Love Finds the Way to Bring Happiness to Baron and Sibylle of Hesse.

The marriage of the Princess Sibylle of Hesse, youngset daughter of the widowed Landgraefin of Hesse, with the place in Frankfort-on-the-Main, has cause no end of gossip in German Court circles. The love affair of this prominent couple dates back three years, having originated in the city in which the nuptials were celebrated.

Baron von Vinke, was then, as lieu tenant in the Thirteenth Hessian Hussars, stationed in Frankfort, where the Princess was living with her mother He was introduced to the Princess at one of the riding meetings, which take place twice every week during the winter season, and in which all officers and society women participate.
