PecFURS RISING IN PRICE.

Marked Effects of the Decrease in the World's Supply Seen InCanada. An enormous increase in the price of furs is one of the results of the decrease in the supply brought by the Montagnais Indians from the wilds of Labrador and northern Quebec. Last winter's catch was exceedingly poor and but for the higher prices secured there would be a vast amount of suffering among the Indians.

Black and silver gray fox skins have realized upon the coast as high as $120. The rapidly increasing scarcity of these fine Canadian furs is making itself felt in the Old World, as a dealfrom Labrador. This remarkable increase in value lends importance to the new project of Mr. Menier of raising black and silver foxes upon his island they are kept in large inclosures, they are thriving and increasing with great rapidity and promise exceedingly lucrative returns.
