

HOUSEHOLD WORRIES

Make So Many Women Look Prematurely Old.

They are the Fruitful Source of Headaches, Nervous Disorders, Pains in the Back and Loins and the Feeling of Constant Weariness That Afflicts So Many Women.

Almost every woman meets daily with innumerable little worries in her household affairs. Perhaps they are too small to notice an hour afterward, but these constant little worries have their effect upon the nervous system. Indeed, it is these little worries that make so many women look prematurely old. Their effect may also be noticeable in other ways, such as sick or nervous headache, fickle appetite, pains in the back or loins, palpitation of the heart, and a feeling of constant weariness. If you are experiencing any of these symptoms it is a sign that the blood and nerves need attention, and for this purpose Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are woman's best friend. They are particularly adapted as a regulator of the ailments that afflict women, and through the blood and nerves act upon the whole system, bringing brightness to the eye and a glow of health to the cheeks. Thousands of grateful women have testified to the benefit derived from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Among those who freely acknowledge the benefit derived from this great medicine is Mrs. J. S. Hughes, of Bromore, P. E. I., a lady who possesses the respect and esteem of all who know her. Mrs. Hughes speaks of her illness and cure as follows: "I had about four years' illness, but always enjoyed good health and was looked upon as one who possessed a robust constitution. Then I began to grow weak, was troubled with severe headaches, and frequently with violent pains in the region of my heart, from which I would only find ease through hot appliances. My stomach also gave me much trouble, and did not appear to perform its customary functions. I was treated by a skillful doctor, but although under his care for several months, I grew gradually weaker and weaker, until finally I was not able to leave my bed. Then I called in another doctor, whose treatment, although continued for some eight months, was equally fruitless. I was nearly able to hold my head up, and was so nervous that I was crying half the time. My condition can best be described as pitiable. At this time a friend brought me a newspaper, in which was a story of the cure of a woman whose case was in many respects similar to mine, through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I then decided that I would give the pills a fair trial. When I began the use of the pills I was in such a condition that the doctor told me I would always be an invalid. I used four boxes of the pills before I realized any benefit, and then I could see the hope of being cured. I used twelve boxes in all, covering a treatment of nearly six months, when I was as well as ever I had been in my life, and I have ever since enjoyed the best of health. I believe there would be fewer suffering women throughout the world if they would do as I did—give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial."

A medicine that is not right is worse than no medicine at all—much worse. Substitutes are not right; more than that, they are generally dangerous. When you buy Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People be sure that the full name is on the wrapper around every box. If your dealer does not keep them they will be sent post paid at ten cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by direct mail to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TO FRAME BRIDE'S PICTURE. How a New Chicago Matron Remembered Her Friends.

A recent Chicago bride who was going out of town to live distributed photographs of herself and her gifts to her relatives and friends and had them framed in a unique and attractive manner. They were to be mounted under glass in the manner familiar to all and known as passepartout, but instead of the usual mat of linen or cardboard she used a material which was especially appropriate, and one which made frames as well as pictures worthy of being preserved among the family heirlooms. The picture which she gave her mother had a mat of the white satin which had been used for her wedding dress, and across one corner was a bit of the lace with which the dress was trimmed. To a sister she gave a picture also mounted in the white satin, but with a design of orange blossoms embroidered upon it, while the mat for the one given her maid of honor was of the white satin embroidered with a graceful spray of white roses. Friends less near received pictures mounted with the goods which had gone to make up the different gowns of her trousseau. The mat made from the material of her "going-away gown" had forget-me-nots embroidered in small scattered sprays, while some of the silk and figured goods were made up plain, being sufficiently decorative in themselves. In each case the mounted picture was bound to the glass with a narrow strip of soft leather in a shade to correspond with the color of the mat. Upon the back of each was plainly written the name and date of the wedding. It is needless to state that the gifts were prized as the pictures alone never could have been, and it is safe to predict that other brides will follow the graceful fashion.—Chicago Chronicle.

The Sweet Thing. Mrs. Nawel—Circuses are just dreadful. Miss Gabby—I think they are nice. Mrs. Nawel—But you should have seen Mr. Nawel when he came home last night. His clothes were muddy and torn, and he had lost his hat, and he was so tired and sick he could hardly talk enough to tell me that he had been out to see the elephant.—Baltimore American.

ABSURD MOTIVES FOR SUICIDE.

Why did the six hundred persons whose suicides were chronicled by the Herald last year kill themselves? Strange as it may appear, in a very large majority of the cases where the causes are known the reasons appear to be absolutely trivial, and not at all sufficient to account for an act so against the prompting of nature. Yet the record stands, and is most suggestive.

Very frequently the suicides tell what prompted them to self destruction, or their friends know the motive and make it public. We find that business troubles lead the list, and that real or imaginative failure in the struggle for existence is the reason for nearly one-third of the suicides; then come physical ills account for one-fifth, domestic afflictions for a little less, crime one-tenth, love affairs one-twentieth, and other causes one-tenth. Many of these come under the general head of melancholy, which is produced by them, and run into insanity.

But when a man of normal mind, who can, in certain extraordinary cases, see a justification even for suicide, examines the causes, he is puzzled at the fact that the queer reasons stated should be sufficient. There was the case of Mrs. Ida Adams, who killed herself at No. 172 East Thirty-third street on Jan. 20, because her husband had complained of the corn beef she had provided for his dinner. There was the case of Mrs. Theodore Alcom killed herself because her husband had stayed away from home and played pinocle. That was the only complaint she made. On the first day of the year Charles W. Cook, who lodged at No. 354 Boverly, killed himself because his brother refused to lend him money, and on Feb. 26, Annie House, seven years old, took her life because her parents upbraided her for going to the theatre. In the same month Herman Kapf, of Pittsburg, took poison and died because he was scolded for playing truant, and just the day before Augustine Katz killed herself with poison, on her wedding day, because her husband didn't give her $100.

Two days after the latter, miserly Jacob Male, of No. 526 West Fifty-eighth street, shot himself because the roof of the house he lived in and owned leaked and needed repairs. Worse than that, on August 9, 1900, a man named John, of a Jersey City prison, hanged himself to escape a compulsory bath. On December 21st, Ivan Denizowicz, a Russian nihilist, killed himself in San Francisco because he had not killed the Czar of Russia. Lot had selected him for the assassination, and he feared to make the attempt. Henry F. Decker, of No. 150 West 103rd street, found himself unable to do less than find and poison himself to death. He had not the money with which to buy Christmas presents.

Yet more strange was the given reason for the suicide of Maurice Strauss, who jumped from a Fall River boat on December 14th. He wrote that he died so as to return and prove the truth of spiritualism. SOME BUSINESS REASONS. Suicides from business worry present as many queer cases as those that have preceded. In January, 1900, Charles Adams, of Phillipsburg, N. J., hanged himself because a dance for his benefit had been poorly attended. Charles W. Bryan, of Springfield, weathered the vicissitudes of a business life and then killed himself on January 23rd because trade was not what he wanted it to be. Charles A. Holdener was promoted from police sergeant to captain, in Jersey City, and then killed himself on January 1st because he feared something would go wrong in his command. On the 16th of the same month Fritz T. Hertz shot himself at No. 189 East Twenty-eighth street because creditors dunned him. Seldon does a Mohammedan community, for he accepts all things as God's will and has to fast. But Mohamed Effendi jumped into the water and drowned, near Constantinople, on February 8th, simply because he thought he had lost some money. The day before, Jacob A. Wolf, of No. 149 East Ninety-second street, inhaled gas and died because he had actually lost a sum of money. Charles Ekbon, a tailor, of No. 324 Robbins avenue, thought he had a good excuse when he took gas and died on May 18th, because he had crushed the index finger of his right hand and had to have it amputated. On August 25th, Meyer Lapotkin, of 183 Stanton street, was so depressed by a threatened strike of his employees that he hanged himself. Christmas wasn't merry for Charles H. Schiller, a jeweller, of Utica, who shot himself to death on that day because of a poor holiday trade. On December 6th, Frederick B. Russell, of New Rochelle, couldn't raise $60 to balance his account with the Club, so he killed himself with a pistol.

VICTIMS OF MELANCHOLY. Melancholy makes many suicides, but it seems that trifles often produce the melancholy. Mrs. Catherine Murry, of No. 131 West Twenty-seventh street, died from self-administered poison on March 6th, because she was not pleased with her daughter's marriage. Axel Berg, of Port Jervis, N. Y., killed himself because his son, who had been in the Puerto Rico campaign, had been killed. Jacob Als, of Brooklyn, killed himself with gas on May 5th because his motherless son had left home and married. Mrs. Emma L. French, of Cleveland, killed herself on May 23rd, because she feared she might become insane. Edwin Atkins, of Waterbury, Conn., said he had committed the unpardonable sin, and feeling that his soul was lost, shot himself on June 30. Geo. Kendall became melancholy brooding over the loss of a faithful dog, and killed himself at No. 5 Delancey street with gas on May 27th.

Naval Lieutenant Bissman, of the Russian Court, shot himself on July 30th, because the Czar upbraided him for allowing the Czarowitz to go cycling alone. Mrs. Celia Barnhart, of No. 1071 Ferriss avenue, was lonely because her children left her, and died from poison on July 21st.

There are many cases in which persons have fallen to death to escape an apparently small evil. Jan. 6th James Leno, of Brooklyn, killed himself with poison to evade arrest for non-support of his wife. Tom days afterward Luigi Lauro, also of Brooklyn, killed himself with poison to avoid arrest for a petty crime. Another Brooklyn man was Russell Nibbs, who killed himself with poison April 26th rather than submit to arrest for assaulting his wife. On July 8th Henry M. Channing, of New Haven, hanged himself because his wife sued him for non-support. August 23rd Michael Brennan, of No. 20 Renwick street, died from poison when he heard his wife sworn out a warrant for his arrest.

ON ACCOUNT OF LOVE. "Despised love" has made many suicides, and frequently when a word would have set matters right. Winston Smith, of Brooklyn, poisoned himself on February 6th on account of a few sharp words from his fiancée, Grace Summer felt she had a good excuse for dying on Feb. 24th at Mowesequa, Ill., when her sister married her old sweetheart. On March 30th Rosemary Olds, of Erie, 17 years old, shot herself to death on account of a boyish love affair.

Example is sometimes dangerous. On Jan. 30th Robert H. Hink, of Philadelphia, killed himself in a trunk and swallowed poison, just because he had read of a woman doing the same thing. On March 6th Emma Hartig took poison in "Sulcott Hall," on February 6th, because another girl had done so. There are a number of cases of suicide for insurance money. One of them was that of Horace Wall, at New York, who shot himself with himself on March 8th so his family would get the proceeds from an insurance policy. But the strangest case of all was the suicide of Mrs. Louise Fischer, of No. 221 West Twentieth street. Her husband had killed himself in December so she could get insurance money, and she promised to follow him as soon as the money was gone. She provided for the first few days of the money remaining, and then suffocated herself with gas on May 4th.—N. Y. Herald.

LOOK OUT FOR THEM!

Fakirs Whose Business is Swindling Farmers.

SIGN NO PAPERS FOR THEM. There appears to be a good many fakirs going through the country for the purpose of doing up farmers. One farmer near Woodstock signed what he believed to be a testimonial for a cattle feed. The testimonial turned out a few days later to be an order for $180 worth of the article.

Another chap is says the St. Mary's Journal, going about telling farmers that he has 12,000 head of cattle in Oregon. He is professing to buy cattle and offers about double the value of the animals purchased. He does not pay any cash, but gets free board for a few days on the strength of the purchases he is supposed to have made.

The Palm-Street Spectator says the same man has been up in that section of the country in the locality he has asked farmers to advance a sufficient amount to pay that was injured by the caterpillar.

QUEBEC UNITED

No Division of Opinion in regard to Dodd's Kidney Pills Whatever.

Miss Anna Mongron, of Grand Metis, Quebec, has been cured of her kidney trouble of years' standing by Dodd's Kidney Pills. Throughout the country it is becoming more and more known to hear of cures this famous medicine is making. The people of French Canada are not a class who are taken in by imitations or worthless preparations of any kind. They are a conservative people, and the reputation of a medicine has to be thoroughly established before they will try it. It is therefore a most convincing sign that Dodd's Kidney Pills are a sterling remedy when French Canadians throughout Quebec speak of it in the highest terms of praise, and that moreover from a knowledge based on their own experience.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are now proved to be infallible in the cure of Kidney Diseases of absolutely every nature. Bright's Disease, that terror of physicians; Diabetes, which used to be called "the stone"; Rheumatism, the affection which renders the lives of so many otherwise strong and robust men and women of Quebec miserable; and which is the accompaniment of old age nine times out of ten throughout the Lower Provinces; Heart Disease, not generally known to be the result of Kidney Disease, but which is so nevertheless; Dropsy, Urinary and Bladder Complaints, Woman's Weakness and blood disorders of all kinds yield freely and promptly to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Miss Anna Mongron, well known in Grand Metis, writes as follows concerning her cure: "I was suffering from a great pain in my side, which caused me much pain and uneasiness. I had taken three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and felt a wonderful relief. I continued to take them, and now I am perfectly cured. Considering it only fair to let the facts be known, I feel obliged to tell my friends of the virtues of Dodd's Kidney Pills and to thank that medicine for the great benefit it has received."

Cotton Mills in Egypt. Up to the present time Egypt has only been engaged in exporting its raw cotton, but it seems now that trials will be made in the land of the Nile to manufacture cotton goods from Egyptian cotton. For this purpose the Egyptian Cotton Mills, a joint company, capitalized at $800,000, will soon start the construction of spinning and weaving mills at Boulak, near Cairo. The works are proposed to have a capacity of 8750,000 kilograms of yarn and 4,950,000 metres of cotton piece goods.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constituting the system. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed, it swells and obstructs the hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nothing but ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness caused by catarrh that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

WHEN DAISY IS GRADUATED.

Girls Should Give Some Thought to Spraying Mothers.

In many of our colleges the expense of commencement has ceased to be a dread and a bugbear, distressing to poor students, because custom now ordains that every girl shall be graduated in her cap and gown. A simple uniform of some sort, inexpensive, yet characteristic, a simple knot of ribbon, or badge, or selected flower, would abundantly meet every requirement of the preparatory school, and would be decidedly better taste than a toilette involving ostentation and display. All that is necessary to bring about a desirable change in the matter is to make simplicity the fashion for our beautiful Daisies to induce them to emulate their name-flower, starting the summer fields in its exquisite white and gold, and to not the land of France and not a class who are taken in by imitations or worthless preparations of any kind. They are a conservative people, and the reputation of a medicine has to be thoroughly established before they will try it. It is therefore a most convincing sign that Dodd's Kidney Pills are a sterling remedy when French Canadians throughout Quebec speak of it in the highest terms of praise, and that moreover from a knowledge based on their own experience.

Strong Bones

In speaking about Scott's Emulsion for children, you should not forget that it contains lime and soda, just what the child must have to form strong bones and good teeth. It's this forming time you want to look after.

Growing bodies must have an easily digested fat. Just think how much of it there is in milk, as cream.

Scott's Emulsion is even more easily digested than cream. It's surprising how children thrive when given it.

Don't keep the children living on the edge of sickness all the time. Make them strong and rugged, plump and hearty. Scott's Emulsion of Cod-Liver Oil and the Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda will do this for them.
