion of the Crow's Nest Pass Railway will be considerably augmented by the knowledge that the condition of the thousands of working men engaged thereon is all that can be reasonably desired.
Until the official report of the Commission appointed after the last session of Parliament has been made public, it is premature to express an opinion upon the charges which led thereto, but the recent testimony of independent investigators agrees in declaring that every proper attention is now being paid to the well-being of the men. There can be no doubt that much of the alleged trouble was the result of a large influx of laborers who were physically unequal to the hardships and privations of pioneer railway construction, but the prompt and ready manner in which the Government took action has without doubt greatly improved the situation.

'The Day's Work.'

The latest volume from the pen of Rudyard Kipling, a collection of short stories under the title of "The Day's Work," has just been issued from the press. It is not only of the interest which all writings of this popular author have been, but is much more so from the fact that this edition has been produced from the Canadian press under Canadian copy-right.
The admirers of Kipling will find much to their liking in the eight or ten short stories which the volume contains, and the make-up of the book, letter-press, illustrations, paper and binding, is of the class that reflect credit upon our home manufacturers.
The edition is published by George Morang of Toronto.

Live Stock Markets.

TORONTO.
The run of stuff at the Western Cattle Market to-day was heavier than anticipated and trade opened rather weak. The demand came in much stronger than expected, however, in the afternoon, the prices held within a mere shade of the level of earlier sales this week. There were 84 loads of stuff on the two markets, including about 1,500 sheep and lambs and 2,300 hogs.
Nearly everything was cleared off the market when it closed.

Export Cattle—The demand for this line of cattle was very slow on account of the poor quality. A few good export cattle brought from $4 to $4.40 per cwt, but there were comparatively few good enough at hand to land above $4.50 per cwt.

Butchers' Cattle—Only a few strictly choice heavy cattle brought $3.75 to $4.
The butchers were out in full force, and bought up nearly everything. Butchers' common cattle were in fair demand at $3.50 to $3.00 and $3.70 for selections.

Bulls—The general market for fat bulls of all weights was easily at the highest level for this time of the season.
The offerings were a little heavy and the demand fair. The quotations remained about the same, with the exception of a little advance in the heavy bulls. Heavy bulls are quoted at $3.25 to $3.75 per cwt. Light bulls fetched $2.75 to $3 per cwt.

Stockers—Stockers for Buffalo were slow, but in fair demand. The prices remained about the same as Tuesday's market. Feeders were firm at $3.40 to $3.75 per cwt.

Milk Cows and Springers—Fat cows were in good demand, but are very scarce, there only being a few good ones on the market. They were quoted at from $30 to $40 each and $45 for choice ones.

Sheep and Lambs—About the same number of sheep were at hand as the last market and trade had the same irregular movement. Most sheep, and particularly the heavy weights, went readily at steady prices, while some course lots were slow sale. Sheep for
