toward Wes-

shells caught

one some dam.

a nice little will remove e has arrived Ming 34 offiprisoners is

Law Journal be constitutbels in South rd Chief Jusdilowen, will

-The Boers steel to numterday they "Are you s off duty ?" Ell we get to Boers helioordship !" 'la Kruger of messages anged. The on't like solke whiskey." d: We have me over and jountar mesbeliographed d been sniped patrols in mt 100 other jorting them, bdrew. It is ere 500 men 000 in the tks. The agas probably defend their the last two ary in a sod-is in such mpossible for intry to pass lorses which mtare much South Africa agneld. -(Special.)is afternoon to the east lbe 14th. das arrived ck Hamilton. reference to lle is the reased him by be to Mr. i shows that which Mr. interests of T Bloemfonfin is about fact, niready G SLEEP. 1"Removed ss Eva Roch.

girl," has el Disu Hosthe physrher case are ensures are my fall again ong slumbers. got show any ev, they are m: weak conthe previous take to bed merous hembeaceberpfa: she replies al. She sufpains in the r body from meyen sate il ill a while

Un desire to shine and to

and her peo-

ected to the e physicians flears for

Up to this requested. here so that to improve eson, repre-Parliamens s in Ottawa. Sir Willfred moers of the

IN SPITE OF HIS BIRTH

CHAPTER XV.

the room, together with the no less one was impressed with the truthfulsurprised prisoner in the box, turned | ness of it. to see who had burst upon the scene ! in this very unceremonious fashion. She was a young girl, perhaps four- tioned the judge. teen years old, slender and rather tall for her years, but not awkwardly so. and delicate in its outlines. Her eyes were large and very blue, with an earnestness of expression depths. Her hair, a bright gold, was parents. braided, and hung down her back in a with a soft shade of olive ribbon. of ribbon in two shades of clive, knottrimmed with a wreath of hops-also seen, and point out the real thief cise-as Professor George expresses CATARRH, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS. in two shades of olive-black silk to him?" he asked. gloves and hose with low French kid "I did start to do so," the young there comes my car.

very effective toilet.

"Oh! I have something to say, was so late getting here."

eagerly responded.

occurred yesterday?" the judge asked. is honorably discharged, and the leatures and a great wave of color "Yes, sir; yes, sir." the prisoner step down, and the young | Bunting in his flight, "you will take | his breath, as if an altogether new said his honor. Ned, with an astonished look on his | So Ned was released, and proudly | Mr. Lawson now rejoined him, and stepped into his place, but giving him | heart very light. a smile of cheer and a friendly nod | "I say, Gertrude, you're just the home-unless you'd like me to attend of greeting as she passed him.

conscious in her youthful beauty that leve I should have had to go to the time to catch the noon boat, and I'll inquired. "Gertrude Hilton Langmaid."

"Your age ?" "I shall be thirteen next month."

the time?" a building on Atlantic avenue, just op- | with tremulous lips. posite Bowes' wharf. I went there with a friend who had an errand with her father. I stood looking out of the window, while she talked with him. from the boat, which had just came in, and I saw this boy-

"Describe the boy, if you please, interposed the Judge. "He was taller than Ned-a great. "Where do you live?"

"No. - Arlington street." "Do you know the prisoner person-

"Yes, sir," with a blush and a shy smiling glance at Ned. "How long have you known him ?" "More than three years."

"Very well, now you may tell us what you know about his stealing the the judge.

boy took it out of the lady's pocket to court and tell what I knew." while she stood waiting for a horsecar, and a few minutes afterward, he | young lady, and you have probably dropped it into Ned Heatherton's saved your young friend here ed his honor with some sternness. "I saw the boy when he did it." Gertrude unhesitatingly answered, swered, with a biush. ened at his tone.

awkward boy in ragged clothes, and leaving the two young people tohe was very-very unclean. He had gether. Why! there he is now, sir!" Gertrude | "I shall never forget this of you suddenly exclaimed, as a slouching fig. | -never!" Ned said, in a voice that black hair and a very sharp nose. | was husky from grateful emotion. ure in the back part of the room arose | "I believe it would have broken my and moved stealthily toward the mother's heart if I had had to go door, evidently with the intention of to prison, and I'm sure I never could getting out of the place as soon as have held my head up after it. tables likely to be turned against her heart, and mine, too," Gertrude him by the new and unexpected wit naively responded, ness, suddenly became convinced that Ned flushed at her words, and a it would be well to make himself glad light leaped into his eyes. scarce without delay.

voice of thunder.

a change could be possible with all his pay for playing such a wretchthe dirt and tan on his face, and, ed trick upon you-though I think rendered desperate by the startling it is dreadful for any one to have mencement day. redict, made a bold dash for the door. to go to prison. What made him do But an officer standing near reach- it-who is he, anyway?" ed forth his powerful arm, seized "Why, that was Bill Buntinghim by the collar, and swung him | the chap who stole your dog three | "right about face," thus effectu- years ago," Ned explained. ally cutting short his flight.

monor ordered; and when this was he tried to make you out a thief, done, he turned again to Gertrude. just to be revenged on you for getand continued, in a more kindly ting Budge back for me," Gertrude glance at Gertrude. tone: "You are sure this is the excitedly exclaimed. her purse yesterday?" the man asked, smiling slightly.

soen he threw out his arm and "Yes, sir; I know he is the boy," the maiden emphatically replied. "Very well. You saw the boy take Describe the purse." "I don't think I can, sir, very girl carelessly replied. well, for I was so far away," Gertrude answered, flushing.

"I think it was the left one, sir; for erson will be anxlous about me, for she did not like to refuse him. when he fell against him he put his no one knows where I am, and I am "Very well," she said, with an foucauld. arm around and dropped the purse in sure I ought to go directly back to independent / little toss of her Persistent people begin their suc. misery. the one on the side farthest from him. I them, if you will please put me on bright head, "if Mr. Heatherton de- cess where others end in failure. Ed. "In spite of all remedies I used I Bates & Co., Toronto. Ned turned away from him then, and a Commonwealth avenue car." sires, I will agree to the exchange, ward Eggleston.

the next minute I saw the boy point "Please, please wait! I bope I am at him and tell the officer something." not too late!" the silvery though | All this tallied so exactly with the anxious tones continued, while the as- evidence which had already been given tonished judge and other occupants of in Ned's favor, that almost every-month."

ing out of the world,

comprehending her meaning.

it-that you will want.

Ned followed her with wistful eyes,

"I-I just wish that girl was my

Then he gave a sudden start, scratched his head reflectively, while

"Great Scott!" he ejaculated under rather take the next boat and go a deliberate falsehood, and nothing

"I knew you would say so, and I wouldn't have done it for anything,

CHAPTER XVI.

any material change in the lives of our friends on Mount Vernon street.

High school, where he stood first in his class, his average being ninety-nine and a quarter per cent., While

Gertrude Langmaid stood next to him at ninety-eight and three-quarters

Thus, according to the custom of the school, it lay with these two to open and close the exercises of com-

Four more years sipped by without want to be a lawyer."

per cent.

material to me."

and muttered longingly :

don't either."

the 12.10 boat.

"When did you last see young Heatherton to speak with him?" ques-

Gertrude flushed to the brows at this question, for it recalled very vividly while her face was exquisitely fair the regretful, almost pathetic fare. well that she and Ned had taken of each other some five weeks previous, when she was on the eve of leaving that was striking in their clear for the White Mountains with her

"Not since the day school closed," massive plait, being tied at the ends she responded, with downcast eyes. he said, inquiringly. She was dressed in white, very judge's eyes. Evidently there was no ine, Ned, that I'm going to let you simply made, with a broad sash coliusion between the two parties. get ahead of me in school," she "Why did you not go immediately regulably retorted. "I will be back CATARRHOZONE ted about her slight waist, while a down to the officer who arrested to race with you next year, and I broad, soft finished legitorn bat, your friend, tell him what you had will give you all the mental exer-

shoes, complited the inconspicuous but girl replied. "I was nearly down say, Ned," she eagerly inter- cal profession, the patronage of the drug taken!" the last flight of stairs when my posed; "if I write to you from She made a charming picture as she | heel caught on one and I fell, strik. | abroad, will you answer my letters?" stood there before the judge, her ing my head against the railing. I "Just try me and see," Ned exflushed face upraised to him, appar- was so stunned I did not come really claimed, his face all agicw over the ently oblivious of every one else in to myself until I was in the car- proposition. the room, and one which the gentle riage going home with my friend. "All right. Then you look for one by mail. Twenty-five cent total size for truth. He sprang from his bed. and My head was very bad all night and by the first return steamer after we "Young lady, you are interrupting I did not sleep much until near land. Now I must go. Good-bye," and the proceedings of the court," the morning, and so I did not wake un- with a smile and nod of farewell the judge remarked, with grave dig- til very late. Then I hurried down lovely girl tripped daintily out into upon one condition, and that is that nity, but with a kindly gleam in his to Atlantic avenue to see the poeyes, "and, waless you have some liceman who had arrested Ned. He her upon the car, shoved a nickel into the facts of the case, so that a wrong sound of armed men approaching; thing to say upon the case in hand, was not there, but another man told the hand of the conductor for her impression need not prevail." I must request you to be seated and | me that he had gone to court as | lare, and waved his cane in adieu as | remain quiet, or leave the room." | a witness, and-and that is why I | she disappeared within.

sir-please let me tell what I know | "That will do, young lady; you about Ned Heatherton," the girl may step down and be seated," said the judge.

"Have you some evidence to give in | Then, rising once more, he said. directly upon the case of theft that "I find the prisoner not guilty. He a peculiar expression illuminated his explaining the situation, and so some there at the they sold their children. favor of the prisoner, which bears with a kindly glance at Ned: case is dismissed. Officer," turning | shot up to his brow. "Very well, we will hear it. Let to the man who had arrested Bill lady may take the witness stand," | charge of your prisoner until his | Idea had struck him. " No-I guess-I case is called for trial.

the girl, evidently greatly relieved to with his lawyer, Gertrude and Mr. some dinner. find that she was not "too late," Lawson, his face very bright, his

p.ucklest girl in Boston," he enthus- to that errand I came for yesterday," and then stood quietly waiting to be outside the gloomy building, while to see his mother. It seemed an age questioned, while she was so fair, so he turned a pair of gleaming and since he left her the day before. graceful, so unassuming, and so un- grateful eyes upon her. "I just be- "All right, go on-you'll have just tions, she appealed to every heart in that reformatory, or some other dreadful attend to that matter myself. There's place, if it had not been for you." afraid, when I got to Atlantic ave- promise that he'd be home himself by mother of such a son." nue this morning, and found out that | 4 o'clock, he went about his business, | "You saw him. Where were you at be too late to do you any good. I ran away and had to depend on the

"Yes; you see papa and mamma watching the people as they came up before yesterday, to a wedding, and tasket. I was invited to stay with Grace Emerson was very much frightened about my, fall, and ordered me to lie quietly in bed all day. She was ill herse I, so I did not like to trouble | hours. her in any way, and Mr. Emerson had gone down to the office when I ders, got up and dressed myself, and she had borne in the affair. ran away to tell the officer about was almost crazy, and couldn't think he added, "I had done as the lawyer display of talent to-day." Well, you are a very pocket," the little lady confidently great deal of trouble by acting so promptly," Ned's lawyer here re-"How do you know this?" demand. | marked, while he regarded the fair girl admiringly. "I am very glad," Gertrude anbut growing slightly pale and fright Mr. Lawson now drew the attorney aside to settle with him, thus possible, for Bill Bunting, finding the "Of course, it would have broken

"Would it?" he earnestly asked. "Stop him!" cried the judge, in a "Yes, indeed," she frankly returned, "and I believe I am not sorry Bill Bunting turned pale, if such | that mean fellow is going to get

"Why! was it? What a wicked "Bring him inside the dock," his creature he is! Then of course boy whom you saw rob the lady of Yes, I am sure he never would any other reason-he might have kept | words "It looked like a purse, sir; and it himself as well as not," Ned a minute after he went up to Ned | answered. Then he added, as he somewhat anxiously, "but I can't the class, and no one should usurp his he.p thinking about your fall-I hope | place.' your head doesn't trouble you now." "No-not much; once in a while I | ter between yourselves," the professor the lady's purse from her pocket. have a little twinge, but it will be all right in a day or two," the young Mr. Lawson how joined them. "We'l! well! well!" he ejaculated, gentler sex," Ned observed, with a "You are sure it was a purse?" in a satisfied tone, "we're safely out merry twinkle in his dark eyes that thought he was going to strike of the woods-eh? thanks to Miss caused a ripple of laughter to run Ned, but he only tumbled up against | Gertrude. And now, as it is almost | around the class, "and, if it is all the occasion by going down to the Adams I would prefer the salutatory." Gertrude thought a moment, then to more than I can tell you, but I course, as he said he "preferred" the am afraid that Grace and Mrs. Em- salutatory, asking it of her as a favor,

"All right; I suppose we'll have CATARRH. to let you go, though we would be glad of your company at dinner," Mr. Lawson returned, as he stepped Testimony of a trained nurse who was forward to stop a car for her. cured of Acute Catarrh. For three "Are you going to Nantucket this months the sufferer used snuffs, powsummer?" Ned inquired, when they ders and other equally worthless were left alone again. remedies. "No; haven't I told you we are going to Europe the 18th of this CATARRHOZONE CURED AFTER ALL ELSE HAD FAILED. "Going to Europe!" exclaimed Ned, with as much astonishment and dismay as if she had said she was go-"Why, yes; but don't look so woe- nasal catarrh. From that time up till a few there don't look so woebegone," Gertrude cried, laughing, for we are coming back the last of September. But I'm glad, though," of Catarrhozone I decided to try it, and ests were full of game, the young she concluded, flushing. "Glad of what?" asked Ned, not "Glad that you are sorry to has been extensive but I must say that I arate and lodge where they could in have me go," she confessed, with a never saw a remedy more speedy in its the town. This left the duke with Ned's heart gave a sudden bound of what I am talking about when I say it is only a few servants in the castle, blush and a shy smile, at which action than Catarrhozone. I talak I know "Then you'll be back for school?" A satisfied gleam shot into the "Oh, yes, indeed. Don't you imag- satisfactory experience with other remedies should not influence you against Ca### tarrhozone.

Is a guaranteed cure for such receives the recognition of the medi- I saw them. Fly, or thou wilt be trade and the free endorsement of every health journal. 10c in stamps from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Out.

objected Ned. "Miss Langmaid is right," said the professor. "You can have the salutatory, Heatherton, if you prefer, but announcement regarding your relative entrance. He had seen them a short standing will have to be made." themselves and their class.

handsome face, vacated the box, and left the court-room, in company asked if he would come and have their carriage, at Mount Vernon late. The duke is gone! William is off! street, to take Mrs, Heatherton and Your stroke has missed! But hark ye : "If you please, sir, I think I'd Mr. Lawson to the hall where the ex. bide a bit. He will pay you! You ercises were to be held, and all four | made him pass a bad night-he will were as proud as they well could be make you see an ill day." And then over the creditable appearance which he capered derisively about them. She unhesitatingly took the oath, lastically exclaimed, when they were Ned replied, feeling as if he wanted their dear ones made and the high And what of the duke? He was the breast upward with stiff buchecomiums which they won for the riding furiously eastward, heading for ram and whale-bone. The new French something else, too, that I want to to that lady, as he shook hands with the water at Sainte-Marie-du-Mont, body compressed, if anywhere, down-"What is your name?" The judge "Oh! I hope not-that would have look after," Mr. Lawson responded, her at the close of the exercises. "I and owing to the clear moonlight ward from the waist. The model now been shocking. But I was awfully then, bidding him good-bye, with the congratulate you upon being the crossed over in safety to St. Cle- in request is a corset short above you were being tried that I should while Ned started briskly off to catch isn't a smarter boy in the city of to cross alone at night, but he was permit an elastic motion in walking. Boston," Mr. Lawson proudly as in a sore strait, and he had no choice. The steels and elaborate whale-bone He stowed himself away in a snug serted, while Mrs. Heatherton thank. The tide was rising fast, and as stiffening is directed almost wholly "In an office on the third floor of street cars," Gertrude explained, corner of the deck, near one of the ed Mr. Langmaid with tears in her William came dripping out of the sea downward below the belt. great paddle-wheels, and gave himself eyes for his praise of Ned, and said he knew that he had won the first Some new corsets are very expen-"Ran away!" repeated Ned, won- up to his thoughts, which appeared something equally kind regarding round in the game. There was no sive. A mondaine orders two pairs to be of a very grave nature, for he Gertrude.

scarcely moved until the gang-plank | "You just did the business up in the tide fell again no one could follow | matter of course to pay such a went away to Philadelphia the day was thrown out upon the pier at Nan- grand style," Ned whispered in a him. He entered the church and fell sum; while her less wealthy sister confidential aside to Gertrude, when, upon his knees, and offered up a prayer searches among ready-made corsets with her hands full of flowers, she of thanks for his safety. The little until she finds a model and cut Then he sprang ashore and darted Emerson while they were gone. Mrs. away toward one of the lovely cot- came down from the stage after de- Church of St. Clement, mostly re- adapted to her figure and, after tages on the bluff, where he was soon livering her farewells to school, built, stands to-day in the same place, all, looks just as well as her luxurirehearsing to his mother the exciting faculty and class. "That was what at the eastern side of the ford, which, one relative. incidents of the last twenty-four I call a dignified and first-class vale- in memory of that night and the man It is never advisable to purchase a dictory; there wasn't the least bit | who rode across, goes by the name | corset unless it fits, and the best Mrs. Heatherton was considerably o fbosh or maudlin sentiment about of Ve-le-Duc (the Duke's Way). But figure is not that which is compresswrought up over the matter, but it."

awoke, so I could not tell him about thankful that Ned had come out of it "Thank you, Mr. Heatherton," long ford, for there are bridges fur a tight, stiff corset. you. Grace had to go to her music- so honorably, while she gave high Gertrude responded. flushing with ther inland, which, had they existed teacher at nine, so I disobeyed or- praise to Gertrude for the noble part pleasure, "since I was occupying a in William's time, would have inevit- WORK ONLY WHEN THEY LIKE. position that did not really belong ably cost him his life. "I am afraid I should have had to to me, I naturally felt a desire to that dreadful boy who stole the go to prison if it had not been for do credit to it; while, it you will allady's purse yesterday," commanded purse. When I could not find him I her," Ned gravely remarked, "unless," low me to say it, I was proud of your "Oh, he did not steal it—another of anything else to do but to come advised and pleaded guilty of a first "Were you, really?" Ned asked, offence. Do you think it would have with an animated look.

Yes, truly; your address was No, my son," Mrs. Heatherton define and full of thought. low bow, "I do not know of any riage, and her town and country would seem that he works for Amerione I would rather hear say that; but evil could have resulted. You would only, if you please, I would have liked It better if you had not been quite under the generous settlement which dation than from necessity. He dehave sullied your conscience with a lie, and also branded yourself as a so formal about it."

looking surprised. Ned said, resolutely. "I should always Mr. Heatherton? Must I begin to call riage contract. and attended the Indian has to work for white men in have despised myself for it; and if that you Miss Langmaid?" Ned inquired, wedding at Vienna. The Countess is a specimen of the tricks that with a sigh. lawyers use to gain their cases I never thought perhaps I ought to-to"- is a voluntary allowance from her Gertrude stammered, blushed and fi- father-in-law, the Emperor Francis nally gave up trying to tell what Joseph, while £2,000 a year was irshe thought she ought to do.

"You used to call me Ned, until late- her father, the King of the Belgians. ly; we've always been good frineds in | Count Lonyay's income from the The only event of noteworthy importhe past, and-and I hope we shall family estate of Podrog Glaszi, ance was Ned's graduation from the be in-in the future," the young man Upper Hungary, is £3,000 a year, faltered, as he searched the beautiful face beside him with wistful eyes. "Of course-why shouldn't we be? Why, if I were going to make a list of my friends I should write your name first of all," the young girl earnestly

Fashions for the Middle-Aged.

"Please let Miss Langmaid take the Fashion is now kinder to elderly valedictory, sir, and I will deliver | women than formerly, for the cathe salutatory." Ned remarked, when | pricious dame permits them to wear Professor George announced their a wide assortment of colors, instead standing in connection with the ar- of confining them to sober black. rangement for the closing exercises. Soft grays and purples are quite ap-Being a young lady, I should prefer | propriate for women who are sixtyto have it given to her," he chival- five and older. The gown may be rously added, as he darted a smiling very effective in design, quite in keeping with the fashion of the day. That young lady, who, by the way, and yet have an individuality about had grown wondrously fair during the | it that is very charming. Too many have given up such a ie.; purse for last four years, flushed rosily at his flounces and ruffles are out of place, and the plainer the skirt is "I think that the honors should fall made, the better. There should be where they belong," she emphatically soft folds of the material itself, and began talking with him. Pretty searched his fair companion's face asserted. "Heatherton stands first in whether it be of cloth, silk, or of peau de soie, or flat bands of passementerie, with or without beads. "Well, you two must settle the matapplique of cut-work on a skirt are good naturedly remarked; "it is imquite permissible; but all trimmings should be laid on flat. The skirts "Sentiment, farewells, and last may have the gored front and side words are more characteristic of the breadths, but must be made with a little fulness-not gathers, but fulness-at the top of the front breadth, to allow for the rather larger fighim, and then I saw him drop the twelve, suppose we all celebrate the same to you, Miss Langmaid, I think | ure apt to be acquired with the years. A long skirt in the house is paper-hanger, a member of the Coun- as the only positive and guara "Which pocket?" interposed the House and getting an A No. 1 dinner." Gertrude knew well enough that he altogether the prettiest, but for the cil at Embro', Ont., states: "For over cure for piles. judge, with a shrewd twinkle in his trude said, smiling. "I should like to take precedence over her; but, of length.—Harper's Bazar.

"Thank you, Mr. Lawson," Geronly said this because he did not wish length.—Harper's Bazar.

"Thank you, Mr. Lawson," Geronly said this because he did not wish length.—Harper's Bazar.

From a Band of Assassins.

Among several incidents of "The Boyhood of 'The Conqueror,' " related Hindoos Selling Their Children by Adele E. Orpen in the March St. Nicholas, is this account of a midnight

One of these shooting matches nearly cost him his life. He was Miss E. Eames, trained nurse, residing at about 20 years old, when, in early No. 47 Aylmer street, Montreal, writes: summer of the year 1047, he went, "About three months ago I caught cold with a large train of friends and days ago I had been constantly using In those days there were great forsnuffs, powders and other worthless reme- ests covering the hills and valleys off India, according to returned misdies, but none of them benefited. Hearing around Valognes, and as these for sionaries, that is a girl's actual lief upon the first application, and duke and his friends expected to ena few days of its use completely cured me. joy themselves. They formed so My experience with all kinds of medicine large a party that they had to septhe best remedy in the market for catarrh." In the middle of the night he was If you have catarrh you cannot afford | suddenly awakened by a loud knockto be indifferent to its progress. Treatment | ing. and the shouting of some one cannot be commenced too early. Your un- mounting the stairs to his chamber. He listened, and recognized the voice of Gallet, a strolling buffoon, whom he knew very well, and to whom he had freuently given little

"Fly! fly!" shouted the buffoon, "William, thou art lost! Fly, sweet It is a specific for these diseases, and as | friend! Thy murderers are coming!

William had been through too Complete outfit, consisting of beautifully many dangers, and had had too polished hard rubber inhaler and sufficient | many narrow escapes, to neglect inhalant for six weeks' use, price $1; extra | such a warning. He believed that i bottles of Inhalant 50c. At druggists, or Gallet, though but a fool, spoke the

of course any young lady would feel Not a moment too soon. He had time before from his hay-loft at the This did not quite please Ned, but inn, when they were preparing for the matter had to stand thus, and their murderous errand, and whence when the important day arrived the be had run to warn his "sweet friend" | The Downward Curve Given by New two young people did great honor to William. He knew them and their purpose. "Ha, ha!" he cried, with Mr. and Mrs. Langmaid called, in mad glee, "you're late, my sirs; you're excellence of their literary product the wide ford where the River Vire "You have a smart boy there, Mrs. stretch of sand, nearly bare at low waisted upward from the waist. The Heatherton," Mr. Langmaid remarked water. The young man plunged into new stay attempts to make the ment's Church on the opposite side the waist and long below. Even these "Hum-well you may, sir; there near Isigny. It was a dangerous place last are often cut up on the hp to other ford across the Vire, and until made, at $16 apiece, and thinks It a

WHAT SHE GAVE UP.

Stephanie Sacrificed a Great Fortune for Love.

Lonyay's income in future will be revocably settled on her in 1881 by going to give his daughter-in-law a house at Buda-Pest, and he will provide her with a villa at Baden, near

William the Conqueror's Escape GIRLS AT 30 CENTS EACH

to Mohammedans

TO SAVE THEM FROM STARVING.

In New York, where slang is licensed, it is often said of a girl that she looks like thirty cents," but in far

Rev. Rockwell Clancy, now visiting America, makes this statement in the course of an interview depicting the horrors of the terrible Indian famine. Girls, he says, are being sold for 30 cents apiece to Mohammedans to save them from starvation. Mr. Clancy says that boys do not sell well, and the traffic is almost exclusively in girls. He says: "I saw girls in one town just before came away being sold for 30 centsapiece. They were bought up by Mohammedans. But they won't buy the boys, so when the parents can no longer support their children, they abandon them, and henceforth they must get on as best they can.

"These cast-offs congregate about the door of the grain merchants' shops, and the only way the proprietors can get rid of them is to throw. out handfuls of grain, scattering it wide. The children pick and pick all day, and at night perhaps are rewarded by having collected a single hand-in his night-dress, with only a short Mr. Clancy says the state of affairs cloak flung upon his shoulders, brought about by the famine is awful dashed downstairs and into the to contemplate. Sixty millions of lions of these are in dire distress. The perhaps he needed to hear nothing Government is unable to aid, more "I do not think that is necessary," more in order to realize his dan- than about three millions. When ger; at all events, he seized the the famine set in the people began first horse he could find, leaped to sell everything that they had upon it bareback, and rode for his that might get a little grain for food. They took the doors from their houses and sold them; sold their furniture sensitive about accepting an honor scarce galloped out of the courtyard and farming utensils, and then, when which did not belong to her, without before several armed men rode hur- they had no longer anything to sell,

DEEPLY V'D.

French Stays.

Note the downward curve given to the figure at the bust line, by the new corsets, which are deeply V'd, as the expressive phrase goes. This is a return to natural lines from the artificial form moulded by the old-fashioned stays, which pushed stays are pretty and easy affairs. meets the sea in a great three-mile The old corset made the body long-people do not any longer cross by that | ed into torture in the strict bonds of Mexican Peons are the Most Independent Laborers on Earth.

Observers of industrial conditions in Mexico assert, that, as far as they, have noted, there is no more indepen-The Archduchess Stephanie loses dent person in the world than the her huge jointure from the Imperial Mexican laborer. Especially is this "Much obliged," said Ned, with a Treasury by her morganatic mar- true of the peon of the tropics. La houses, and she is deprived of all the cans who have big plantations to debenefits to which she was entitled velop more as a matter of accommowas made in 1881, when she married, mands a snug sum in advance, too, on "Formal!" repeated the young girl, the Crown Prince Rudolph, and the which to have a good time at the Emperor William and the Prince of flestas before he settles down to sev-"Yes. How long is it since I became | Wales were witnesses to the mar. eral months of drudgery. No native "No-please don't; but somehow I £12,000 a year, of which £10,000 is limited to a desire for enough to eat, a thatched but and a lictle cothimself. There are fish in the river and game in the forest. There is plenty game in th eforest. There is plenty of unoccupied land upon which he can raise a few cereals to trade for the things he cannot produce himself. There is no winter to provide against, and, though the rainy days come often in summer, they only mean more rest.

Said a well-meaning sexton, when showing the belfry of an interesting village church to a party of visitors, "the bell is only rung in case of a visit Laughing cheerfulness throws sun- from the Lord Bishop of the diocese, a ight on all the paths of life .- Rich- I fire, a Good, or any other such cal

Bleeding Piles

For 15 Years-In Agony with the terrible itching and bleeding Two boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment make a permanent cure.

Trimmings of lace and even a little pauses before several good prepara- after the third day the bleed! mend to you.

He knows that Dr. Chase's Ointment ed it to all who suffer as I did." record of cures has never been dupil- truding. It has certain ingredient

Mr. James A. Bowles, painter and to discover, and stands alone to-day There is great ability in knowing up work. I suffered untold agony because it is the only actual cure for how to conceal one's ability .- Roche from the terrible itching and they that torturing and dreadfully pro-could get no rollef. At last I was

When asked for a remedy for dys- advised to try Dr. Chase's Ointment pepsia or kidney disease the druggist | The first application gave relief, and tions, not knowing which to recom- stopped. Two boxes cured me com pletely. I would not begrudge five Not so when asked for a pile cure. dollars for a box. I have recomme is the only remedy which actually Dr. Chase's Ointment has never cures every form of piles. It has had yet been known to fail to cure pil many imitations, but its wonderful whether itching, bleeding or me ing, protruding piles, and was so bad all sorts of itching skin diesase, but would protrude, causing the greatest valent disease, 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or by mail, from Edmanson.

which imitators have never been at