"DEWEY SUNDAY" IN NEW

Talmage Enumerates and Extols the Naval Heroes of the United States-Lieut. Hobson Cruelly Ignored By the Learned Divine.

New York, Oct. 8 .- To-day's "Dewey robe washed and made white in the Sunday," the great admiral still being the city's guest, and the whole nation stirred with the magnificent reception accorded to him and the gallant sailors of the Olympia, Rev. Dr. Talmage in this sermon, preaching to a vast audience in the gospel tent, Fiftysixth street and Broadway, appropriately recalls for devout and patriotic purposes some of the great naval deeds of olden and more recent times. Text, James iii., 4: "Behold also the

I recite to-day the deeds of our naval heroes, many of whom have not yet received appropriate recognition. "Behold also the ships." As we will never know what our national prosperity is worth until we realise what it costs, I recall the unrecited fact that the men of the navy in all our wars ran especial risks. They had not only the human weaponry to contend with, but the tides, the fog, the storm. Not like other ships could they run into harbor at the approach of an equinox or a cyclone or a hurricane, because the harbors were hostile. When Moredecai heard of the terrible decree which ordered the death of all his people he was filled with grief. He sent a copy of the decree to Esther, and asked her to intercede with the king that the calamity might be averted. The king was a fickle-minded, despotic ruler, and Esther had not been in his presence for thirty days. It was, therefore, a great risk for her to venture into his presence, lest her life be taken. At the end of the fast Esther dressed herself in her queenly apparel and came before the king. He received her kindly and asked what her petition might be, promising to grant it.
